Calm Brings End To Lost Weekend

BY AL AREND

Southwestern Michigan county road crews assisted by several National Guard units continued the tedious process of plowing out area roads this morning, hoping that winds would not drift them shut again. Continued blizzard conditions Saturday and Sunday kept most secondary roads in Berrien, Cass, Van Buren and Allegan counties impassable. Emergency conditions prevailed in all four counties yet today, as schools and many industries remained closed.

Hardest hit in the state, according to Associated Press reports, were Cass and Allegan counties, where National Guard units were called in to help clear snow and assure stranded residents received food, home heating oil or emergency care. Cass county road crews reported 20-foot high drifts on some north-south roads.

Col. H.A. Stull, commander of the National Guard unit at Dowagiac, said all 22 of his men have been out since Saturday morning, helping stranded motorists, delivering food and fuel to people, plus helping stuck snow plows.

"Some drifts are so deep that when county plows hit them, the trucks bounce off the road and get stuck," Col. Stull said. "So when that happens we help pull them out and send them on their way again."

Throughout southwestern Michigan road crews were continually hampered over the weekend by drifting snow as winds continued to gust up to 40 m.p.h. in some areas.

SNOWBOUND ARRIVAL: Arctic-type storm which grips southwestern Michigan forced home delivery of this baby Sunday morning near Covert. Mother, Mrs. John (Sherry) Oliver, 19, said her husband delivered baby while getting instructions from his mother, June, via phone. According to Mrs. Oliver, Van Buren county snow plow was needed to open 28th avenue from M-140 to Oliver house so ambulance could arrive and take her to Memorial hospital, St. Joseph. Birth occurred at about 8:15 a.m., she said. Both she and baby, Mandy Lynn, were reported doing find in Memorial where this picture was taken. Baby is second for couple and weighed 8 pounds 5 ounces. Snowmobilers Go On 2 Mercy Runs SOUTH HAVEN — At least two people in need of medical attention had to be rescued by snowmobile in the South Haven area Saturday night, according to police.

They were a 13-year-old boy who was the victim of an accidental gunshot wound and an elderly man who was found unconscious in his home.

James Helms, son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Helms, 70th street, South Haven, was listed in fair condition this morning at Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo with a gunshot wound to his lower back.

State police from the South Haven post said Helms and his 11-year-old cousin, Travis Johnson, reported they were playing "cops and robbers" in the Helms home when a .22 caliber rifle accidentally discharged.

Police and ambulance attendants were unable to reach the home in their vehicles because of snow-clogged roads. The wounded boy was placed in a sled and pulled by snowmobile to a main road where he was transferred to an ambulance.

The incident remains under investigation, police said.

The elderly man, John

McDaniel, 67, was reported in fairly stable condition today at South Haven Community hospital, suffering from an apparent stroke.

McDaniel's son, William, found his father unconscious at his home on 67th street, Geneva township, called an ambulance and three friends with a snowmobile and tagalong sled.

The three, Tom Robinson, Andy Appelhaus and Bennie Karl, all of South Haven, put the man on the sled and took him about a mile and a half to Phoenix road where the rescue unit of the South Haven fire department was waiting to transport him to the hospital.

It's Two Editions In One!

Today's edition of The Herald-Palladium is two papers in one—today's and Saturday's. Charles Bowie, circulation manager, said distribution of the paper was judged to be impossible Saturday because of the severe winter storm. Accordingly, no papers were printed Saturday and the news was held for publication today.

Today's news is in Sections 1 and 3 of the paper, and Saturday's stories fill Sections 2 and 4. Bowie explained the sections for each day are not in consecutive order because of mechanical considerations in positioning the sections on the printing press.

The Family Weekly section, normally a part of Saturday's paper, will be included in Tuesday's paper.

manager of the Cass county road commission said "It's going to be a matter of days before we get cleared out."

Berrien and Van Buren county road crews are also fighting similar conditions and report most secondary roads closed or down to one-lane traffic.

Interstate-94 was reported open by state police but I-196 was closed from Holland to Grand Rapids and snow covered and slippery from Benton Harbor to Holland.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with a chance of snow showers tonight. Tuesday's forecast calls for occasional snow flurries with the high near 20. Winds are expected to remain out of the west-northwest at 15 to 20 m.p.h.

Lost School Days Needn't Be Made Up

Berrien Intermediate School Supt. Ray Sreboth said today that school closings caused by the weather are not required to be made up later. He explained the weather is considered an "act of God," and state law specifies that school days lost for this reason need not be made up. The normal school year consists of 180 days. Sreboth did not have an exact count of the days various schools in Berrien county have lost because of storms this winter, but added that they probably ranged from five to about 10.

Big Storm Easing?-- Deep South Gets It

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

While the great winter storm was showing signs of easing some through the midwest and east today, a winter storm warning was posted today for large portions of Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi in the deep south. Two to four inches of snow, mingled with freezing rain and sleet, are predicted there.

Snow and sleet already blanketed much of the south, from Texas across Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama and into southwest Georgia and northwest Florida overnight. Meanwhile strict orders for cutbacks in fuel consumption kept millions of workers and students at home today in the frigid East and Midwest but also helped guarantee that their homes will stay warm.

The Federal Power Commission said that because at least 11 states made plans to close businesses and schools to save fuel, and four major natural gas pipeline systems reported slight increases in supplies Sunday, the threat of interrupted gas service to homes had receded.

But more than 1.5 million people were out of work — one million of these in Ohio — and thousands of schools were closed because of the strain on fuel supplies, especially natural gas, during this winter's wicked cold spells.

In Buffalo, N.Y., hardest-hit city in the nation, at least eight persons perished in the blizzard there, including seven found dead in their cars. Fifty-nine persons were arraigned Sunday on charges connected with looting stores during the paralyzing storm.

In most areas, the forecast called for at least two more days of cold weather, perhaps a few degrees warmer than during the weekend.

Both houses of Congress scheduled sessions today on an emergency natural gas bill proposed by the White House.

The bill would enable President Carter to order gas transferred from one pipeline company to another to get it to the most desperate areas.

Carter traveled Sunday to Pittsburgh, in hard-hit western Pennsylvania, to tour a turbine plant, that was partially shut down by the cold and the fuel shortage.

"I don't think there's any doubt that there is a natural gas shortage in this area," the President said. "But nationwide, if we could distribute the gas to exactly where it was needed, we would probably have enough."

Pennsylvania was among the states in which distributors had said they might have to cut off gas delivery to residences because of dwindling supplies and falling pressure.

They already had stopped servicing hundreds of businesses, and about 90,000 workers have been laid off. All state schools have been closed since Thursday, keeping more than 2.6 million pupils at home. But a Civil Defense spokesman said Sunday night in Harrisburg that the residential cutoff no longer was imminent.

"We're not out of the woods by any means, but the danger of loss of gas servicing to a community does not appear as if it's

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Regulating Regulators Is Very Tough, Indeed

Reviewing his achievements as governor of Georgia, Jimmy Carter was especially proud of his reorganization of the state government. He said several times during his campaign for the presidency that he favored a similar shakeup of the federal government. The prospect is pleasing to millions of Americans who feel that bureaucrats in Washington, D.C., have become too remote from ordinary people's concerns.

Much of the resentment against Washington's "father knows best" attitude is directed toward the federal regulatory agencies that issue rules and regulations affecting almost every U.S. citizen and business enterprise. These government bureaus are widely perceived as blind leviathans whose activities stifle individual freedom and initiative. Thus, it is easy to lose sight of the fact that regulatory agencies came into being to protect individuals from harmful business practices.

Some agencies, such as the Food and Drug Administration and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, deal with public welfare. The regulations they issue complement the existing market system. Other agencies, including the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Communications Commission, are involved in economic regulation. In effect, they replace the market system in industries where, for a variety of reasons, it may be unsatisfactory. By controlling prices and competition, economic regulation aims to compensate for instances of market failure such as monopoly.

A common complaint about agencies concerned with economic regulation is that they eventually lose sight of their intended function. Economist Walter Adams of Michigan State University complained in 1972: "What starts as regulation ends up as protection — not of the public but of the industry that is supposedly regulated." In a similar vein, former Federal Trade Commission Chairman Lewis A. Engman charged that "Most regulated industries have become federal protectorates living in the cozy world of 'cost-plus,' safely protected from the ugly specters of competition, efficiency and innovation."

Another problem is overlap and duplication among agencies. Makers of some pesticides, for example, must meet requirements of three agencies — the Environmental Protection Agency, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, and the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Obviously, then, there is ample opportunity for reform of the federal regulatory apparatus. But Carter will find that meaningful reform is difficult to effect. Many regulated industries, fearful of a return to "destructive" competition, want to preserve the status quo. Congress, jealous of its authority over regulatory agencies, has blocked attempts at their reorganization in the past. Indeed, experience shows that it is far easier to create a new federal agency than to reorganize or eliminate an existing one.

Birth Rate Jingoism Definitely No Answer

As large segments of the underdeveloped world concern themselves with population densities and growth rates which have become burdens to improving the quality of life, parts of the developed world are concerned about the reverse — a dropping birth rate.

That the birth rate has been declining in most of the advanced nations is evident from the records. What the decline in population growth means is the subject of diverse interpretation.

In France, a debate over the declining birth rate has gone on much of this year. Last New Year's Eve, President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing began the debate by stating his belief that no country with a moderate population could aspire to greatness.

Historically, that may be close to the truth. But in ages past, sheer numbers made up for the lack of productive tools and mass weapons of destruction. How times have changed and how those changes have affected population quantity and quality is a subject not well understood and only partially explored.

Just A Show-Off Word For Centigrade

As if the non-scientific mind did not feel left out of enough of the momentous events of the latter years of the 20th century, the U.S. Weather Service has to confuse the transition of metric measurements by substituting Celsius for Centigrade.

Perhaps the first awareness of Celsius by the average layman came with a time and temperature clock registering a -2 C reading. Since that was colder by 30 degrees — more or less, than the Fahrenheit temperature the layman was familiar with, a certain amount of confusion set in until the weatherman was heard using the term Celsius verbally. That really threw the layman for a loss. What happened to Centigrade, he might have asked, if presented the opportunity.

Nearly as anyone can explain it, Celsius seems to be something of a status symbol. The word itself is from Anders Celsius, 18th century Swedish astronomer and originator of the Centigrade temperature scale.

That doesn't explain why Celsius has replaced Centigrade. Time enough for that after the move to metric is mastered.

Milliken To Urge Higher Gas Tax, Car Tab Fees

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) —

Gov. William Milliken is scheduled to unveil his transportation program this week and it is likely to include proposed increases in the state gas tax and license plate fees.

The message to the Democratic legislature, expected late in the week, will get most of the attention as lawmakers spend another week organizing their committees and preparing for work on the first bills of the new session.

Milliken aides said the final touches have not been put on the transportation program, which is one of the governor's highest priorities for 1977. It will touch off a major battle in the legislature between supporters of the highway lobby, public transportation backers and various interest groups.

The governor wants it this year, and as early as possible," said William Rusten, an aide to the governor.

Rusten said the package will include recommendations to hike the state gasoline tax by a cent or two, a major increase in car registration fees, and perhaps other small tax or fee increases.

Rusten said the governor apparently has rejected the idea of raising money from nontransportation sources, such as the property transfer tax. But reportedly the license plate registration fee may be changed from the present fee based on the car's weight to one based on the value of the car.

The tax and fee increases will produce about $150 million to be used to improve public transportation across the state. Rusten said that would include proposals for subways in cities other than Detroit, and more money for railroads, bus service and highways.

Once again, Milliken will propose that all highway and transportation money be lumped together into a "total transportation fund." Highway supporters have fought to keep road money, raised by gas and weight taxes, separate from money used for public transportation and thus guaranteed for road use only.

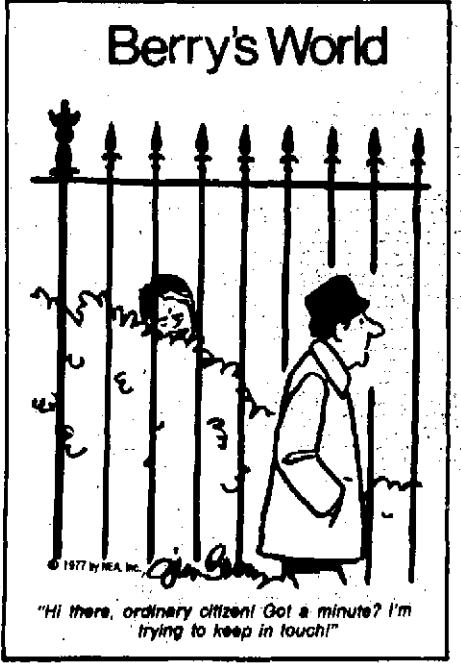

Milliken and transportation experts in the legislature tried to hurdle through a tax package late last year. But it foundered on lawmakers' reluctance to increase revenues without deciding yet how to spend the money.

The transportation program will face tough going in the legislature because it affects a wide variety of interest groups, including truckers, road commissions, oil companies, the Teamsters Union, auto companies and mass transit organizations. In addition, lawmakers representing out-state areas have little public pressure to spend money on anything but roads.

The legislature, meanwhile, will spend most of its second full week organizing committees and scheduling the first bills for consideration. The committee assignments were handed down by Democratic leaders last week.

The Senate may take a final vote on its first major bill, a measure to protect low-income homeowners from reductions in property tax credits. The bill restricts the definition of household income to exclude insurance payments, thus making claimants eligible for larger tax credits.

COLLINS SUCCEDES
NEW YORK (AP) — G. Sumner Collins, husband of financial columnist Sylvia Porter and general promotion manager of Hearst Newspapers, died Saturday after a long illness. He was 73.

Tom Tiede MIAs Still Not Laid To Rest

WASHINGTON — One year after World War II the government was able to declare without problem that all 6,058 men missing in action were dead. Proper benefits were distributed to survivors and so the concerned relatives were officially set free to begin new lives. The same quick action was taken after Korea.

But four years after the nation stopped fighting in Vietnam, and two years after the last G.I. left Saigon, nearly 800 men continue to be listed as MIAs, and hundreds of anguished families continue to dangle on a gossamer thread of faith they may still be alive.

They are almost certainly not alive. The United States has conducted an MIA search unparalleled in history, and a thoroughly efficient Congressional probe has recently decided there are no living MIAs. Yet the casualties are not laid to rest; the families argue over small odds, and the wretchedly sensitive controversy seems endless.

There is a culprit in all this: The National League of Families of Prisoners of War and Missing in Action. It is the group formed to offer support and group therapy for the war families, and for many years it did just that. Now, according to increasing numbers of Washington observers, its original good purpose has turned sour.

"The League's usefulness has run out," says Rep. G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery (D. Miss.). He chaired a 15-month investigation of the MIA issue, concluding that the men "lost their lives in the service of their country." He says extending the debate now is "dragging it through the mud," and wishes the League of Families would disband "in dignity."

Montgomery does not rap the League with any relish. Nor does he do it lightly. When it was organized in the 1960s the League was a selfless effort by courageous wives to bring the plight of their husbands into the public arena. As such the group was sentimentally adopted by a concerned nation. Many still remember it in this light.

But the League has changed — for the worse. Many of its officers are now salaried instead of volunteers. Its director, formerly with VIVA magazine, is of no relation to a POW or MIA. A member of Montgomery's Congressional staff says the group "has become a bureaucracy, and you have to wonder if its main objective is to perpetuate itself."

Whatever the League's motives, its influence among MIA families remains strong. It is now particularly influential among MIA parents, who see it as their difference between hope and no hope. Many wives have dropped out of the League, while others stay only to avoid arguments with those parents who refuse to admit the death of their sons.

Montgomery says he is concerned most about the wives. "I talk with them and get letters from them — they say they want to get on with their lives, but can't until this thing is settled." And here is where the League's fault is blatant. It won't let the matter settle. It won't close the books. The League says Montgomery's investigation was shallow and insists some of the MIAs may still be alive.

The evidence is absolutely contrary to the League's position. Of the 6,058 MIAs in World War II, for example, not one has since turned up living. Of the 5,127 MIAs in Korea, none have returned. Montgomery says some Vietnam remains (perhaps 150 to 200) may be recoverable, and should be recovered, but any higher expectations are illusory.

Montgomery says the disappointments have been repeated enough. Some wives have tried to escape by taking secret new husbands. Some families have become so emotionally confused they refuse to identify returned remains. Suffering for many is well into its second decade. It's time to bring it to an end. The League of Families is perpetuating irrationality; the conclusion is harsh but accurate.

Marianne Means Due For Cleaning Civil Service

WASHINGTON — The new Carter administration is moving rapidly to take command of the sprawling Federal bureaucracy.

A high priority has been given to rooting out the Nixon and Ford appointees who have been burrowing frantically the past two months into the merit system, where they hoped to hang on to high-paying jobs despite their Republican background.

The Civil Service Commission, which has been accused of making political job referrals during the Nixon years and undermining the career service, has suddenly snapped to attention and begun investigating political hanky-panky. It is probing phony reorganization schemes, under which political appointees were switched to career status, in practically every major department.

Goaded on by bad publicity, as well as the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and Rep. Morris Udall, the CSC has blocked five recent job conversions at ACTION, the agency most blatant about abusing the merit system. CSC declared in the employees' status to be illegal.

Among the employees thwarted are Inspector General Edward Locke, who earned $38,000 a year, and personnel director Richard Tobin, who earned a similar salary.

The CSC is still studying other suspicious job conversions at ACTION. One indication of ACTION's over-partisanship is that a Federal grand jury recently indicted Alan May, its former hiring director, for allegedly conducting a partisan hiring program in violation of civil service rules.

Rep. Udall, dubious of CSC's dedication to the merit system, has written to several agencies and requested all planned reorganization schemes be halted. He has also prodded CSC officials.

New Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Pat Harris was smuggled a copy of a proposed GOP reorganization plan in her department a month ago, and is expected to rescind recent job changes as one of her first actions. Health Education and Welfare Secretary Joe Califano has similarly been alerted to the problem.

A lawsuit has been filed in district court here on behalf of 10 HUD employees transferred under a reorganization they claim was improper.

CSC chairman Robert Hampton, a Nixon appointee who has reportedly acknowledged using the agency to plant political hacks in supposedly merit jobs, is expected to resign soon.

The leading contender for his post is Julie Sugarman, a moving force in the development of Head Start, the educational program for pre-schoolers. He is also a former adviser to ex-New York Mayor John Lindsay. Sugarman met Carter while serving as budget officer for the City of Atlanta.

Carter has pledged to return efficiency and ability to the government apparatus; a good way to begin would be to strengthen the career service. Democratic congressmen and Carter advisers became alarmed after the election when complaints began to pour in about high-level Republicans trying to hang on by taking career jobs.

Fire Kills 22

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Twenty-two persons died in a fire that burned out two houses, a rice mill and two vehicles in Baloi, in the southern Philippines, the Times Journal reported today.

Military authorities in the town 300 miles south of Manila said the fire was started before dawn Sunday by the explosion of a gasoline tank in the rice mill.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Regulating Regulators Is Very Tough, Indeed

Reviewing his achievements as governor of Georgia, Jimmy Carter was especially proud of his reorganization of the state government. He said several times during his campaign for the presidency that he favored a similar shakeup of the federal government. The prospect is pleasing to millions of Americans who feel that bureaucrats in Washington, D.C., have become too remote from ordinary people's concerns.

Much of the resentment against Washington's "father knows best" attitude is directed toward the federal regulatory agencies that issue rules and regulations affecting almost every U.S. citizen and business enterprise. These government bureaus are widely perceived as blind leviathans whose activities stifle individual freedom and initiative. Thus, it is easy to lose sight of the fact that regulatory agencies came into being to protect individuals from harmful business practices.

Some agencies, such as the Food and Drug Administration and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, deal with public welfare. The regulations they issue complement the existing market system. Other agencies, including the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Communications Commission, are involved in economic regulation. In effect, they replace the market system in industries where, for a variety of reasons, it may be unsatisfactory. By controlling prices and competition, economic regulation aims to compensate for instances of market failure such as monopoly.

A common complaint about agencies concerned with economic regulation is that they eventually lose sight of their intended function. Economist Walter Adams of Michigan State University complained in 1972: "What starts as regulation ends up as protection — not of the public but of the industry that is supposedly regulated." In a similar vein, former Federal Trade Commission Chairman Lewis A. Engman charged that "Most regulated industries have become federal protectorates living in the cozy world of 'cost-plus,' safely protected from the ugly specters of competition, efficiency and innovation."

Another problem is overlap and duplication among agencies. Makers of some pesticides, for example, must meet requirements of three agencies — the Environmental Protection Agency, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, and the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Obviously, then, there is ample opportunity for reform of the federal regulatory apparatus. But Carter will find that meaningful reform is difficult to effect. Many regulated industries, fearful of a return to "destructive" competition, want to preserve the status quo. Congress, jealous of its authority over regulatory agencies, has blocked attempts at their reorganization in the past. Indeed, experience shows that it is far easier to create a new federal agency than to reorganize or eliminate an existing one.

Birth Rate Jingoism Definitely No Answer

As large segments of the underdeveloped world concern themselves with population densities and growth rates which have become burdens to improving the quality of life, parts of the developed world are concerned about the reverse — a dropping birth rate.

That the birth rate has been declining in most of the advanced nations is evident from the records. What the decline in population growth means is the subject of diverse interpretation.

In France, a debate over the declining birth rate has gone on much of this year. Last New Year's Eve, President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing began the debate by stating his belief that no country with a moderate population could aspire to greatness.

Historically, that may be close to the truth. But in ages past, sheer numbers made up for the lack of productive tools and mass weapons of destruction. How times have changed and how those changes have affected population quantity and quality is a subject not well understood and only partially explored.

Just A Show-Off Word For Centigrade

As if the non-scientific mind did not feel left out of enough of the momentous events of the latter years of the 20th century, the U.S. Weather Service has to confuse the transition of metric measurements by substituting Celsius for Centigrade.

Perhaps the first awareness of Celsius by the average layman came with a time and temperature clock registering a -2 C reading. Since that was colder by 30 degrees — more or less, than the Fahrenheit temperature the layman was familiar with, a certain amount of confusion set in until the weatherman was heard using the term Celsius verbally. That really threw the layman for a loss. What happened to Centigrade, he might have asked, if presented the opportunity.

Nearly as anyone can explain it, Celsius seems to be something of a status symbol. The word itself is from Anders Celsius, 18th century Swedish astronomer and originator of the Centigrade temperature scale.

That doesn't explain why Celsius has replaced Centigrade. Time enough for that after the move to metric is mastered.

Milliken To Urge Higher Gas Tax, Car Tab Fees

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) —

Gov. William Milliken is scheduled to unveil his transportation program this week and it is likely to include proposed increases in the state gas tax and license plate fees.

The message to the Democratic legislature, expected late in the week, will get most of the attention as lawmakers spend another week organizing their committees and preparing for work on the first bills of the new session.

Milliken aides said the final touches have not been put on the transportation program, which is one of the governor's highest priorities for 1977. It will touch off a major battle in the legislature between supporters of the highway lobby, public transportation backers and various interest groups.

"The governor wants it this year, and as early as possible," said William Rustem, an aide to the governor.

Rustem said the package will include recommendations to hike the state gasoline tax by a cent or two, a major increase in car registration fees, and perhaps other small tax or fee increases.

Rustem said the governor apparently has rejected the idea of raising money from nontransportation sources, such as the property transfer tax. But reportedly the license plate registration fee may be changed from the present fee based on the car's weight to one based on the value of the car.

The tax and fee increases will produce about $150 million to be used to improve public transportation across the state. Rustem said that would include proposals for subways in cities other than Detroit, and more money for railroads, bus service and highways.

Once again, Milliken will propose that all highway and transportation money be lumped together into a "total transportation fund." Highway supporters have fought to keep road money, raised by gas and weight taxes, separate from money used for public transportation and thus guaranteed for road use only.

Milliken and transportation experts in the legislature tried to hustle through a tax package late last year. But it foundered on lawmakers' reluctance to increase revenues without deciding yet how to spend the money.

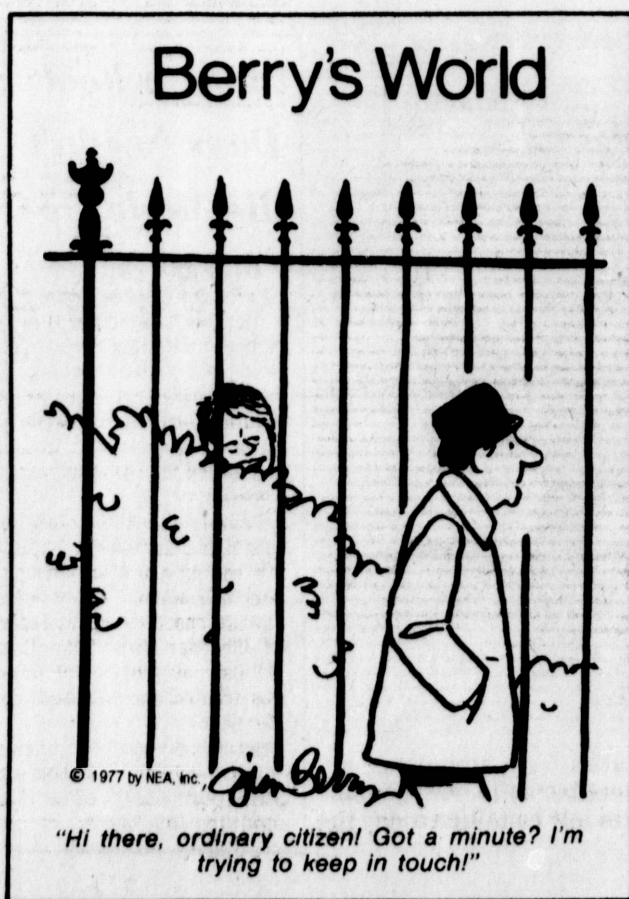

The transportation program will face tough going in the legislature because it affects a wide variety of interest groups, including truckers, road commissions, oil companies, the Teamsters Union, auto companies and mass transit organizations. In addition, lawmakers representing out-state areas have little public pressure to spend money on anything but roads.

The legislature, meanwhile, will spend most of its second full week organizing committees and scheduling the first bills for consideration. The committee assignments were handed down by Democratic leaders last week.

The Senate may take a final vote on its first major bill, a measure to protect low-income homeowners from reductions in property tax credits. The bill restricts the definition of household income to exclude insurance payments, thus making claimants eligible for larger tax credits.

MIAs Still Not Laid To Rest

WASHINGTON — One year after World War II the government was able to declare without problem that all 6,058 men missing in action were dead. Proper benefits were distributed to survivors and so the concerned relatives were officially set free to begin new lives. The same quick action was taken after Korea.

But four years after the nation stopped fighting in Vietnam, and two years after the last G.I. left Saigon, nearly 800 men continue to be listed as MIAs, and hundreds of anguished families continue to dangle on a gossamer thread of faith they may still be alive.

They are almost certainly not alive. The United States has conducted an MIA search unparalleled in history, and a thoroughly efficient Congressional probe has recently decided there are no living MIAs. Yet the casualties are not laid to rest; the families argue over small odds, and the wretchedly sensitive controversy seems endless.

There is a culprit in all this: The National League of Families of Prisoners of War and Missing in Action. It is the group formed to offer support and group therapy for the war families, and for many years it did just that. Now, according to Washington observers, its original good purpose has turned sour.

"The League's usefulness has run out," says Rep. G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery (D. Miss.). He chaired a 15-month investigation of the MIA issue, concluding that the men "lost their lives in the service of their country." He says extending the debate now is "dragging it through the mud," and wishes the League of Families would disband "in dignity."

Montgomery does not rap the League with any relish. Nor does he do it lightly. When it was organized in the 1960s the League was a selfless effort by courageous wives to bring the plight of their husbands into the public arena. As such the group was sentimentally adopted by a concerned nation. Many still remember it in this light.

But the League has changed — for the worse. Many of its officers are now salaried instead of volunteers. Its director, formerly with VIVA magazine, is of no relation to a POW or MIA. A member of Montgomery's Congressional staff says the group "has become a bureaucracy, and you have to wonder if its main objective is to perpetuate itself."

Whatever the League's motives, its influence among MIA families remains strong. It is now particularly influential among MIA parents, who see it as their difference between hope and no hope. Many wives have dropped out of the League, while others stay only to avoid arguments with those parents who refuse to admit the death of their sons.

Montgomery says he is concerned most about the wives. "I talk with them and get letters from them — they say they want to get on with their lives, but can't until this thing is settled." And here is where the League's fault is blatant. It won't let the matter settle. It won't close the books. The League says Montgomery's investigation was shallow and insists some of the MIAs may still be alive.

The evidence is absolutely contrary to the League's position. Of the 6,058 MIAs in World War II, as example, not one has since turned up living. Of the 5,127 MIAs in Korea, none have returned. Montgomery says some Vietnam remains (perhaps 150 to 200) may be recoverable, and should be recovered, but any higher expectations are illusory.

Montgomery says the disappointments have been repeated enough. Some wives have tried to escape by taking secret new husbands. Some families have become so emotionally confused they refuse to identify returned remains. Suffering for many is well into its second decade. It's time to bring it to an end. The League of Families is perpetuating irrationality; the conclusion is harsh but accurate.

Due For Cleaning Civil Service

WASHINGTON — The new Carter administration is moving rapidly to take command of the sprawling Federal bureaucracy. A high priority has been given to rooting out the Nixon and Ford appointees who have been burrowing frantically the past two months into the merit system, where they hoped to hang on to high-paying jobs despite their Republican background.

The Civil Service Commission, which has been accused of making political job referrals during the Nixon years and undermining the career service, has suddenly snapped to attention and begun investigating political hanky-panky. It is probing phony reorganization schemes, under which political appointees were switched to career status, in practically every major department.

Goaded on by bad publicity, as well as the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and Rep. Morris Udall, the CSC has blocked five recent job conversions at ACTION, the agency most blatant about abusing the merit system. CSC declared in the employees' status to be illegal.

Among the employees thwarted are Inspector General Edward Locke, who earned $36,093 a year, and personnel director Richard Tobin, who earned a similar salary.

The CSC is still studying other suspicious job conversions at ACTION. One indication of ACTION's over-partisanship is that a Federal grand jury recently indicted Alan May, its former hiring director, for allegedly conducting a partisan hiring program in violation of civil service rules.

Rep. Udall, dubious of CSC's dedication to the merit system, has written to several agencies and requested all planned reorganization schemes be halted. He has also prodded CSC officials.

New Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Pat Harris was smuggled a copy of a proposed GOP reorganization plan in her department a month ago, and is expected to rescind recent job changes as one of her first actions. Health Education and Welfare Secretary Joe Califano has similarly been alerted to the problem.

A lawsuit has been filed in district court here on behalf of 10 HUD employees transferred under a reorganization they claim was improper.

CSC chairman Robert Hampton, a Nixon appointee who has reportedly acknowledged using the agency to plant political hacks in supposedly merit jobs, is expected to resign soon.

The leading contender for his post is Jule Sugarman, a moving force in the development of Head Start, the educational program for pre-schoolers. He is also a former adviser to ex-New York Mayor John Lindsay. Sugarman met Carter while serving as budget officer for the City of Atlanta.

division to pull groceries home on a sled. "It was tough," Mrs. Bok reported. "Sometimes they sank into drifts up to their waists and had to climb out. They were worn out."

Neighbors warded off boredom gathering together for popcorn, a fire, cards and hot cocoa. It was almost like "the good old days."

Berrien Clergy Slate Bishop As Headliner

The Rev. Dr. Edsel A. Ammons, Michigan bishop of the United Methodist church, will be the guest speaker at the 98th annual meeting of the Berrien County Council of Churches Feb. 10. The Rev. Arnold R. Bolin, executive director of the council, said the meeting will be held at the First United Methodist church, 3003 Leo court, St. Joseph township. A punch bowl period will begin the event at 6 p.m., dinner will be served at 6:30 and the meeting will start about 7:30, he said.

Bishop Ammons became Michigan's resident bishop last fall after serving as a faculty member at Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill.

Worship leader for the meeting will be the Rev. Dr. Duane M. Vore, executive director of the Michigan Council of Churches.

"Dr. Vore is known to many in this area because of his long service as Michigan Conference minister of the United Church of Christ, prior to assumption of his present duties last year," said the Rev. Bolin.

"We are privileged to have two outstanding churchmen coming to our annual meeting," he said. "This meeting is always a highlight in the religious activity of the area, and all interested persons are urged to attend."

New officers will be elected during the meeting, and they will be installed by the Rev. Donald Adkins. Completing a two-year presidency will be the Rev. Lovell J. Sorrell. Nominated to succeed him is Mrs. Ruth L. Lacker.

Reports on 1976 will be distributed, and displays will be set up by the American Bible Society and GROP, a food program operated by the Church World Service.

Dinner tickets are $3.50 each. Admission to the public meeting after dinner is free.

Tickets must be purchased, either in person or by mail, by Feb. 7. They are available at the Council of Churches office, 305 Lake boulevard, St. Joseph; First United Methodist church, host church for the meeting; and Wesley United Methodist church, 29 North 3rd street, Niles.

Four Die On State Highways

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Four persons died over the weekend in Michigan traffic accidents, state police said, including two 16-year-old Saginaw women who were killed the snowmobile they were riding collided with a car.

State police said Dawn McChesney and Roseann Konsdorf, both of Saginaw, died Saturday afternoon in the snowmobile mishap in Saginaw County's Thomas Township.

The other weekend traffic fatality victims were identified by state police as:

—Susan N. Cruikshank, 22, of Ewart, who died Saturday afternoon in a car-train collision in Oshtemo County.

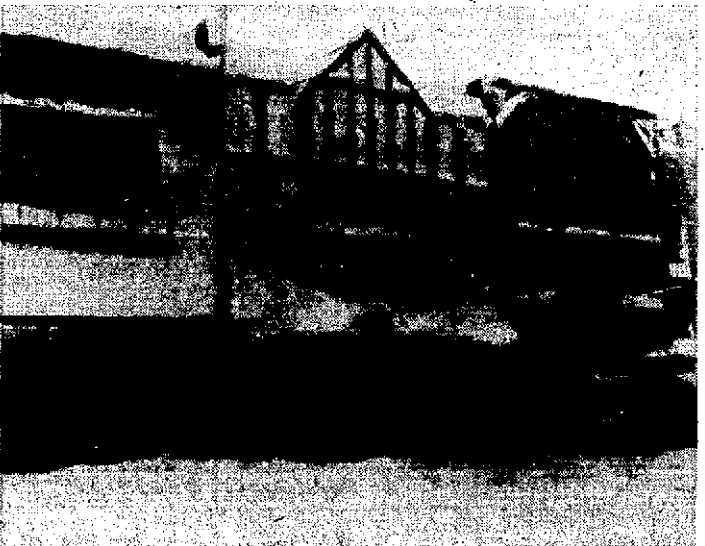

—Vernon Dickey, 30, of E. Detroit, the driver of a car that collided broadside with another vehicle Saturday afternoon in Warren, in Macomb County.

Mercy Gets OK For Five More Kidney Machines

Benton Harbor Mercy hospital has received state permission to install five more hemodialysis (kidney treatment) units to add to the five units now in use, according to the Michigan Department of Health.

State approval of a certificate of need for the units was required before the units can be purchased by Mercy, according to Larry Payne, a public information officer for the Department of Health.

C.T. Loftus, Mercy administrator, said earlier that the hospital has budgeted $68,000 for the purchase. He said patient demand for the blood cleansing units has increased since the hospital began dialysis about a year and a half ago. The units at Mercy are the only ones in Berrien, Cass or Van Buren counties, he said. They are now used on two shifts a day.

Payne said the project will be completed by spring.

Mercy's application for the units went to the Division of Health Facility Planning and Construction of the Department of Health in November. Approval of the certificate was announced Jan. 27, Payne said.

CRASHES BLAMED ON BAD WEATHER

Three State Troopers Injured

Three state troopers of the Benton Harbor post were injured in two traffic crashes blamed on the weather over the weekend.

Trooper Gary Chappell, 32, was listed in "fair" condition this morning at Mercy hospital after a head-on collision Saturday afternoon, troopers reported. Trooper Ronald W. Olson, 26, also involved in the crash, was treated and released from Mercy.

Sgt. Gary Ernst, also working out of the Benton Harbor state police post, was listed in "fair" condition at Mercy hospital today after being involved in a multi-vehicle crash on I-94 Friday morning.

Olson, who was driving the emergency vehicle, was trying to skirt a large snow drift on M-140, north of Territorial road, Bainbridge township, when the accident occurred. No tickets were issued, troopers said.

Benton township police reported Margaret J. Sanders, 19, and Jesse Sanders, 21, both of 1946 East Britain avenue, were treated and released at Mercy hospital Sunday after they were injured in a collision on Crystal avenue.

Police said a car driven by Margaret Sanders collided with one driven by Rodney R. Struble, 28, of Box 103, while both drivers were attempting to avoid a snow drift. No tickets were issued.

No injuries were reported Sunday when a Berrien county snow plow, driven by Russell Painter, 31, of 846 Lewis, St. Joseph, collided with an auto driven by Ernest H. Williams, 48, of 309 Marquette, Lincoln township, while the plow was trying to clear a snow drift on Red Arrow highway, east of North Crystal avenue, said Benton township police. No tickets were issued.

Dog Clinic Is Rescheduled

James Lull, Bainbridge township treasurer, has announced that a dog clinic originally scheduled for last Saturday has been rescheduled to Wednesday, Feb. 2, at the Spinks Corners Fruit exchange. The clinic will be held from 8 p.m. Saturday's clinic was canceled due to bad weather.

CRASHES BLAMED ON BAD WEATHER Three State Troopers Injured

Three state troopers of the Benton Harbor post were injured in two traffic crashes blamed on the weather over the weekend.

Trooper Gary Chappell, 32, was listed in "fair" condition this morning at Mercy hospital after a head-on collision Saturday afternoon, troopers reported. Trooper Ronald W. Olson, 26, also involved in the crash, was treated and released from Mercy.

Sgt. Gary Ernst, also working out of the Benton Harbor state police post, was listed in "fair" condition at Mercy hospital today after being involved in a multi-vehicle crash on I-94 Friday morning.

Olson and Chappell were injured when the four-wheel drive emergency vehicle in which they were patrolling collided with a car driven by Rene M. Secor, 21, of Dowagiac, troopers said. She was treated and released at Mercy hospital after the accident.

Olson, who was driving the emergency vehicle, was trying to skirt a large snow drift on M-140, north of Territorial road, Bainbridge township, when the accident occurred. No tickets were issued, troopers said.

Benton township police reported Margaret J. Sanders, 19, and Jesse Sanders, 21, both of 1946 East Britain avenue, were treated and released at Mercy hospital Sunday after they were injured in a collision on Crystal avenue.

Police said a car driven by Margaret Sanders collided with one driven by Rodney R. Struble, 28, of Box 103, while both drivers were attempting to avoid a snow drift. No tickets were issued.

No injuries were reported Sunday when a Berrien county snow plow, driven by Russell Painter, 51, of 846 Lewis, St. Joseph, collided with an auto driven by Ernest H. Williams, 48, of 509 Marquette, Lincoln township, while the plow was trying to clear a snow drift on Red Arrow highway, east of North Crystal avenue, said Benton township police. No tickets were issued.

Dog Clinic Is Rescheduled

James Lull, Bainbridge township treasurer, has announced that a dog clinic originally scheduled for last Saturday has been rescheduled to Wednesday, Feb. 2, at the Spinks Corners Fruit exchange. The clinic will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. Saturday's clinic was canceled due to bad weather.

Women Own More Securities

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — Men used to say to women, you're not equipped to deal with money. Leave the figures to us, dear.

As you must have noticed, that's changing.

By 1980, almost half the population of American women will be working," says Myrna Liebowitz, "and they own more than 51 per cent of the securities. They want to control their money now, and learn about it."

Miss Liebowitz, president of the Women's Stockbrokers Association, is doing her best to help.

A stockbroker for 15 years, member of the firm Herzfeld & Stern, she began giving her seminar called "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Personal Finances and Were Afraid to Ask," in May, '75, in the New York area, at a cost of approximately $40 for three evening sessions.

She also addresses women's groups, appears on local television and says, yes, when corporations ask her to conduct a seminar in banking or credit, to "raise the level of those women they want to advance in management."

Well, you say. We should know why it's vital to leave a will (so you, and not the government, decide where your assets will go) and whether or not to hire an accountant to do your taxes (yes, if you have a lot of deductions).

But stocks and bonds? Surely you jest. Where's the money supposed to come from for that?

Do you know where it's going now? Miss Liebowitz will reply, if you're not on a budget, chances are you don't.

"A woman needs a budget so she can control what's coming in and going out. First of all, cash disbursements — what you spend on newspapers, transportation, lunches, etc. — should comprise only five or ten per cent. Pay for everything else by check: clothing, food, etc. At the end of a month, you'll have facts and figures at your disposal and you'll know where your money is going.

Then you can do something about your extravagances. If you're a clotheshorse, start waiting for sales. If you leave your money in the cash register at the A&P, "watch for specials at different supermarkets and buy house brands when possible. Also, shop after you've eaten so you won't give in to impulse buying, and always bring a list and stick to it."

You can "find" money by bringing your lunch to work or by spending less on pantyhose, and on and on.

And if you really don't know a stock from a bond, you've got to do some homework. "Take an adult education class at a local college or one that a brokerage firm gives."

Then, to decide where and how you're going to invest, read the newspaper every day because "current events are the most important thing. Through that everything else comes. And read the financial newspapers to get a sense of the economy and how the country is going. When Carter was elected, he said he wants to put his area of growth in our natural energy resources, so you can glean from that that maybe you should investigate natural resources."

Or, "if you're using a good hair preparation or cosmetic or disinfectant, look into that company. See what the growth rate is. If the product has good promotion and display. Check up on the company with a copy of the Standard & Poor's sheet which you can get from any brokerage firm."

Okay, you're now ready to take a shot — provided you acknowledge the risk. "There's a risk in everything," she says, "but if inflation is six and one-half per cent and you get, say five and one-fourth per cent dividend on a savings account, you're losing one and one-fourth per cent. The whole idea is to keep ahead of inflation so you have more purchasing power."

The time has come to select a stockbroker and you do that first by asking friends for recommendations. "Then," she says, "you should call a few brokers and set up a consultation but always ask if there's a fee involved." Then decide whether or not you want to consult with the broker who charges one.

"Never choose a broker you don't have a good rapport with or who won't give you direct answers, i.e., why he thinks such and such stock will go up. Or one who makes you feel your questions are too trivial." It's your money, after all.

And when you're all set and you've started to fill your portfolio with natural gas or frozen foods, it won't hurt to do one more thing: pray.

Open House Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stubelt, 5787 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, will be honored for their 40th wedding anniversary at an open house at their home from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6.

Friends and relatives are invited to the event being hosted by the couple's children, Dennis of Connecticut, Mrs. Mel (Sharon) Felker of St. Joseph, and Garrell and Stanley, both of Rainbridge.

Walter Stubelt and the former Miss Hattie Lester were married Feb. 7, 1937, by the late Rev. H.C. Haase at St. Matthew's Evangelical Lutheran church, Benton Harbor.

The couple has eight grandchildren.

Family Film Night

Three films, two on snow skiing, will be featured for Family Film Night Tuesday, Feb. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph.

"Winter Day" attempts to capture the mood and pace of a day in a ski resort, and "This Is Canada - Ski Time in Jasper" shows skiing in Jasper National park in the Canadian Rockies. The film "Automania," a lighthearted animated spoof on the world of the automobile, will also be shown.

A story hour for preschool through second grade children is held every Saturday at the library at 11 a.m. February story hours will feature "Rackety Raccoon and his Story Hour: Friends," and celebrations of Lincoln's birthday, Valentine's Day and Washington's birthday.

Memorabilia dealing with the history of the library will be in the display case during February. The display has been prepared by Anne Slobbe, head librarian, and Barbara Troost, staff member.

New books at the library include "Season in Purgatory" by Thomas Kennealy; "The Winding Stair" by Francis Bacon; "His Rise and Fall" by Daphne du Maurier; and "The Masaryks: The Making of Czechoslovakia" by Zbynek Zeman.

Tips For Buying Rackets

NEW YORK, N.Y. — When Chris Evert started playing tennis in 1958, there were only five or six good rackets being made, and all were wood.

Since then, the tennis market has been overwhelmed with a confusing array of rackets made of steel, aluminum, boron, graphite and fiberglass. How do you choose the best racket for you? The February issue of Seventeen magazine gives a few buying tips.

Beginners: A used racket or a discount store cheapie ($10-$15) will suffice, as long as it isn't too heavy.

Weight and grip size: A light racket, weighing 13 to 13½ ounces before stringing, is best, with a grip size of four and one-fourth to four and one-half inches for most girls. As a guideline for choosing grip size, measure the distance from the tip of your middle finger to the farther of the two deep cross-ways lines on your palm, but be sure to consider the feel of the grip, also.

Once you've caught the tennis bug, the kind of racket you need depends on your style. If you slam the ball with all your might, or you have a "big" serve but erratic ground strokes, you need as stiff a racket as possible.

If your ground strokes are good but not your serve, you need a racket that has little wind resistance, so that you can snap its head through the air more easily. Most of the split-throat rackets, especially steel, aluminum and graphite, have that quality.

If you're not sure what your style is, don't worry. Borrow the rackets of other good players and take your time trying them. You'll know when you have found the right racket for you.

Tips For Buying Rackets

NEW YORK, N.Y. — When Chris Evert started playing tennis in 1958, there were only five or six good rackets being made, and all were wood.

Since then, the tennis market has been overwhelmed with a confusing array of rackets made of steel, aluminum, boron, graphite and fiberglass. How do you choose the best racket for you? The February issue of Seventeen magazine gives a few buying tips.

Beginners: A used racket or a discount store cheapie ($10-$15) will suffice, as long as it isn't too heavy.

Weight and grip size: A light racket, weighing 13 to 13½ ounces before stringing, is best, with a grip size of four and one-fourth to four and one-half inches for most girls. As a guideline for choosing grip size, measure the distance from the tip of your middle finger to the farther of the two deep crossways lines on your palm, but be sure to consider the feel of the grip, also.

Once you've caught the tennis bug, the kind of racket you need depends on your style. If you slam the ball with all your might, or you have a "big" serve but erratic ground strokes, you need a stiff racket as possible.

If your ground strokes are good but not your serve, you need a racket that has little wind resistance, so that you can snap its head through the air more easily. Most of the split-throat rackets, especially steel, aluminum and graphite, have that quality.

If you're not sure what your style is, don't worry. Borrow the rackets of other good players and take your time trying them. You'll know when you have found the right racket for you.

Named Winner

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Olga Broumas, a visiting instructor in women's studies at the University of Oregon, has been named winner of the Yale Series of Younger Poets competition for her volume "Beginning With O."

Broumas, a feminist poet, is the first winner of this competition to write in English as an adopted language. She was born on the island of Syros, Greece.

Club Circuit

VETERANS OF WORLD WAR I, BARRACKS 582, AND LADIES AUXILIARY will meet at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 5, at Memorial hall, St. Joseph, for a potluck dinner. A business meeting will follow at 2 p.m. The dinner committee includes Mrs. Jeanette Farquhar, Mrs. Lula Finnegan and Mrs. Louella Garlanger.

Consider Eggs For Dinner

When you're pressed for time, consider eggs for dinner. They're nature's own convenience food — quick and easy to prepare in a variety of ways. Scrambled, poached or folded into an omelet, eggs make a nutritious meal-in-a-hurry.

Paris Designers Show Feminine Fashions

By SUZY PATTERSON
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The comeback of a really feminine woman is the couture news for next summer. She's as female as Eve, as gynephet-sexy as Lolita, as pampered as Scarlett O'Hara.

After years of slick, hard-edge chic, and transitions of recent seasons, the Paris designers have gone all out for silhouettes that men would like to look at, and touch.

It's a step back for women's lib, maybe, but a boon for anybody who likes to, and has the means to, dress up.

Paris high fashion may be remote and inaccessible to ordinary mortals, but it's still alive and vital, as a great show to promote the couture's sidelines.

Folklore is ever present, but peasant and other more exotic outfits are more refined than ever.

Voluptuous and curvy, the clothes show new suppleness, especially in gathered tops and ballooning full sleeves, full dirrds or knife-pleated skirts of every possible pleat width. And there's a ruffle explosion that looks like more than a passing fancy.

Soft fabrics floating by in clouds of fabulous colors go side by side with bubbly lightweight taffeta, adorned with miles of maypole ribbons, eyelet, lace and fringe. Long double skirts with duster ruffles or aprons go back to our tiny-typed ancestors. It's as fussy and complicated as it sounds, but the great designers manage to put it together coherently.

Couture lengths are debatable for daytime, and the consensus is mostly below the knee. The mini is not quite a comeback, though Carlin and a couple of others hewed very brief tunics in sportswear. The knee peeked out shyly at Dior and more boldly at Balmain. Bouncy knee-length evening dresses at Balmain and Givenchy look like a trend to come.

Designers nearly passed up women's trousers, but Saint Laurent gave them a new look with boxy jackets piped in braid paired with blouses cinched by bowed pterot ruffled necks and cuffs.

Colors for daytime are as soft as the cotton voile, flannel, jersey, or crepe de chine fabrics. They start with white and beige, and range through navy and some pastel shades with big dashes of bright red or green for good measure.

But Paris couture was mainly a soiree story. Draped or bias-cut Greek tunics at Cardin vied with floppy bloused tunics in a length from Renaissance inspiration at the house of Schiaparelli for a return to ancient history.

Other influences marked the shows — especially Spanish. Creole, gypsy and Victorian grandmas, the latter at Saint Laurent.

His romantic ruffles applied in profusion to scoop or high necks, shepherdess sleeves, and all the way down skirts looked like beacons for next year's ready-to-wear.

Nudity is fine for next summer, as long as you show it under a very expensive, possibly ruffled transparent gown, as at Saint Laurent, Cardin, and Hanae Mori. Small bosoms at the couture shows bounced gently by, and little evidence of bras was seen — which is OK for a streamlined model.

The peasant girls who appeared a couple of seasons ago in Paris ready-to-wear got a new lift. At Lanvin they turned out in puffy silk skirts, long sleeveless boleros over big blouses. Guy Laroche produced exquisite naive dresses embroidered with cross-stitch and flowers. Givenchy made it all beautifully ladylike, and loaded it with finished details in a rather Spanish-gypsy vein — ball fringes, coins on chains and boucous.

The details not to forget for Paris spring-summer include full and puffy sleeves, and clatched wasp-waists, sometimes girded by corset belts. Or the waist is eased with bloused off shoulder or drawstring-tied scoop-necks over sashes, bowed belts or ribboned cummerbunds.

Sleeveless boleros or squared "paleot" toppers give the suit a new look, but don't forget to be ruffled for evening. Black is ever-present and chic after dark, but every color in the rainbow came out — in solid shades of taffeta, flower prints, stripes. From soft and subtle mauves, baby pinks, leafy greens, to the brassier looks of apple and lime green, fire-engine red, shocking pink and deep purple, everything was there in sumptuous solids and prints — a blaze of glory for the fabric industry.

Cinema Arts Film Feb. 5-7

"A Brief Vacation" will be the third film of the season for Cinema Arts Society.

The film will be shown at 5 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 5, and at 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 7 and 8, at the Loma Theater, Coloma.

Single admissions will be available at the door. "A Brief Vacation" was the final collaboration between the late director Vittorio De Sica and scriptwriter Cesare Zavattini.

Florinda Bolkan portrays Clara, a beaten-down factory worker in Milan, who resents her lower class life.

More Appetizing For Travelers

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Eating on route includes dining or snacking on railroads, airplanes and ships. But let's discuss here the problems and awards of eating along the tracks, so to speak.

In this category things have not been very rosy in the past 10 years. But with a hopefully progressive new Secretary of Transportation, Brooks Adams of Washington, and a stated new determination to brighten Amtrak food service, things begin to look more appetizing for travelers.

Today Amtrak serves in its dining cars such staple American dishes as steak, short ribs, filet of sole and chicken, also hot and cold sandwiches. On shorter runs, there is snack bar service. Very decent food but less than elegant.

Even so that's a far cry from 1859 when railroad eating was far from good. According to the new book "Eating in America" by Waverley Root and Richard de Rochemont, which provides 488 pages of eating history (Morrow, $16.95), early traveling was rough on the stomach as well as other parts of the anatomy.

A quote from a report in 1839 reveals, "The cars stop, all the doors are thrown open and out rush all the passengers like boys out of school, and crowd around the tables to solace themselves with pies, patties, cakes, hard-boiled eggs, hams, custards and a variety of railroad luxuries too numerous to mention. The bell rings for departure, in they all hurry with their hands and mouths full, and off they go again until the next stopping place induces them to relieve the monotony of the journey by masticating without being hungry."

Even some years later, things had not improved much. Both Root, a distinguished food writer, and de Rochemont, a food expert, and also a well-known movie producer, express wonder that things had not improved much during those 40 years.

Along came George M. Pullman with his Pullman dining car. What he had achieved with his comfortable sleeping car, he now undertook to do with eating.

"Dining car menus in 1870 offered seventy-five cent meals of oysters on the half shell, porthouse steak, quail, antelope, plover, fresh trout and terrapin, with second helpings on the house. There was champagne at every meal, including breakfast, and passengers ate in the splendor of Turkish carpets, French mirrors, fringed portieres and rare inlaid woods. The Denver and Rio Grande made a specialty of mountain trout, the Union Pacific was famous for its antelope steaks, the Northern Pacific for its grouse and salmon."

The Northern Pacific advertised as the line of the Great Baked Potato, as it crossed the state of Idaho, home of the russet Burbank potato. The Chicago and Northwestern railroad offered 35 main courses and 25 desserts. But that was high living. The dinner cost $1.

But those days are gone. They disappeared by the end of World War II, along with the development of meals in the air when people exchanged sumptuous dining for fast flight.

Band-O-Rama Set

ST. JOSEPH SCHOOLS: The music department of the St. Joseph public schools will present "Band-O-Rama," Saturday, Feb. 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gymnasium. Performing groups will include the massed sixth grade bands, the A and B bands of Upton junior high school and the varsity, concert and symphonic bands of the high school. Conducting will be Robert W. Brown, director of bands; Vito Tenerelli, director of junior high and elementary bands, and Dana Everson, assistant director of bands. Proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the band department. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children, with preschool age children admitted free. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from high school band members. Rehearsing for the event are Karla Vieregge, a ninth grader and member of the varsity band; Steve Schadler, seated, a sixth grader at Jefferson, and Cindi Alexander, right, a senior and member of the concert band. From Carobs To Carats

Originally diamonds were weighed against the seeds of the carob tree, an Oriental plant.

These seeds were used as the unit of measure because they were closer than anything else in nature to uniformity of weight.

Nowadays the carat is a standardized unit; there are about 142 carats in an ounce, or 2,268 in a pound. Only one diamond found so far, the great Cullinan, has weighed as much as a pound. It was 3,106 carats!

Student In Play

KALAMAZOO — Barbara Weathers, a junior from Mat-tawan, is a member of the cast for the next major production of the Western Michigan University Theater's season, Sławomir Mrożek's "Vatizlav."

Performances will be Feb. 9-12 in the Laura V. Shaw Theater. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Miss Weathers portrays the self-proclaimed genius in the play.

"Vatizlav" is a satirical comedy on the modern world. The language is bawdy and outspoken. A comic striptease scene lampoons the upper class exploitation of the people and makes "Vatizlav" definitely a play for mature audiences only.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Fidgety In Empty Nest

Dear Ann Landers: My youngest child is in school all day and I'm beginning to feel depressed. I thought I'd love all this spare time — in fact, I looked forward to it — but I confess I'm suffering from "The Empty Nest Syndrome."

I have a Master's degree in English and could teach, but I don't want a full-time job. I must be free to take trips with my husband. I want to do volunteer work — but what? I can't knit or sew or type. But I'm in excellent health and I'm good with people. Can you suggest something I might do that will make me feel good about myself? I need to feel useful. Hurry your answer. I'm — Getting Fidgety

Dear Fidge: Have I got a suggestion for you? Your timing couldn't have been better. Call The American Cancer Society (look in the phone book), and volunteer to help with the 1977 Crusade. The campaign has just been launched and they need people like you.

Cancer is the most feared word in the language. The life of every person who reads this column has been touched, in some way, by this dreaded disease. The American Cancer Society needs all the help it can get. Call today and volunteer your services. You must have ESP, lady.

Nervous Retiree

Dear Ann Landers: I will be retiring next year and am dead set against any kind of farewell affair. I'm a very nervous person and something of this nature would undo me completely.

My fellow employees insist that I deserve a party and they are determined to give me one. They say I will cherish the memory forever and I will get over the nervousness once the group has gathered. I know myself better than they do. I shall become physically sick and unable to attend.

We all read your column daily and I am praying you will consider this letter important enough to print. I need you to be on my side. — Can't Face It In Spgld., Mass.

Dear Face: Here's an open letter to your fellow employees: Dear Group: I know you mean well, but please make his (or her) last days in the office pleasant ones by respecting the request.

When you see this letter, tell the nervous retiree you've decided to leave the gift on the desk — no formal presentation — just an extra handshake, a hug or a kiss at the end of the day. Believe me, THAT will be the best gift of all.

Found Friends

Dear Ann Landers: I just want you to know you saved my life.

If I hadn't read about Recovery, Inc., in your column I never would have survived the Christmas holidays.

Whoever said Christmas is the season to be jolly must have been nuts. It's the most agonizing time of the year for many people. For me it was a horror. I was sad, irritable, cried a lot, felt alone and got a dreadful cold.

I went to Recovery, Inc., and met some terrific people. They gave me love, strength, self-assurance and showed me the way to mental health. Bless you — and them. — New Life

Dear Life: Let's hear it again for Recovery, Inc.! It's listed in the phone book — and it's free. Go if you need emotional support — for any reason. They are waiting for you.

Needed: Courage

I want to boycott coffee. I really do, but basically I'm weak and cannot endure pain. Last week, I paid more for three pounds of coffee than I paid for a winter coat the first year I was married, but I can't help myself.

You cannot imagine the pressure I get from the women in the neighborhood. The other morning I practically ran to the coffee kiosk at Lois's house. Just inside the door Lois said, "Want a cup?"

She put an empty cup in my hand. "Where's the coffee?" I asked.

"I never promised you coffee."

"That's not funny, Lois. Do you have any idea what I would give for a cup of coffee? I'd sell my children."

"Wouldn't we all?" "I'd sell my self-respect."

"Braggart."

"Lois! I'd sell my bowling trophy!"

"Will you get hold of yourself? We've got to stand firm together or there is no telling how high the price of coffee will go."

"Look," I said regaining my composure. "I never thought I'd admit this to anyone, but I am older than the rest of you and I lived through the Great Coffee Drought of 1942 during the war."

"I never heard of it," said Carol.

"And I hope you never do," I said. "I saw my mother in the morning without a cup of coffee once and it's the closest to death I ever want to come. She tossed and buttered her head and put it on my sister's plate. She bumped into a kiosk with her head. She felt a draft and it was her eyelashes blinking. When she thought no one was looking, she put her head in the coffee canister and inhaled. My father caught her trying to shave her tongue. It was awful."

"It must have been a terrible thing for a child to see," comforted Carol, "but have courage and it'll all be over soon."

"I know," I whimpered, "but a day without Joe DiMaggio is like a day without sunshine."

You can only be "loopy with courage" for so long. On the way back from school after lunch, I swung the car into a drive-in and yelled, "One cup of coffee please... and will you take a personal check?"

Diamond Jubilee Festival

KALAMAZOO — One of the opening highlights of Western Michigan University's Diamond Jubilee Festival will be an "all-star" alumni production of Eudora Welty's comedy, "The Ponder Heart," to be presented by the Department of Theatre in the College of Fine Arts.

"The Ponder Heart" will kick off a new scholarship fund honoring Laura V. Shaw for her contribution to the theater during her 32 years at the university.

The professional alumni returning for the production are accepting no performance fee. Proceeds will go to support the newly created Laura V. Shaw scholarship and the present David Wayne scholarship funds.

Featured in the production will be David Wayne, popular film star last seen in "Ellery Queen," and Mary Jackson, familiar to all fans of "The Waltons" as the spinster Sister Emily.

Performances will be May 23-28 in Laura V. Shaw Theater.

Also appearing will be John Zaremba, last seen in "The Death of Richie," frequent guest on "The Streets of San Francisco," and known to most TV fans as the Hills Brothers coffee broker; Sherman Lloyd, presenting touring with "The Royal Family" following successful performances in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" and "Hot L Baltimore" in New York; and Al Hinchley, now playing with "That Championship Season" on tour.

David Wayne gained national prominence when he appeared as Sakini in the original production of "Teahouse of the August Moon." The director of "Teahouse," Robert Douglas, will be guest director of "The Ponder Heart."

Eudora Welty, author of the story adapted for the stage and close friend of Wayne and Douglas, plan to be in Kalamazoo for the production.

Beer Makes Hair Lotion

Do you set your hair? Many say flat beer, lightly sprayed on damp hair (through a mist-spray bottle) is a fine setting lotion.

Even when I eat moist food, every once in awhile I've got to force the food down with large quantities of water. The food seems to get stuck in my throat. Can a growth be the cause of this situation? — Mr. G.E.W., Mpls.

Dear Mr. W.: No medical column or magazine article can be a substitute for the valuable relationship between a patient and his doctor.

Any advice I would give you about this would further exaggerate the fears that seem to be keeping you from seeking professional advice.

When I point out the possibilities to be considered in your case I'm sure you will understand the point I am making.

Yes, a tumor, benign or cancerous, can cause an obstruction in the esophagus that would make it difficult to swallow food. Now that would be a terrifying thought. Yet there are other less important possibilities. A small pouch, or diverticulum, can produce the same symptoms.

Spasm of the muscular wall of the esophagus, birth abnormalities, enlargement of the heart, tumors of the lung, a foreign body or psychological disturbances may cause identical symptoms.

Hiatus hernia, a condition known as "achalasia," could also be responsible.

You know, of course, that I am not suggesting that you have any of these problems. But I am deliberately using this method to show how wrong it is to attempt to guess at a diagnosis.

There may also be other relatively unimportant reasons for your complaint. Medical consultation, followed by X-ray studies and blood studies, can easily locate your problem. This is a much more sensible approach to a problem that needs to be clarified.

I have a painful spur on the heel. Does this mean that it is a forerunner of arthritis of the joint? — Mr. B.D., Mich.

Dear Mr. D.: Spurs are not considered to be arthritic in nature. They are deposits of calcium in the tendons and muscles of the heel. They are frequently found among people who are subject to repeated injuries. Athletes and professional dancers are prone to these painful spurs.

Relief from pain can be obtained by protecting the heel with a foam rubber sponge. Cortisone can be effective in some cases. Surgery, in selected instances, is very helpful, too.

For Tuesday, Feb. 1, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
The little things will cause rumbles around your home today, so skirt these inconsequential items.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
The clever ideas you have today could lose something in the translation. If you have something complicated to explain, spell it out.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Your ability to earn money is good today, but you're still trying to spend it faster than you make it. Work to get your books in balance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Others will be making decisions for you today and you have only yourself to blame. If you don't look out for your best interests, expect them to.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 21)
It's very difficult for you to keep a secret today. You'll compound the error by telling it to the wrong party.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 22)
Friends may obtain things that make you envious today because they've accumulated a little surplus. Don't try to keep up. You'll break the bank.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Making money comes easy to you today, but you may have to use methods not in harmony with your principles. Weigh gains against reputation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Today, you'll be kind and considerate toward new acquaintances. Old friends could be misled if they feel you've been less considerate of them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Today you grasp situations quickly, but not with sufficient depth. You could be outclassed by someone with greater perception.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
There are friends working in your behalf today, but there are others who would like to see you flop. You've had trouble with them before.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Don't ask favors of new friends today or you could nip some promising relationships in the bud. Wait until you get to know them a lot better.

Your Birthday

Feb. 1, 1977

New paths will open for you this coming year to give greater impetus to your ambitions. You might even employ ingenious new methods you're not presently aware of.

"THE PINK PANTHER STRIKES AGAIN"

Fidgety In Empty Nest

Dear Ann Landers: My youngest child is in school all day and I'm beginning to feel depressed. I thought I'd love all this spare time — in fact, I looked forward to it — but I confess I'm suffering from "The Empty Nest Syndrome."

I have a Master's degree in English and could teach, but I don't want a full-time job. I must be free to take trips with my husband. I want to do vol-

teer work — but what? I can't knit or sew or type. But I'm in excellent health and I'm good with people. Can you suggest something I might do that will make me feel good about myself? I need to feel useful. Hurry your answer. I'm — Getting Fidgety

Dear Fidge: Have I got a suggestion for you? Your timing couldn't have been better. Call The American Cancer Society (look in the phone book) and volunteer to help with the 1977 Crusade. The campaign has just been launched and they need people like you.

Cancer is the most feared word in the language. The life of every person who reads this column has been touched, in some way, by this dreaded disease. The American Cancer Society needs all the help it can get. Call today and volunteer your services. You must have ESP, lady.

Nervous Retiree

Dear Ann Landers: I will be retiring next year and am dead set against any kind of farewell affair. I'm a very nervous person and something of this nature would undo me completely.

My fellow employees insist that I deserve a party and they are determined to give me one. They say I will cherish the memory forever and I will get over the nervousness once the group has gathered. I know myself better than they do. I shall become physically sick and unable to attend.

We all read your column daily and I am praying you will consider this letter important enough to print. I need you to be on my side. — Can't Face It In Spgfld., Mass.

Dear Face: Here's an open letter to your fellow employees: Dear Group: I know you mean well, but please make his (or her) last days in the office pleasant ones by respecting the request.

When you see this letter, tell the nervous retiree you've decided to leave the gift on the desk — no formal presentation — just an extra handshake, a hug or a kiss at the end of the day. Believe me, THAT will be the best gift of all.

Found Friends

Dear Ann Landers: I just want you to know you saved my life.

If I hadn't read about Recovery, Inc., in your column I never would have survived the Christmas holidays.

Whoever said Christmas is the season to be jolly must have been nuts. It's the most agonizing time of the year for many people. For me it was a horror. I was sad, irritable, cried a lot, felt alone and got a dreadful cold.

I went to Recovery, Inc., and met some terrific people. They gave me love, strength, self-assurance and showed me the way to mental health. Bless you — and them. — New Life

Needed: Courage

I want to boycott coffee. I really do, but basically I'm weak and cannot endure pain.

Last week, I paid more for three pounds of coffee than I paid for a winter coat the first year I was married, but I can't help myself.

You cannot imagine the pressure I get from the women in the neighborhood. The other morning I practically ran to the coffee klatch at Lois's house.

Just inside the door Lois said, "Want a cup?"

She put an empty cup in my hand.

"Where's the coffee?" I asked.

"I never promised you coffee."

"That's not funny, Lois. Do you have any idea what I would give for a cup of coffee? I'd sell my children."

"Wouldn't we all?"

"I'd sell my self-respect."

"Braggart."

"Lois! I'd sell my bowling trophy!"

"Will you get hold of yourself? We've got to stand firm together or there is no telling how high the price of coffee will go."

"Look," I said regaining my composure. "I never thought I'd admit this to anyone, but I am older than the rest of you and I lived through the Great Caffeine Drought of 1942 during the war."

"I never heard of it," said Carol.

"And I hope you never do," I said. "I saw my mother in the morning without a cup of coffee once and it's the closest to death I ever want to come. She toasted and buttered her hand and put it on my sister's plate. She bumped into a footstool with her head. She felt a draft and it was her eyelashes blinking. When she thought no one was looking, she put her head in the coffee canister and inhaled. My father caught her trying to shave her tongue. It was awful."

"I know," I whimpered, "but a day without Joe DiMaggio is like a day without sunshine."

You can only be "lousy with courage" for so long. On the way back from school after lunch, I swung the car into a drive-in and yelled, "One cup of coffee please . . . and will you take a personal check?"

Dr. Lester Coleman

Even when I eat moist food, every once in awhile I've got to force the food down with large quantities of water. The food seems to get stuck in my throat. Can a growth be the cause of this situation? — Mr. G.E.W., Miss.

Dear Mr. W.:

No medical column or magazine article can be a substitute for the valuable relationship between a patient and his doctor.

Any advice I would give you about this would further exaggerate the fears that seem to be keeping you from seeking professional advice.

When I point out the possibilities to be considered in your case I'm sure you will understand the point I am making.

Yes, a tumor, benign or cancerous, can cause an obstruction in the esophagus that would make it difficult to swallow food. Now that would be a terrifying thought. Yet there are other less important possibilities. A small pouch, or diverticulum, can produce the same symptoms.

Spasm of the muscular wall of the esophagus, birth abnormalities, enlargement of the heart, tumors of the lung, a foreign body or psychological disturbances may cause identical symptoms.

Hiatus hernia, a condition known as "achalasia," could also be responsible.

You know, of course, that I am not suggesting that you have any of these problems. But I am deliberately using this method to show how wrong it is to attempt to guess at a diagnosis.

There may also be other relatively unimportant reasons for your complaint. Medical consultation, followed by X-ray studies and blood studies, can easily locate your problem. This is a much more sensible approach to a problem that needs to be clarified.

I have a painful spur on the heel. Does this mean that it is a forerunner of arthritis of the joints? — Mr. B.D., Mich.

Dear Mr. D.:

Spurs are not considered to be arthritic in nature. They are deposits of calcium in the tendons and muscles of the heel. They are frequently found among people who are subject to repeated injuries. Athletes and professional dancers are prone to these painful spurs.

Relief from pain can be obtained by protecting the heel with a foam rubber sponge. Cortisone can be effective in some cases. Surgery, in selected instances, is very helpful, too.

BUT TAMPERING COULD KILL PLAN Gas Bill May Get Swift Action

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders are predicting fast action this week on President Carter's emergency natural gas bill, but major efforts are under way to modify the President's proposals.

Any heavy tampering with the legislation "would almost certainly assure there could be no bill passed," Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., warned over the weekend.

The bill would enable Carter to order gas transferred from one pipeline company to another to get it to areas hardest hit by the current spell of abnormally cold weather.

Carter's proposal also would free some gas from federal price controls through July 31.

Congressional leaders say final action should come by the end of the week.

Carter flew by helicopter to Pittsburgh on Sunday, saying he wanted a first-hand look at the impact the weather is having on employment.

Arctic temperatures, swept across the eastern half of the nation on Friday put more than 1.5 million persons out of work, closed factories and other businesses and forced curtailment of the use of already scarce natural gas.

The Senate, which waived committee hearings on Carter's energy legislation, gets back to work on the bill today after opening debate Friday. Attempts to amend the legislation may produce a "free-for-all on the floor," one Senate aide said.

Although a vote in the Senate was possible by late today, leaders said a vote was more likely Tuesday.

In the House, a "markup" session on the legislation was scheduled for today by the House Commerce Committee to ready the bill for anticipated floor action Tuesday.

Congressional leaders have urged members to refrain from offering amendments. But a number were expected to be tried nonetheless.

One amendment, offered by Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., and backed by most senators from gas-producing states, would eliminate the bill's authorization for the President to order connections between interstate and intrastate pipelines.

There is now no physical link between these two types of pipelines. Interstate lines, which carry gas from producing states to the rest of the nation, are subject to Federal Power Commission price regulation, while intrastate lines, which handle gas produced and sold in the same state, are not.

Johnston claims allowing

linkage of the interstate and intrastate pipelines ultimately could lead to FPC control over the interstate market and might create shortages in gas-producing states as severe as those in other areas of the nation.

Another amendment, expected to be offered by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., would put a limit on the prices that could be charged during the period in which federal price controls are suspended.

Sen. John Durkin, D-N.H., is proposing an amendment that would require the President to gather information needed to determine whether there really is a natural gas shortage or if energy companies are deliberately withholding gas in an effort to get higher prices through deregulation.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, claims he will try to modify the bill to allow the President to allocate gas not just to protect top-priority users, such as homes and hospitals but also to reopen plants where large numbers of workers have been laid off.

Truckers' Protest 'Snowed Out'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Bad weather apparently has squelched a deliberate slowdown planned by truckers in Michigan today. Roads across the state were so treacherous that the head of a state truckers' group said travel at maximum speeds was impossible, even without a slowdown.

The Independent Truckers Association had planned the nationwide slowdown as a protest against the lowered 55 mile per hour speed limit. But in Michigan, continued winter storms appear to have canceled the protest.

"We probably won't be able to get the slowdown moving now," Harland Wilcox, head of the Michigan chapter of the truckers group, said. "If we just drive natural-like, we'll have our slowdown because of the snow."

A meeting scheduled for Saturday to discuss strategy for the slowdown had to be canceled because of snow and high winds. Wilcox said the meeting will be rescheduled. In the meantime, drivers have been told not to slow down their rigs on Michigan highways.

"This slowdown wasn't supposed to have a great deal of bearing here," Wilcox said. "The State Police are good about cooperating with us on speed limits. They're not unreasonable. They allow you some 'over.' If they didn't, everybody in Michigan would be in jail."

But he said problems do exist in neighboring states and Michigan drivers had been told to take part in the slowdown areas.

Banished Mennonite Won't Fight

By CHRIS ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Robert Bear, a potato farmer accused of being possessed by the devil, has given up his fight against the church that ordered his family and friends to abandon him.

"I still love my family and I haven't turned against God," Bear said in a recent telephone interview. "But I can't be a father to my children. It's better if they grow up not knowing me."

Bear wants to move, but is not sure where. "I've lived here all my life," he said. "I'd like to go where there are some kind-hearted people."

Bear was banished by the Reformed Mennonite Church on a June day in 1972. His wife and six children eventually moved to the house of her brother, Glenn Gross, the bishop who helped banish her husband.

Bear was shunned because he questioned Gross' authority. In the Reformed Church, the authority of a bishop is believed to be equal to that of God. Bear had criticized Gross for giving communion to Gross' parents after one of them accused the other of being unfaithful.

"So they excommunicated and damned me to hell forever," Bear said.

Under the shunning order, no church member, including Bear's wife and children, is to speak or have any other contact with him. The order included his parents, who died shortly after Bear was shunned.

"To the moment they died they looked at me with disgust. I was already burning (in hell)," he said.

Not Single Assailant

DETROIT (AP) — A yearlong string of six disappearances and slayings of Oakland County youths probably was not the work of a single assailant, investigative sources have told a Detroit newspaper. Although some of the cases are similar, investigators doubt that all six killings are related, the Detroit News reported Sunday.

The first child disappeared nearly 13 months ago. The body of the latest victim, 10-year-old Kristine Mihelich, was found Jan. 21 in a snowbank. A special police task force is investigating the Mihelich case. An investigator for one south Oakland police agency said two of the killings, those of Mark Stebbins, 12, of Ferndale, and Cynthia Cadieux, 16, of Roseville, may have been related. Sources close to the investigations told the News any relationship between the five victims and the death of Jane Louise Allan, 13, of Royal Oak, are "too remote for the killings to have been the work of one person, or a complicity of persons."

The Allan girl's body was found last August in Miamisburg, Ohio — the only victim found outside Michigan. Police have also eliminated any connection between the killing of Sheila Brock, 14, of Birmingham and the other cases, the News said. The girl was raped and shot three times last January while babysitting her infant niece. Police regard the case as a "breaking and entering that went bad," the newspaper said. Jill Robinson, 12, of Royal Oak, was found shot to death along a suburban Detroit highway earlier this month. But Troy police chief Forrest Fisher has said he considers that an isolated case.

"To the moment they died they looked at me with disgust. I was already burning (in hell)," he said.

Bear's children, four girls and two boys, range in age from 7 to 15.

"They make jokes about my mind," said Bear. "They think I'm sick mentally. By now I'm questioning in my own mind whether I'm normal or not. Yes, I do question it."

He said he bought the three younger girls wristwatches for Christmas and the three older children an electric typewriter. He said he didn't receive any presents, or even cards, from them.

"That's part of the punishment," he said. "And it hurts because I still love them."

"Sure, the memories will follow me when I leave. But it makes it a little easier now that the court has considered me a father not fit to have visitation rights with his own children. It's sort of brought it to a head, and in way I'm glad that happened. I couldn't endure being a lame duck father any longer."

Bear lost his court fight against the church, but was allowed to see his children on weekends until a Cumberland County judge canceled visitation rights last month. Testimony at a hearing indicated Bear broke into the house where his wife was staying and made off with the children's clothing.

The Reformed Mennonite Church has some 600 members who believe it is the one true church of Christ. They believe shunning is designed to promote peace and harmony and reclaim those who have fallen.

"When I had to leave my house before ... my 3-year-old daughter (Sharon) wrapped her arms around one of my legs and would not let go," Bear recalled. Sharon is now 7. Bear says he hardly knows her now.

Friends Mourn Freddie Prinze

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As co-star Jack Albertson and best friend Timmy Orlando composed eulogies for Freddie Prinze's funeral service today, the coroner revealed that the 22-year-old comic had no chance for survival from the moment he shot himself in the head.

A small funeral service was scheduled for 12:30 p.m. PST today at the Old North Church at Forest Lawn in Hollywood Hills for the young star of NBC-TV's "Chico and the Man."

A spokesman for Forest Lawn said pallbearers would include songwriter Paul Williams and business agent Marvin Snyder. A Prinze spokesman said entertainer Bob Hope would be an honorary pallbearer.

Prinze, who left a note saying he couldn't "take it anymore," died Saturday afternoon, 33 hours after he pulled a .32 caliber automatic from his apartment sofa and fired a bullet through his temple as Snyder watched. He had just hung up the telephone from speaking to his estranged wife, Kathy, mother of his 10-month-old son Freddie Jr.

Carter Seeking Accounting Of MIAs

By RICHARD E. MEYER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is asking members of Congress what the United States can do to get an accounting of the 800 Americans still missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Carter called a meeting today with Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., whose Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia urged the United States to press as hard as possible for an accounting.

A Montgomery aide said Carter, the congressman and other members of the committee were focusing on details of the panel's report last December. The report concluded that no Americans are still being held prisoner from the Indochina war.

"The congressman himself has said that the matter (of missing persons) is up to the State Department now," the aide said. "Under the law, they are the ones who can negotiate (an accounting)."

The meeting came one day after Carter witnessed the installation of Andrew Young as United Nations ambassador.

Young was to present credentials to Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim later today.

Young, a former Democratic congressman from Georgia, says he hopes the country will move toward admitting Hanoi into the United Nations. But he acknowledged the men missing in action (MIAs) remain an issue.

Carter said during the campaign that a presidential commission should be appointed to take the Vietnamese up on an offer to negotiate the release of MIA information.

But he said normal relations with Vietnam will depend on whether it cooperates in an accounting of the MIAs.

The Ford administration twice vetoed Vietnamese entry into the U.N., citing what it called a hostile Vietnamese attitude toward requests for the accounting.

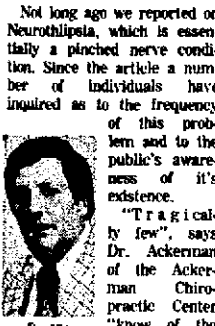

State Department spokesman Frederick Brown has refused to say the Carter administration will refrain from another veto when membership comes up again. Brown said the administration hopes the MIA question "would be resolved before the U.N. question comes up."

Oath-taking ceremonies for Young, whom Carter called the best public servant he has ever known, followed the President's return Sunday from Pittsburgh, where he toured a chilly, partially closed factory to dramatize the nation's energy crisis.

Carter has declared emergencies in states, including Pennsylvania and New York, that have been hit hard by the fuel shortage in the coldest winter in a decade. The declaration makes the states eligible for federal aid.

Health News... You May Have Neuro-Thlipsia; Most Do

Not long ago we reported on Neurothipsia, which is essentially a pinched nerve condition. Since the article a number of individuals have inquired as to the frequency of this problem and to the public's awareness of its existence.

"Tragically few," says Dr. Ackerman of the Ackerman Chiropractic Center "know of the Neurothipsia syndrome and are aware of the condition. The 'pinched nerve' gets bantered around in on-the-job or cocktail conversation," he says, "but very few people actually relate themselves to it."

This is truly a serious mistake, says the good doctor. "It's a typical paradox. Mention the problem by its proper name," says Dr. Ackerman, "and you have no takers. Mention the problem by its symptoms and you immediately hear a chorus of 'that's me.'"

What are those symptoms? Dr. Ackerman says the list is almost too long to enumerate. "That's not to say an individual must have them all or at the same time. I don't think I've ever met anyone that sick. But if a person is affected by even one of the following signs he (or she)," says Dr. Ackerman "should consider it a glaring red light on signals the need for prompt and effective treatment."

Usually a pinched nerve—or neurothipsia—manifests itself through nervousness and irritability. Frequently headaches are involved—frequently headaches. There is often dizziness or an inability to think clearly or to concentrate.

As for the pain, it can be, literally, in the neck, or in the shoulders, arms, back or legs. Sometimes there is a tightness in the chest or pain between the shoulders when you take a deep breath. A nervous stomach can be the warning signal.

"There are other signs and symptoms, but those mentioned are the most common," says Dr. Ackerman. "Of course," he adds, "we're often guilty of spending too much talk on the cause of a problem, such as neurothipsia. For that reason I'm not going to delve into the whys and wherefores of the pinched nerves. Let me suffice by saying that if you suffer from the symptoms seek immediate treatment; let the Doctor expend his energy on effective correction of the problem, not on talk."

"The average person would trade fifty conversations about his disease for just one that means 'you're well.'"

Dr. Ackerman maintains offices at 3918 Red Arrow Hwy., St. Joseph (Telephone 429-1700) ARS(c) 1973

Claudine Plans To Appeal Any Prison Or Jail Term

By BILL PARDUE Associated Press Writer

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, comforted by exhusband Andy Williams as she faced sentencing today for killing her lover, will definitely appeal if ordered to serve time in jail, her attorney says.

"Any jail time at all for her would be horrible," said Charles Weedman of Los Angeles, lawyer for the French-born entertainer.

"Quite frankly, she's worried by all this," he said, "and I don't know if any appeal will be filed if there's no jail time. Of course, if a jail term is ordered, there is no question there will be an appeal."

She was convicted Jan. 14 by a district court jury of criminally negligent homicide. Jurors rejected prosecution arguments that she was guilty of reckless manslaughter, a felony that can carry a 10-year prison term.

A presentence probation report said that if Miss Longet were sentenced to any consecutive days in jail, she planned to send her three children by Williams to live with him in California temporarily. The couple was divorced in 1975.

The children, Noelle, 13, Christian, 11, and Bobby, 7, lived with Miss Longet and Sabich at his $250,000 mountain-side chalet.

The probation report described Miss Longet as a "very good candidate for probation." But the probation officer also suggested that "some jail time to be served would not be inappropriate" because she caused the death.

Sabich, 31, was the first American to dominate the pro ski circuit and was a hero in this Rocky Mountain ski resort. The night Miss Longet was found guilty, she was mimicked and criticized by workers and customers at Aspen's bars and restaurants.

CLAUDINE LONGET Up to the Judge

Maximum penalty for Miss Longet's misdemeanor conviction is two years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

State District Court Judge George Lohr had a choice of sending her to state prison, the reformatory or the county jail, fining her or putting her on probation, Weedman said.

Skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich died March 21, 1976, of a single bullet wound in the stomach from a 22 caliber pistol. Miss Longet said the gun went off accidentally while she was learning to use it.

Distrust Concerns Auto Men

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The people who make and sell automobiles are among the most distrusted groups in the nation, according to the top executive of General Motors Corp.

"We, all of us in this industry, have to do better," GM board chairman Thomas A. Murphy declared Sunday. "Our concern for the customer's satisfaction must extend all along the line, from the designer's drawing board to the mechanic's work bench."

Murphy's remarks came at a meeting in conjunction with the annual convention of the National Automobile Dealers Association.

Murphy said every dissatisfied car owner tends to multiply his own bad experiences into the entire car population.

"If his car has a defect, or he doesn't receive prompt and courteous service, he doesn't see himself as an exception," he said. "Instead, he is inclined to say 'they just don't build them like they used to.'"

Murphy said GM surveys indicate about one out of every four car owners is dissatisfied to some degree.

The auto industry may have been late in recognizing the extent of the public's discontent, he said.

Murphy warned that every reason for complaint and every impulsive response is an invitation to more regulation on the industry.

Friends Mourn Freddie Prinze

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As co-star Jack Albertson and best friend Tony Orlando composed eulogies for Freddie Prinze's funeral service today, the coroner revealed that the 22-year-old comic had no chance for survival from the moment he shot himself in the head.

A small funeral service was scheduled for 12:30 p.m. PST today at the Old North Church at Forest Lawn in Hollywood Hills for the young star of NBC-TV's "Chico and the Man."

A spokesman for Forest Lawn said pallbearers would include songwriter Paul Williams and business agent Marvin Snyder. A Prinze spokesman said entertainer Bob Hope would be an honorary pallbearer.

Prinze, who left a note saying he couldn't "take it anymore," died Saturday afternoon, 33 hours after he pulled a .32 caliber automatic from his apartment sofa and fired a bullet through his temple as Snyder watched. He had just hung up the telephone from speaking to his estranged wife, Kathy, mother of his 10-month-old son Freddie Jr.

As doctors at UCLA Medical Center performed surgery and used life-sustaining equipment in a futile effort to save him, the hospital was flooded with telephone calls from fans. The family and a few close friends, including singer Orlando, held a vigil.

Doctors at first refused to comment on Prinze's chances for survival, but the Los Angeles County coroner's office said Sunday that his injuries were so serious that he could not have lived.

"All that charm, all that love, all that marvelous talent and all that niceness," said James Komack, producer and creator of the "Chico" series. "He couldn't do that offstage. Offstage the world was still uncomfortable for him."

Prinze was faced with the breakup of his marriage, the problems of trying to free himself from a contract with a former manager who signed him as a teen-ager and the concern over an impending trial on charges of driving under the influence of drugs.

Carter Seeking Accounting Of MIAs

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is asking members of Congress what the United States can do to get an accounting of the 800 Americans still missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Carter called a meeting today with Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., whose Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia urged the United States to press as hard as possible for an accounting.

A Montgomery aide said Carter, the congressman and other members of the committee were focusing on details of the panel's report last December. The report concluded that no Americans are still being held prisoner from the Indochina war.

"The congressman himself has said that the matter (of missing persons) is up to the State Department now," the aide said. "Under the law, they are the ones who can negotiate (an accounting)."

The meeting came one day after Carter witnessed the installation of Andrew Young as United Nations ambassador.

Young was to present credentials to Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim later today.

Young, a former Democratic congressman from Georgia, says he hopes the country will move toward admitting Hanoi into the United Nations. But he acknowledged the men missing in action (MIAs) remain an issue.

Carter said during the campaign that a presidential commission should be appointed to take the Vietnamese up on an offer to negotiate the release of MIA information.

But he said normal relations with Vietnam will depend on whether it cooperates in an accounting of the MIAs.

The Ford administration twice vetoed Vietnamese entry into the U.N., citing what it called a hostile Vietnamese attitude toward requests for the accounting.

State Department spokesman Frederick Brown has refused to say the Carter administration will refrain from another veto when membership comes up again. Brown said the administration hopes the MIA question "would be resolved before the U.N. question comes up."

Oath-taking ceremonies for Young, whom Carter called the best public servant he has ever known, followed the President's return Sunday from Pittsburgh, where he toured a chilly, partially closed factory to dramatize the nation's energy crisis.

Carter has declared emergencies in states, including Pennsylvania and New York, that have been hit hard by the fuel shortage in the coldest winter in a decade. The declaration makes the states eligible for federal aid.

Health News...

You May Have Neuro-Thlipsia; Most Do

Not long ago we reported on Neurothlipsia, which is essentially a pinched nerve condition. Since the article a number of individuals have inquired as to the frequency of this problem and to the public's awareness of its existence.

"Tragically few," says Dr. Ackerman of the Ackerman Chiropractic Center "know of the Neurothlipsia syndrome and are aware of the condition. The 'pinched nerve' gets bantered around in on-the-job or cocktail conversation," he says, "but very few people actually relate themselves to it."

This is truly a serious mistake, says the good doctor. "It's a typical paradox. Mention the problem by its proper name," says Dr. Ackerman, "and you have no takers. Mention the problem by its symptoms and you immediately hear a chorus of 'that's me'."

What are those symptoms? Dr. Ackerman says the list is almost too long to enumerate. "That's not to say an individual must have them all or at the same time. I don't think I've ever met anyone that sick. But if a person is affected by even one of the following signs he (or she)," says Dr. Ackerman "should

Usually a pinched nerve—or neurothlipsia—manifests itself through nervousness and irritability. Frequently headaches are involved—frequently headaches. There is often dizziness or an inability to think clearly or to concentrate.

As for the pain, it can be, literally, in the neck, or in the shoulders, arms, back or legs. Sometimes there is a tightness in the chest or pain between the shoulders when you take a deep breath. A nervous stomach can be the warning signal.

"There are other signs and symptoms, but those mentioned are the most common," says Dr. Ackerman.

"Of course," he adds, "we're often guilty of spending too much talk on the cause of a problem, such as neurothlipsia. For that reason I'm not going to delve into the whys and wherefores of the pinched nerves. Let me suffice by saying that if you suffer from the symptoms seek immediate treatment; let the Doctor expend his energy on effective correction of the problem, not on talk."

"The average person would trade fifty conversations about his disease for just one that means 'you're well.'"

Claudine Plans To Appeal Any Prison Or Jail Term

By BILL PARDUE
Associated Press Writer

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, comforted by exhusband Andy Williams as she faced sentencing today for killing her lover, will definitely appeal if ordered to serve time in jail, her attorney says.

"Any jail time at all for her would be horrible," said Charles Weedman of Los Angeles, lawyer for the French-born entertainer.

"Quite frankly, she's wearied by all this," he said, "and I don't know if any appeal will be filed if there's no jail time. Of course, if a jail term is ordered, there is no question there will be an appeal."

Maximum penalty for Miss Longet's misdemeanor conviction is two years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

State District Court Judge George Lohr had a choice of sending her to state prison, the reformatory or the county jail, fining her or putting her on probation, Weedman said.

A presentence probation report said that if Miss Longet were sentenced to any consecutive days in jail, she planned to send her three children by Williams to live with him in California temporarily. The couple was divorced in 1973.

Condemned Killers Ask For Death Row Wedding

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — Two killers sentenced to the electric chair want to be married in Florida's first Death Row wedding, not for themselves but for the sake of their child.

Jessie Tafero says he is prepared for the worst — the possibility that his and Sonia

Jacobs' appeals will fail and they will be executed. That would orphan their daughter, Christina, born out of wedlock 21 months ago.

"Sonia and I are applying now to be married. Here, just about anywhere we can, so our marital status will be completely legitimized for everybody's questions ... We have a child," Tafero said in a copyright story in today's St. Petersburg Times.

Florida recognizes an illegitimate child as one of the few reasons for marriage inside state prisons. But officials said this is their first request for a Death Row wedding.

"All the others, the spouse has been outside and free. So this really throws a monkey wrench in the thing," said an assistant chaplain.

The decision rests with the head prison chaplain in Tallahassee.

The newspaper interviewed the 28-year-old mother at Florida Correctional Institute for Women, Tafero, 30, was interviewed at Florida State Prison in Starke, 35 miles away.

They had been telling prison officials that they were married — ever since their arrests in February 1976 for the murders of Florida Highway Patrolman Phillip Black and his friend, visiting Canadian Constable Donald Irwin. The officers were shot to death near Delray Beach

at an Interstate 95 rest stop.

Tafero insisted they are innocent of murder, and he is optimistic they will be released on appeal.

Miss Jacobs and Tafero said they lived together for years, but they were unable to produce a marriage license.

They were tried separately and sent to different facilities. They haven't seen each other since her trial last July, although they write to each other every day.

Miss Jacobs, interviewed first, insisted she was married.

"It's a legal marriage," she said. "I've decided not to talk too much about it because I don't know what the question is, but we are so close a family, you know, that I just ignore that."

Tafero, interviewed later, suggested that Miss Jacobs was lying for the child's sake. He said she didn't know about his plans for a Death Row wedding.

He said he had just talked to the prison chaplain and "told him my intentions and Sonia's intentions."

"He says there shouldn't be any problem, and I'm doing the paperwork now," Tafero said.

Plenty Of Room For Skating

DIXON, W.Va. (AP) — While most West Virginians huddled near their heaters, Dudley Pettrey spent the day sweeping snow from nearby Twelvepole Creek. "I ordered these skates and they just arrived," he said Sunday, leaning on his broom in the middle of the frozen stream. "The ice here is eight inches thick and I'm making myself a place to skate." The temperature was 20 degrees. The sky was a vivid blue and Pettrey's nose was a bright red. "There's usually a bunch of kids skating down there," he said, pointing to a spot some 100 yards down the empty ice. "But I guess it's too cold for them today or perhaps they have just got their fill; they've been out there everyday for two weeks." Pettrey clutched his broom and skated off, twice negotiating a sprawling figure-eight that got wider with each trip. He had set a couple of lawn chairs on the ice but a neighbor's collie was his only companion.

LLOYD JOHNSON IS NEW NIXON FUND CHIEF

Michigan Man Now Heads Nixon Fund

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan nursing home owner is the new head of the President Nixon Justice Fund, replacing Rabbi Baruch Korff who is stepping down largely because of ill health.

Lloyd Johnson, 54, of Ann Arbor, said this weekend that he will follow the former president's wishes and serve as a custodian rather than a fundraiser.

Johnson said he met for 70 minutes in November with the ex-President and said Nixon expressed confidence he "would be able to take up and do for himself what others had been doing for him."

"He (Nixon) said he never believed that things should be done for a person that a person can do for himself," said Johnson.

Johnson, a longtime Republican who worked for unsuccessful Michigan GOP gubernatorial candidate Paul Bagwell in 1958 and 1960, said he first met Nixon nine years ago. During the aftermath of the Watergate episode, Johnson said he became angry at the American people.

"I could never quite convince myself that President Nixon had done so many bad things," said Johnson. "I felt the great things he did far exceeded those things he was accused of doing."

Contributions continue to arrive for the fund at the offices of the United State Citizens Congress, a conservative organization in Washington that grew out of the fund. More than $350,000 has been contributed for legal fees to the fund Korff started in 1973.

The money now pays lawyers to help Nixon retain from the government some of the 42 million personal papers he accumulated while President.

Dowagiac Facing Power Rate Hike

DOWAGIAC — City officials here are waiting for a revised wholesale electric power rate increase proposal from the city's wholesale electric power supplier, Michigan Power company.

City Manager Henry Graper said the new proposal is the result of a new agreement between Michigan Power and Indiana & Michigan Electric company, the company Michigan Power buys power from.

Graper and three other city officials were in Washington D.C. last Tuesday and Wednesday and learned of the new proposal.

Michigan Power buys electrical power wholesale from I & M and resells it to Dowagiac which in turn sells it to city customers.

The Federal Power Commission originally granted a temporary 126 per cent increase in rates charged by I & M for power sold to Michigan Power. Michigan Power then received approval from the FPC for a 108 per cent increase in rates it charges Dowagiac for power. That resulted in the city raising

City officials said that they have not yet seen the new rate proposal from Michigan Power, but expect it within a week. Should the new proposal be acceptable the city would of press for an FPC hearing on the rate increase, Graper reported.

In Washington last week along with Graper were Mayor Graham Woodhouse, City Atty. Herbert Phillips, Jr., and Larry Roback, director of public services for Dowagiac.

M-275 Cancellation Heartens State Freeway Foes

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — While highway officials are reluctant to read anything into a decision to scrap a major freeway project, the cancellation of Michigan 275 is certainly reason for opponents of other freeways to be buoyant.

Their hope is in ten words spoken by Peter Fletcher, chairman of the State Highway Commission, shortly before he voted with his colleagues last week to cancel the 20-year-old M-275 project in western Oakland County.

"You do not want it, you shall not have it," said Fletcher flatly.

Technically, the commission wields the final word on highway building in Michigan. But Fletcher's words clearly threw some of the power to the people.

And although state highway officials pooh-pooh the sugges-

"It's not just a freeway we're talking about but a whole way of life, a philosophy," the highway commission was told by Delma Bartleme, an opponent of the M-275 project.

"Is this a necessity or more a convenience? That is the question that always has to be asked about a major project," said David Merchant of the Federal Highway Administration office in Lansing.

"Sure it's been asked in the past. But I also believe it will be more rigorously applied in the future."

There were no such difficult questions in Michigan back in 1957 when building the interstate freeway system began. Since then, 1,663 miles of freeway have been poured in the state, with the peak pavement-laying period the decade of the '60s.

Building slowed in the past eight years, at the same time that citizens and environmentalists began testing their strength and flexing the muscles they found they had.

Now, only 30 miles of freeway are under construction in the state — a record low since 1957 — and only about 30 more miles of interstate are planned.

Though the cancellation of any highway project by opponents of concrete seems a victory, the costs of such decisions are high.

M-275, for example, was on the drawing boards since 1966. It was the last link of a Detroit bypass freeway and would have linked Interstate 96 at Novi to Interstate 75 south of Flint.

Thousands of hours of expensive engineering and research time went into analyzing where its path should be plotted and what the freeway itself would do to flora and fauna in the area.

Land was bought and sold in the freeway's planned corridor, including $1.6 million in plots the state bought.

Yet the first rumblings about the project came only months ago, last summer, when Stephen Rosman, a 27-year-old insurance agent, stumbled into a public hearing on the project.

He was stunned that he had not known earlier about the freeway which would run but a half-mile from the backyard of his Commerce Twp. home.

Rosman invited his 300 neighbors to come to his house and talk about the freeway. Fifty showed up and most left angry.

Later Rosman took the initial environmental impact report prepared by the state highway department to a professor at Wayne State University and asked that the dargon be explained to him.

From then on, Citizens in Opposition to M-275 and environmental groups and much of the press who joined the fight pointed up the department's acknowledgment that the highway would ruin a 200-acre wetlands, eat up recreational and agricultural land and speed up urbanization of the now semi-suburban region. Mainly, however, they challenged the need for the freeway, in light of evidence that fuel in the future may be too short to power as many automobiles as now fill the concrete.

In the end, the commission opted for the people and their concerns. Their decision flew in the face of highway department officials who all along touted M-275 as necessary to complete plans laid out a decade before.

Now Highway Planners Fret About I-94 Loop In BH-SJ

tion that scrapping M-275 will make other project cancellations easier, it is clear that this commission will make the job of the old-time highway champions a tougher one.

It is the first highway commission in Michigan to cancel a project after years of planning and spending. One of the straws that broke those plans was the well-organized protest of county residents.

Particularly worrisome now to state highway planners are two highway projects: a proposed extension of Northwestern Highway in southern Oakland County that was to connect with M-275; and a loop of Interstate 94 that would plunge through St. Joseph and Benton Harbor on the state's western shore.

Both have met with loud protests from residents.

Of the I-94 penetrator, one highway department spokesman says: "That could be another one to go down the drain." And highway officials admit that the cancellation of M-275 throws Northwestern Highway's proposed extension into doubt, since it would no longer end at a major freeway, but in tiny Commerce Twp.

In both cases, residents protest that the freeways are unnecessary and will cost more socially and environmentally than they would be worth in convenience.

Abortion 'Safer' Than Births

CHICAGO (AP) — Women who went through childbirth ran a risk of death nine times greater than those who had abortions performed by licensed physicians in the first three months of pregnancy, says a federal study of the years 1972-1974.

Dr. Willard Cates Jr. and three associates at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta conducted the study as part of the federal center's surveillance of abortion-related deaths.

"Legal abortion in the United States in 1972 through 1974 was a relatively safe surgical procedure" with a death rate below that for the removal of tonsils or appendix, concludes the study. The report appears in today's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"When compared with mortality from pregnancy and childbirth, legal abortion in the first trimester was nearly nine times safer than carrying the pregnancy to term," the study said.

The study compares statistics for abortion-related deaths between 1972 and 1974 with similar figures for full-term pregnancies.

It says there were 3.9 maternal deaths per 100,000 legally performed abortions, but the rate dropped to 1.7 when abortions were performed in the first three months of pregnancy.

The U.S. Supreme Court in 1973 declared that states could not interfere with abortions during the first three months of pregnancy, a ruling that upset abortion laws of many states.

The study cited figures of the National Center for Health Statistics which showed the rate of maternal deaths related to pregnancy during the same period was 14.5 per 100,000 live births.

Based on the statistical analysis, the study also said:

—The most significant factor related to deaths from abortion is the number of weeks the pregnancy has progressed.

—The risk of dying from abortion is four times greater for women over 40 than for teenagers, who had the lowest rate. The abortion risk was higher for black mothers, but the study did not speculate on the reason.

—Women who underwent abortions in their own states had a slightly higher mortality rate than women who underwent the operation in another state. The study said out-of-state abortions were performed on women of higher economic status.

The analysis covered a three-year period because the number of U.S. abortion-related deaths in a single year was too small to be meaningful. Deaths related to legal abortions were 24 in 1972, 26 in 1973 and 26 in 1974, the study says.

Abortions were defined as legal if they were performed by licensed physicians under Supreme Court guidelines, even if its legality was questioned in the state where it took place.

Miner Lake Boat Ramp OK Sought

ALLEGAN — The Michigan Department of Natural Resources, waterways division, is seeking federal approval for construction of a boat ramp on Miner Lake northeast of here.

Based on proposed construction plans, the state will build a boat-launching ramp of precast concrete but must dredge about 80 cubic yards of mud from the waterway before hauling in 20 cubic yards of stone.

The application for construction has been made to the Detroit office of the U.S. Army's corps of engineers where written objections must be filed prior to Feb. 15.

The proposed launching ramp is to be located just northeast of the 120th avenue, 26th street intersection, according to the engineers.

CHURCH AND STATE

President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela is in the fourth year of his five-year term, elected by universal vote, his nation relatively prosperous. But in Latin America, where poverty and wealth dwell so close together, where the politically out and the politically in are nervous companions, peace is as unstable as the torrid weather.

The new constitution is only a year old. Already it is tested by bullets. In the first week of June, 1962, 300 Marines revolt at the naval base at Puerto Cabello. Snipers in the buildings put down a withering fire at government tanks and troops that advance against them.

Hector Rondón, a cameraman for the newspaper La Republica, ducks the bullets and follows the government force against the Marines. In two days, more than 200 are killed, the revolt put down, and Rondón has a prize-winning series of pictures — the most vivid, Father Manuel Padilla holding a wounded government rifleman. Pulitzer Prize Winner, 1963.

For a long time, the American people will be looking at both metric measures and customary measures on the same labels, the same signs. For instance, the distances to right and left field in Cincinnati's Riverfront stadium are given in both meters and feet.

But, as one engineer noted, the distance in feet was rounded off to the nearest foot, while the metric measure was carried out to the precision of decimal points.

"Now, is that going to make people think that metrics are easy?" he asked sarcastically.

Metrics for most people will not seem easy. But meters as well as yards don't have to be carried past the decimal to a farthingale. Meters can be used as yards are within an approximation of being similar.

Understanding the metric system or applying it in the everyday world is not very difficult.

The supermarket, the gas station, department store, auto trips, wind velocity in winter

So let's look at what you need to know about metrics. Let's look at what you need to know to get by in everyday life.

The meter is the basic unit of length and there are four important multiples or subdivisions of it. —The meter. This is about 39 inches, a little longer than a yard, about the stride of an average adult without back trouble.

—Kilometer — 1,000 meters. —Centimeter — 1/100th of a meter, about the thickness of the tip of a person's little finger, or the diameter of a button on a man's dress shirt.

—Millimeter — 1/10th of a centimeter, about the thickness of a dime.

The object of all of these comparisons is to show that metric measurements can be as precise as you want them to be, or as imprecise as you need them to be. Your own foot may be 12 inches or less, but for rough measurements it is still a foot. It is also a little less than a third of a meter, or, to be precise, 30.48 centimeters.

Why is it that people who have become accustomed to fractions of an inch, which are fractions of a foot, which is a fraction of a yard, are frightened by decimal points and things divided by tens and hundreds?

In the long run, of course, metrics are simpler.

Remember the old commercial about a cigarette a silly little millimeter longer? It was a lot more catchy than saying a silly width of a dime longer. But that's roughly the same degree of silliness.

An American high school or college athlete may run the hundred-yard dash, but in international events he'll run the hundred meters. In fact the Olympics have converted to metric distances, save for the mile which the Olympic officials decided had a history and tradition too rich to abandon. Remember breaking the four-minute mile.

Some subdivisions and multiples of the meter are already functions of American life. The man at the camera shop would probably fall into shock if someone asked for one-third inch movie film. But he'd happily reach for the eight millimeter. Skis are measured in centimeters, and many road signs already show distances in kilometers.

Standard U.S. electrical plugs measure 12 millimeters between prongs. Thank goodness.

Rep. Gast Retains Committee Posts

LANSING — Representative Harry Gast Jr. (R-St. Joseph) has begun his fourth term in the Michigan House of Representatives by maintaining his appointment to the standing committees of which he served during the last two years.

Gast has been named Republican vice-chairman of the towns and counties committees and has been reassigned to the committees on taxation, elections and conservation-recreation-environment.

He explained the towns and counties committee deals with all legislation which affects local governments. He said the committee would tackle reorganization of all county laws early in the session.

Correction of the single business tax will be the first order of the taxation committee, Gast said, and the election committee has been feeling public pressure to alleviate overcrowded ballots, particularly during presidential elections.

There is a vast amount of pending legislation members of the committee on conservation-recreation-environment will consider this session, and a priority concern will be land use legislation, Gast said.

"I feel the committees I serve on reflect my schooling and previous experience," Gast said.

New Buffalo Slates Fluoride Clinic

NEW BUFFALO — Registration for a summer fluoride dental treatment program is underway here and parents should sign up their children by Feb. 25.

Children eligible for the program include three- and four-year-olds, and those in the second, fifth and eighth grades, according to Mrs. Teddie Jelinek, chairwoman of the New Buffalo PTO. The clinic will be held in the summer and parents will be notified of the appointment schedule in May.

A $4 fee will be charged to help cover the costs of operating the clinic, Mrs. Jelinek said.

Parents may call Mrs. Jelinek for further information.

CONSUMERS POWER SUED

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Milwaukee, Wis., widow whose husband was killed when a sailboat mast hit some power lines has filed a $2.5 million federal court suit against Consumers Power Co. Shirley A. Koller contended the utility was negligent for having its power lines near a public boat launching site at Spring Lake. The utility also failed to insulate the wires properly, the suit said. Mrs. Koller's husband, Fred, was injured fatally last July 4, and the boat owner was burned.

Finally, Vantage Longs.

The first long cigarette to bring good taste to low-tar smoking.

Like a lot of smokers you may like the idea of a longer cigarette. You may also want low tar.

But longer cigarettes usually have more tar. Well, Vantage just wouldn't go along with that.

So we worked. Until we could perfect a longer cigarette with the famous Vantage combination of full flavor and low tar. Not the lowest long cigarette you can find. But very possibly the lowest that you will enjoy.

New Vantage Longs. A blend of flavor-rich tobaccos with tar levels held down to the point where good taste still comes through.

That's the Vantage point. And that's the point of Vantage Longs. Never before has there been a long cigarette quite like it.

Try a pack today and see if you go along with us.

CHURCH AND STATE

President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela is in the fourth year of his five-year term, elected by universal vote, his nation relatively prosperous. But in Latin America, where poverty and wealth dwell so close together, where the politically in and the politically out are nervous companions, peace is as unstable as the torrid weather.

The new constitution is only a year old. Already it is tested by bullets. In the first week of June, 1962, 500 Marines revolt at the naval base at Puerto Cabello. Snipers in the buildings put down a withering fire at government tanks and troops that advance against them.

Hector Rondón, a cameraman for the newspaper La Republica, ducks the bullets and follows the government force against the Marines. In two days, more than 200 are killed, the revolt put down, and Rondón has a prize-winning series of pictures — the most vivid, Father Manuel Padilla holding a wounded government rifleman. Pulitzer Prize Winner, 1963.

Victims Hunted In Hotel Blaze

By GORDON HANSON
Associated Press Writer

BRECKENRIDGE, Minn. (AP) — "We'll check for bodies, shovel by shovel," a fire marshal said as he organized the search for 22 persons missing and presumed dead in a hotel fire.

The fire destroyed the three-story Hotel Stratford in this western Minnesota community of 4,200. Billowing smoke and flaring "hot spots" in the debris delayed the search for victims until today. Firemen from four towns who fought the blaze in subzero temperatures stood watch overnight as flames and smoke subsided. Meanwhile, the list of possible victims was rechecked.

Mayor Hugh Mikkelsen said the names came from people who believed that friends and relatives might have been in the 67-year-old brick hotel when it burned early Friday. "We have no idea how many were in the hotel," Mikkelsen said. "The hotel records were all burned."

There was only one known survivor — Douglas Johnson, 41, of Aberdeen, S.D.

Johnson, the father of four and a construction floor finisher, was in town on a school project. He said he was awakened by the sound of wires shorting out.

"My room light wouldn't come on," he said. "I opened my eyes wider and the room was full of smoke. I opened the door and the hall was completely full of smoke so I closed the door."

Unable to flee down the hallway, Johnson went to the window of his room and two policemen put a ladder up to him. Asst. State Fire Marshal Rusty Tallman said there was no information yet on how the fire started.

The hotel, built in 1910, had a staff of four and 40 or 50 rooms, Mikkelsen said.

The city radio dispatcher, Robert Blackwelder, received a telephone call at 4:59 a.m. Friday that the hotel was on fire. He believed the voice was that of Catherine Stadel, owner of the hotel. Mikkelsen speculated that she died in the fire, perhaps trying to arouse guests.

Fire Chief Dick Thompson said the occupants may have been asphyxiated. He said that except for Johnson, none of the hotel residents was seen and no cries for help were heard.

The building was valued at $100,000, Tallman said. It contained a coffee shop, an auto parts store, an insurance agency and a beauty salon.

Mikkelsen said the names of possible victims would not be released "until we can confirm each one as being dead."

KNOWN SURVIVOR: Douglas Johnson, 41, lone known survivor of Stratford hotel fire at Breckenridge, Minn., gets a welcome home hug from his wife, Burdene, when he returned to Aberdeen, S.D. Friday night. (AP Wirephoto)

New Murder Trial For Boyle

By CHRIS ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former mine workers boss W.A. "Tony" Boyle, granted a new murder trial, says, "It just goes to show that when I said I was innocent, I was."

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court set aside Friday Boyle's conviction on charges he ordered the 1969 assassination of Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, who had unsuccessfully challenged him for the presidency of the 200,000-member United Mine Workers Union.

The court said Boyle, 76, deserved a new trial because he was denied his right to present evidence from which the jury might have inferred he was not involved in the Yablonski slayings.

Boyle's attorney, Charles Peruto, said he hoped to have Boyle freed immediately on bail.

Warden James Howard of the Western State Penitentiary in Pittsburgh said that after he told Boyle of the decision "a look of relief came over his face." Boyle suffers from a heart ailment and was in the prison hospital.

Boyle was sentenced in 1973 to three life terms in prison for the deaths of Yablonski, his wife Margaret and their daughter Charlotte.

They were shot on New Year's Eve in 1969 by three hired gunmen as they slept in their rural Clarksville, Pa., home. The bodies were discovered five days later.

At the trial that followed, the prosecution charged that Boyle conspired to kill Yablonski because of the election challenge and Yablonski's threat to have the election invalidated.

William Turnblazer, who admitted the slayings, testified that Boyle gave the orders. Boyle called Turnblazer a liar.

The election was set aside in 1972, and Boyle then lost to Arnold Miller, the current union leader.

During the trial, Boyle's attorneys claimed that officials of UMW District 19, which includes mines in Tennessee and Kentucky, conspired and hired the killers without his knowledge. They contended that the District 19 officials feared Yablonski was planning to publicize irregular financial transactions in the district.

Calm Brings End To Lost Weekend

BY AL AREND
Staff Writer

Southwestern Michigan county road crews assisted by several National Guard units continued the tedious process of plowing out area roads this morning, hoping that winds would not drift them shut again. Continued blizzard conditions Saturday and Sunday kept most secondary roads in Berrien, Cass, Van Buren and Allegan counties impassable. Emergency conditions prevailed in all four counties yet today, as schools and many industries remained closed.

Hardest hit in the state, according to Associated Press reports, were Cass and Allegan counties, where National Guard units were called in to help clear snow and assure stranded residents received food, home heating oil or emergency care. Cass county road crews reported 20-foot high drifts on some north-south roads.

Col. H.A. Stull, commander of the National Guard unit at Dowagiac, said all 22 of his men have been out since Saturday morning, helping stranded motorists, delivering food and fuel to people, plus helping stuck snow plows.

"Some drifts are so deep that when county plows hit them, the trucks bounce off the road and get stuck," Col. Stull said. "So when that happens we help pull them out and send them on their way again."

Throughout southwestern Michigan road crews were continually hampered over the weekend by drifting snow as winds continued to gust up to 40 m.p.h. in some areas.

It's Two Editions In One!

Today's edition of The Herald-Palladium is two papers in one—today's and Saturday's. Charles Bowie, circulation manager, said distribution of the paper was judged to be impossible Saturday because of the severe winter storm. Accordingly, no papers were printed Saturday and the news was held for publication today.

Today's news is in Sections 1 and 3 of the paper, and Saturday's stories fill Sections 2 and 4. Bowie explained the sections for each day are not in consecutive order because of mechanical considerations in positioning the sections on the printing press.

The Family Weekly section, normally a part of Saturday's paper, will be included in Tuesday's paper.

manager of the Cass county road commission said "It's going to be a matter of days before we get cleared out."

Berrien and Van Buren county road crews are also fighting similar conditions and report most secondary roads closed or down to one-lane traffic.

Interstate-94 was reported open by state police but I-196 was closed from Holland to Grand Rapids and snow covered and slippery from Benton Harbor to Holland.

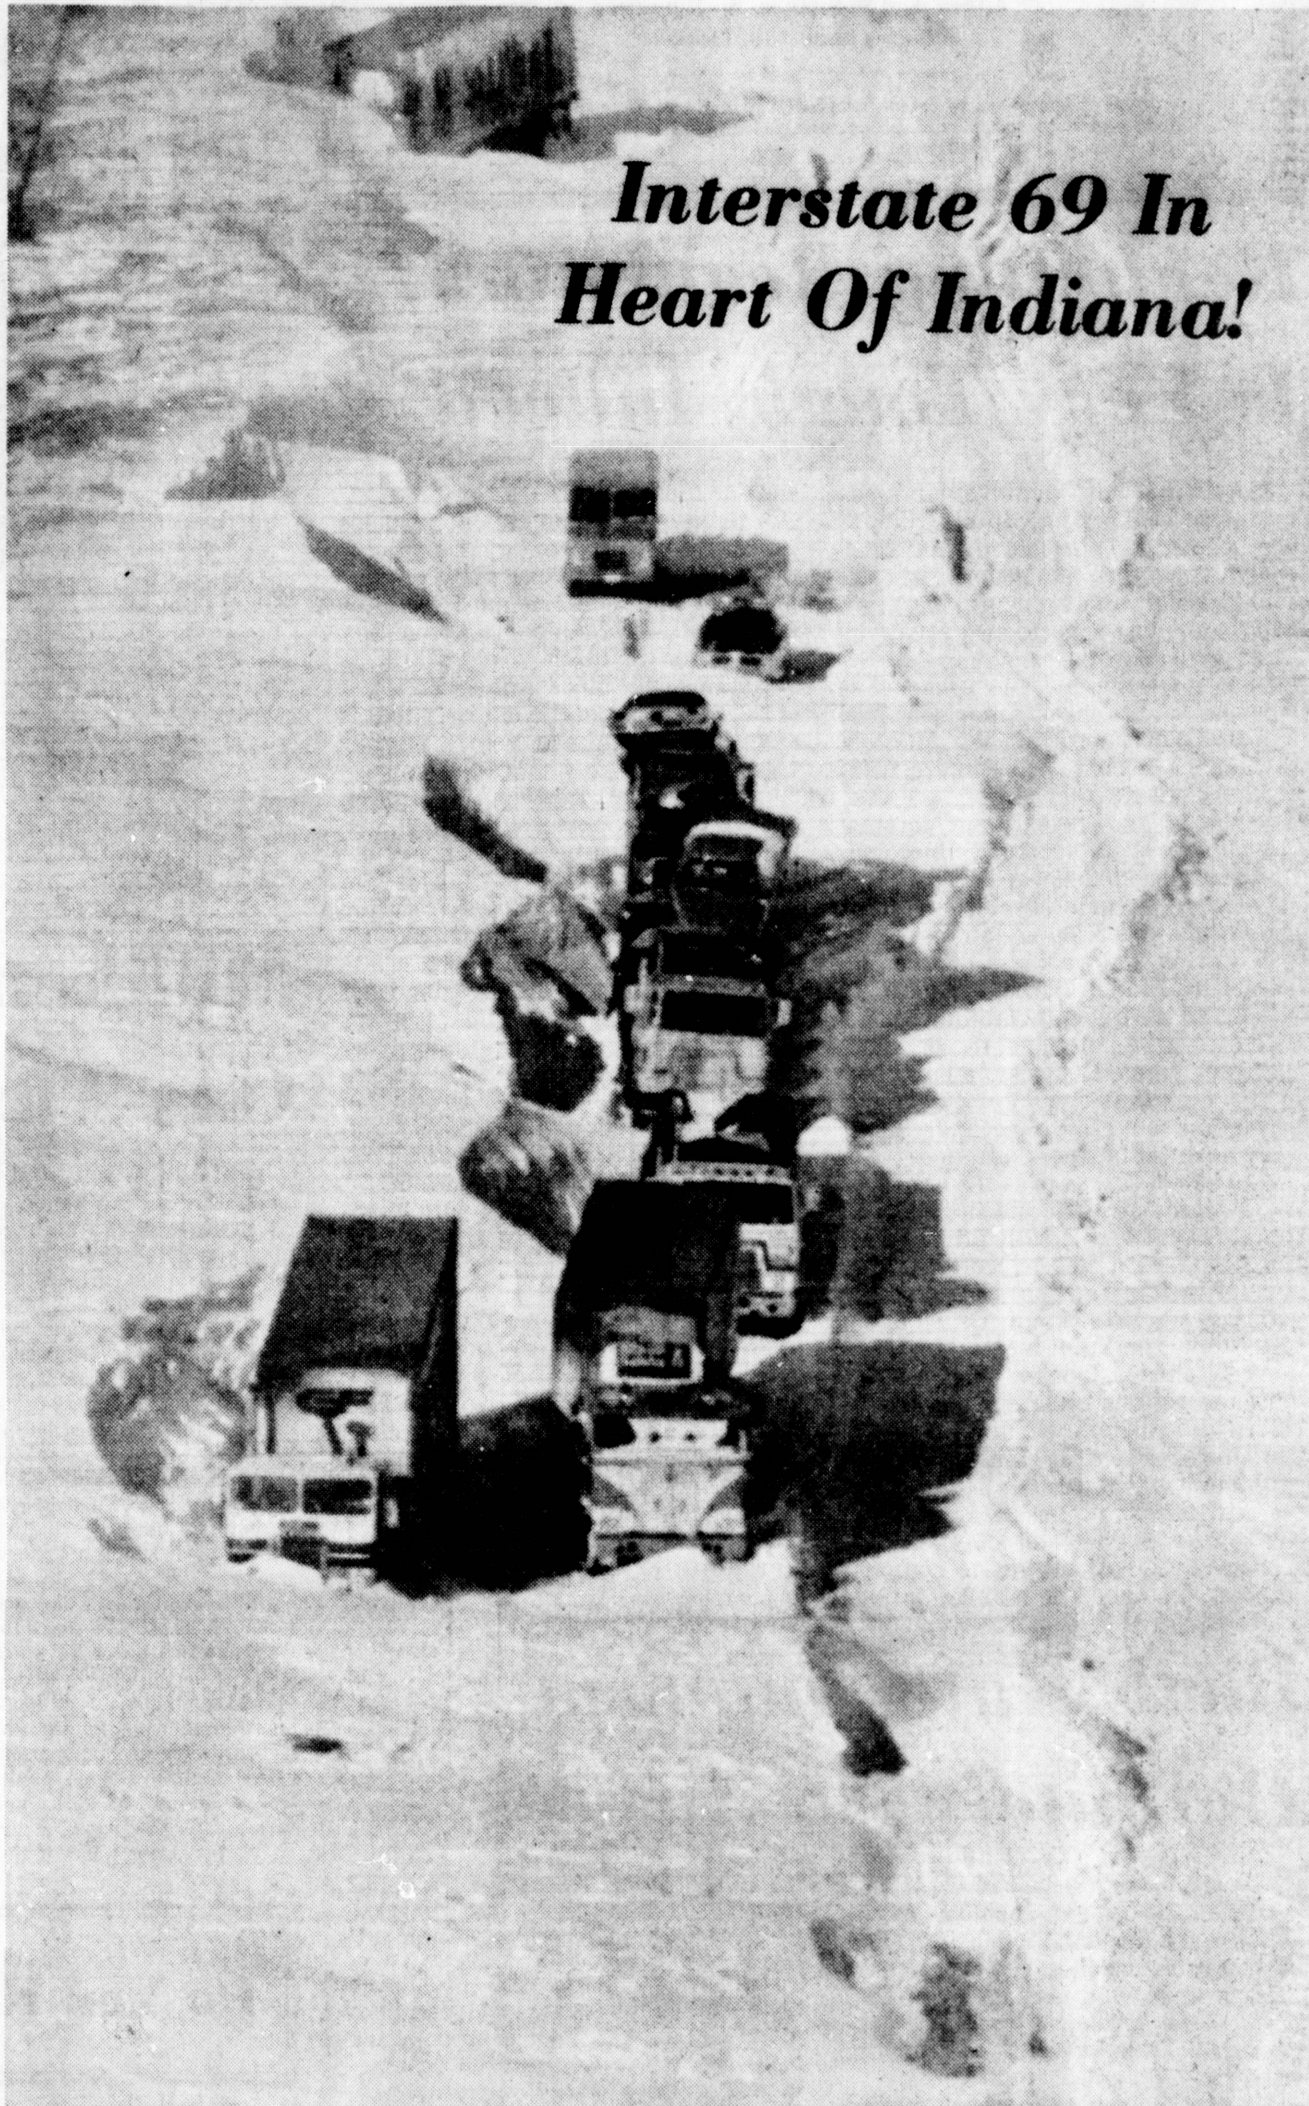

The forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with a chance of snow showers tonight. Tuesday's forecast calls for occasional snow flurries with the high near 20. Winds are expected to remain out of the west-northwest at 15 to 20 m.p.h.

Lost School Days Needn't Be Made Up

By JERRY KRIEGER

Berrien Intermediate School Supt. Ray Sreboht said today that school closings caused by the weather are not required to be made up later. He explained the weather is considered an "act of God", and state law specifies that school days lost for this reason need not be made up. The normal school year consists of 180 days. Sreboht did not have an exact count of the days various schools in Berrien county have lost because of storms this winter, but added that they probably ranged from five to about 10.

Snowmobilers Go On 2 Mercy Runs

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — At least two people in need of medical attention had to be rescued by snowmobile in the South Haven area Saturday night, according to police.

They were a 13-year-old boy who was the victim of an accidental gunshot wound and an elderly man who was found unconscious in his home.

James Helms, son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Helms, 70th street, South Haven, was listed in fair condition this morning at Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo with a gunshot wound to his lower back.

State police from the South Haven post said Helms and his 11-year-old cousin, Travis Johnson, reported they were playing "cops and robbers" in the Helms home when a .22 caliber rifle accidentally discharged.

Police and ambulance attendants were unable to reach the home in their vehicles because of snow-clogged roads. The wounded boy was placed in a sled and pulled by snowmobile to a main road where he was transferred to an ambulance.

The incident remains under investigation, police said.

The elderly man, John

McDaniel, 67, was reported in fairly stable condition today at South Haven Community hospital, suffering from an apparent stroke.

McDaniel's son, William, found his father unconscious at his home on 67th street, Geneva township, called an ambulance and three friends with a snowmobile and tagalong sled.

The three, Tom Robinson, Andy Appelhaus and Bennie Karl, all of South Haven, put the man on the sled and took him about a mile and a half to Phoenix road where the rescue unit of the South Haven fire department was waiting to transport him to the hospital.

Big Storm Easing?-- Deep South Gets It

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

While the great winter storm was showing signs of easing some through the midwest and east today, a winter storm warning was posted today for large portions of Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi in the deep south. Two to four inches of snow, mingled with freezing rain and sleet, are predicted there.

Snow and sleet already blanketed much of the south, from Texas across Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama and into southwest Georgia and northwest Florida overnight.

Meanwhile strict orders for cutbacks in fuel consumption kept millions of workers and students at home today in the frigid East and Midwest but also helped guarantee that their homes will stay warm.

The Federal Power Commission said that because at least 11 states made plans to close businesses and schools to save fuel, and four major natural gas pipeline systems reported slight increases in supplies Sunday, the threat of interrupted gas service to homes had receded.

But more than 1.5 million people were out of work — one million of these in Ohio — and thousands of schools were closed because of the strain on fuel supplies, especially natural gas, during this winter's wicked cold spells.

In Buffalo, N.Y., hardest-hit city in the nation, at least eight persons perished in the blizzard there, including seven found dead in their cars. Fifty-nine persons were arraigned Sunday on charges connected with looting stores during the paralyzing storm.

In most areas, the forecast called for at least two more days of cold weather, perhaps a few degrees warmer than during the weekend.

Both houses of Congress scheduled sessions today on an emergency natural gas bill proposed by the White House.

The bill would enable President Carter to order gas transferred from one pipeline company to another to get it to the most desperate areas.

Carter traveled Sunday to Pittsburgh, in hard-hit western Pennsylvania, to tour a turbine plant, that was partially shut down by the cold and the fuel shortage.

"I don't think there's any doubt that there is a natural gas shortage in this area," the President said. "But nationwide, if we could distribute the gas to exactly where it was needed, we would probably have enough."

Pennsylvania was among the states in which distributors had said they might have to cut off gas delivery to residences because of dwindling supplies and failing pressure.

They already had stopped servicing hundreds of businesses, and about 90,000 workers have been laid off. All state schools have been closed since Thursday, keeping more than 2.6 million pupils at home.

But a Civil Defense spokesman said Sunday night in Harrisburg that the residential cutoff no longer was imminent.

Victims Hunted In Hotel Blaze

By GORDON HANSON
Associated Press Writer

BRECKENRIDGE, Minn. (AP) — "We'll check for bodies, shovel by shovel," a fire marshal said as he organized the search for 22 persons missing and presumed dead in a hotel fire.

The fire destroyed the three-story Hotel Stratford in this western Minnesota community of 4,200. Billowing smoke and flaring "hot spots" in the debris delayed the search for victims until today. Firemen from four towns who fought the blaze in subzero temperatures stood watch overnight as flames and smoke subsided. Meanwhile, the list of possible victims was rechecked.

Mayor Hugh Mikkelsen said the names came from people who believed that friends and relatives might have been in the 67-year-old brick hotel when it burned early Friday. "We have no idea how many were in the hotel," Mikkelsen said. "The hotel records were all burned."

There was only one known survivor — Douglas Johnson, 41, of Aberdeen, S.D.

Johnson, the father of four and a construction floor finisher, was in town on a school project. He said he was awakened by the sound of wires shorting out.

"My room light wouldn't come on," he said. "I opened my eyes wider and the room was full of smoke. I opened the door and the hall was completely full of smoke so I closed the door."

Unable to flee down the hallway, Johnson went to the window of his room and two policemen put a ladder up to him. Asst. State Fire Marshal Rusty Tallman said there was no information yet on how the fire started.

The hotel, built in 1910, had a staff of four and 40 or 50 rooms, Mikkelsen said.

The city radio dispatcher, Robert Blackwelder, received a telephone call at 4:59 a.m. Friday that the hotel was on fire. He believed the voice was that of Catherine Stade, owner of the hotel. Mikkelsen speculated that she died in the fire, perhaps trying to arouse guests.

Fire Chief Dick Thompson said the occupants may have been asphyxiated. He said that except for Johnson, none of the hotel residents was seen and no cries for help were heard.

The building was valued at $100,000, Tallman said. It contained a coffee shop, an auto parts store, an insurance agency and a beauty salon.

Mikkelsen said the names of possible victims would not be released "until we can confirm each one as being dead."

KNOWN SURVIVOR: Douglas Johnson, 41, lone known survivor of Stratford hotel fire at Breckenridge, Minn., gets a welcome home hug from his wife, Burdene, when he returned to Aberdeen, S.D. Friday night. (AP Wirephoto)

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Regulating Regulators Is Very Tough, Indeed

Reviewing his achievements as governor of Georgia, Jimmy Carter was especially proud of his reorganization of the state government. He said several times during his campaign for the presidency that he favored a similar shakeup of the federal government. The prospect is pleasing to millions of Americans who feel that bureaucrats in Washington, D.C., have become too remote from ordinary people's concerns.

Much of the resentment against Washington's "father knows best" attitude is directed toward the federal regulatory agencies that issue rules and regulations affecting almost every U.S. citizen and business enterprise. These government bureaus are widely perceived as blind leviathans whose activities stifle individual freedom and initiative. Thus, it is easy to lose sight of the fact that regulatory agencies came into being to protect individuals from harmful business practices.

Some agencies, such as the Food and Drug Administration and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, deal with public welfare. The regulations they issue complement the existing market system. Other agencies, including the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Communications Commission, are involved in economic regulation. In effect, they replace the market system in industries where, for a variety of reasons, it may be unsatisfactory. By controlling prices and competition, economic regulation aims to compensate for instances of market failure such as monopoly. A common complaint about agencies concerned with economic regulation is that they eventually lose sight of their intended function. Economist Walter Adams of Michigan State University complained in 1972: "What starts as regulation ends up as protection — not of the public but of the industry that is supposedly regulated." In a similar vein, former Federal Trade Commission Chairman Lewis A. Engman charged that "Most regulated industries have become federal protectorates living in the cozy world of 'cost-plus,' safely protected from the ugly specters of competition, efficiency and innovation."

Another problem is overlap and duplication among agencies. Makers of some pesticides, for example, must meet requirements of three agencies — the Environmental Protection Agency, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, and the Consumer Product Safety Commission. Obviously, then, there is ample opportunity for reform of the federal regulatory apparatus. But Carter will find that meaningful reform is difficult to effect. Many regulated industries, fearful of a return to "destructive" competition, want to preserve the status quo. Congress, jealous of its authority over regulatory agencies, has blocked attempts at their reorganization in the past. Indeed, experience shows that it is far easier to create a new federal agency than to reorganize or eliminate an existing one.

Birth Rate Jingoism Definitely No Answer

As large segments of the underdeveloped world concern themselves with population densities and growth rates which have become burdens to improving the quality of life, parts of the developed world are concerned about the reverse — a dropping birth rate.

That the birth rate has been declining in most of the advanced nations is evident from the records. What the decline in population growth means is the subject of diverse interpretation.

In France, a debate over the declining birth rate has gone on much of this year. Last New Year's Eve, President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing began the debate by stating his belief that no country with a moderate population could aspire to greatness.

Historically, that may be close to the truth. But in ages past, sheer numbers made up for the lack of productive tools and mass weapons of destruction. How times have changed and how those changes have affected population quantity and quality is a subject not well understood and only partially explored.

As if the non-scientific mind did not feel left out of enough of the momentous events of the latter years of the 20th century, the U.S. Weather Service has to confuse the transition of metric measurements by substituting Celsius for Centigrade.

Perhaps the first awareness of Celsius by the average layman came with a time and temperature clock registering a -2 C reading. Since that was colder by 30 degrees — more or less, than the Fahrenheit temperature the layman was familiar with, a certain amount of confusion set in until the weatherman was heard using the term Celsius verbally. That really threw the layman for a loss. What happened to Centigrade, he might have asked, if presented the opportunity.

Nearly as anyone can explain it, Celsius seems to be something of a status symbol. The word itself is from Anders Celsius, 18th century Swedish astronomer and originator of the Centigrade temperature scale.

That doesn't explain why Celsius has replaced Centigrade. Time enough for that after the move to metric is mastered.

Be Sure Of What It Means

"Don't glow if someone says you're 'priceless.' They could be inferring you're not worth anything."

Aw, Now, Rome Wasn't Built In A Day!

Milliken To Urge Higher Gas Tax, Car Tab Fees

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) —

Gov. William Milliken is scheduled to unveil his transportation program this week and it is likely to include proposed increases in the state gas tax and license plate fees. The message to the Democratic legislature, expected late in the week, will get most of the attention as lawmakers spend another week organizing their committees and preparing for work on the first bills of the new session.

Milliken aides said the final touches have not been put on the transportation program, which is one of the governor's highest priorities for 1977. It will touch off a major battle in the legislature between supporters of the highway lobby, public transportation backers and various interest groups.

"The governor wants it this year, and as early as possible," said William Rustem, an aide to the governor.

Rustem said the package will include recommendations to hike the state gasoline tax by a cent or two, a major increase in car registration fees, and perhaps other small tax or fee increases.

Rustem said the governor apparently has rejected the idea of raising money from nontransportation sources, such as the property transfer tax. But reportedly the license plate registration fee may be changed from the present fee based on the car's weight to one based on the value of the car.

The tax and fee increases will produce about $150 million to be used to improve public transportation across the state. Rustem said that would include proposals for subways in cities other than Detroit, and more money for railroads, bus service and highways.

Once again, Milliken will propose that all highway and transportation money be lumped together into a "total transportation fund." Highway supporters have fought to keep road money, raised by gas and weight taxes, separate from money used for public transportation and thus guaranteed for road use only.

Milliken and transportation experts in the legislature tried to hustle through a tax package late last year. But it foundered on lawmakers' reluctance to increase revenues without deciding yet how to spend the money.

The transportation program will face tough going in the legislature because it affects a wide variety of interest groups, including truckers, road commissions, oil companies, the Teamsters Union, auto companies and mass transit organizations. In addition, lawmakers representing out-state areas have little public pressure to spend money on anything but roads.

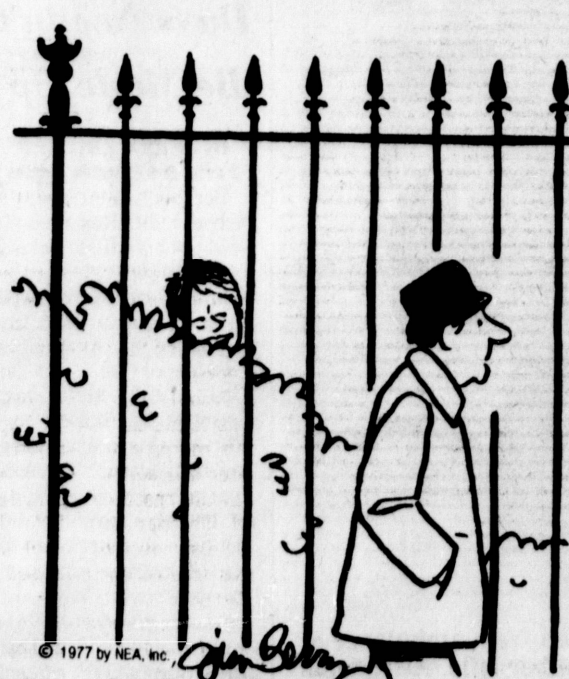

The legislature, meanwhile, will spend most of its second full week organizing committees and scheduling the first bills for consideration. The committee assignments were handed down by Democratic leaders last week.

The Senate may take a final vote on its first major bill, a measure to protect low-income homeowners from reductions in property tax credits. The bill restricts the definition of household income to exclude insurance payments, thus making claimants eligible for larger tax credits.

MIAs Still Not Laid To Rest

WASHINGTON — One year after World War II the government was able to declare without problem that all 6,058 men missing in action were dead. Proper benefits were distributed to survivors and so the concerned relatives were officially set free to begin new lives. The same quick action was taken after Korea.

But four years after the nation stopped fighting in Vietnam, and two years after the last G.I. left Saigon, nearly 800 men continue to be listed as MIAs, and hundreds of anguished families continue to dangle on a gossamer thread of faith they may still be alive.

They are almost certainly not alive. The United States has conducted an MIA search unparalleled in history, and a thoroughly efficient Congressional probe has recently decided there are no living MIAs. Yet the casualties are not laid to rest; the families argue over small odds, and the wretchedly sensitive controversy seems endless.

There is a culprit in all this: The National League of Families of Prisoners of War and Missing in Action. It is the group formed to offer support and group therapy for the war families, and for many years it did just that. Now, according to increasing numbers of Washington observers, its original good purpose has turned sour.

"The League's usefulness has run out," says Rep. G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery (D. Miss.). He chaired a 15-month investigation of the MIA issue, concluding that the men "lost their lives in the service of their country." He says extending the debate now is "dragging it through the mud," and wishes the League of Families would disband "in dignity."

Montgomery does not rap the League with any relish. Nor does he do it lightly. When it was organized in the 1960s the League was a selfless effort by courageous wives to bring the plight of their husbands into the public arena. As such the group was sentimentally adopted by a concerned nation. Many still remember it in this light.

But the League has changed — for the worse. Many of its officers are now salaried instead of volunteers. Its director, formerly with VIVA magazine, is of no relation to a POW or MIA. A member of Montgomery's Congressional staff says the group "has become a bureaucracy, and you have to wonder if its main objective is to perpetuate itself."

Whatever the League's motives, its influence among MIA families remains strong. It is now particularly influential among MIA parents, who see it as their difference between hope and no hope. Many wives have dropped out of the League, while others stay only to avoid arguments with those parents who refuse to admit the death of their sons.

Montgomery says he is concerned most about the wives. "I talk with them and get letters from them — they say they want to get on with their lives, but can't until this thing is settled." And here is where the League's fault is blatant. It won't let the matter settle. It won't close the books. The League says Montgomery's investigation was shallow and insists some of the MIAs may still be alive.

The evidence is absolutely contrary to the League's position. Of the 6,058 MIAs in World War II, as example, not one has since turned up living. Of the 5,127 MIAs in Korea, none have returned. Montgomery says some Vietnam remains (perhaps 150 to 200) may be recoverable, and should be recovered, but any higher expectations are illusory.

Montgomery says the disappointments have been repeated enough. Some wives have tried to escape by taking secret new husbands. Some families have become so emotionally confused they refuse to identify returned remains. Suffering for many is well into its second decade. It's time to bring it to an end. The League of Families is perpetuating irrationality; the conclusion is harsh but accurate.

Due For Cleaning Civil Service

WASHINGTON — The new Carter administration is moving rapidly to take command of the sprawling Federal bureaucracy.

A high priority has been given to rooting out the Nixon and Ford appointees who have been burrowing frantically the past two months into the merit system, where they hoped to hang on to high-paying jobs despite their Republican background.

The Civil Service Commission, which has been accused of making political job referrals during the Nixon years and undermining the career service, has suddenly snapped to attention and begun investigating political hanky-panky. It is probing phony reorganization schemes, under which political appointees were switched to career status, in practically every major department.

Goaded on by bad publicity, as well as the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and Rep. Morris Udall, the CSC has blocked five recent job conversions at ACTION, the agency most blatant about abusing the merit system. CSC declared in the employees' status to be illegal.

Among the employees thwarted are Inspector General Edward Locke, who earned $36,093 a year, and personnel director Richard Tobin, who earned a similar salary.

The CSC is still studying other suspicious job conversions at ACTION. One indication of ACTION's over-partisanship is that a Federal grand jury recently indicted Alan May, its former hiring director, for allegedly conducting a partisan hiring program in violation of civil service rules.

Rep. Udall, dubious of CSC's dedication to the merit system, has written to several agencies and requested all planned reorganization schemes be halted. He has also prodded CSC officials.

New Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Pat Harris was smuggled a copy of a proposed GOP reorganization plan in her department a month ago, and is expected to rescind recent job changes as one of her first actions. Health Education and Welfare Secretary Joe Califano has similarly been alerted to the problem.

A lawsuit has been filed in district court here on behalf of 10 HUD employees transferred under a reorganization they claim was improper.

CSC chairman Robert Hampton, a Nixon appointee who has reportedly acknowledged using the agency to plant political hacks in supposedly merit jobs, is expected to resign soon.

The leading contender for his post is Julie Sugarman, a moving force in the development of Head Start, the educational program for pre-schoolers. He is also a former adviser to ex-New York Mayor John Lindsay. Sugarman met Carter while serving as budget officer for the City of Atlanta.

Carter has pledged to return efficiency and ability to the government apparatus; a good way to begin would be to strengthen the career service. Democratic congressmen and Carter advisers became alarmed after the election when complaints began to pour in about high-level Republicans trying to hang on by taking career jobs.

Fire Kills 22

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Twenty-two persons died in a fire that burned out two houses, a rice mill and two vehicles in Baloi, in the southern Philippines, the Times Journal reported today.

Military authorities in the town 500 miles south of Manila said the fire was started before dawn Sunday by the explosion of a gasoline tank in the rice mill.

Calm Brings End To Lost Weekend

BY AL AREND
Staff Writer

Southwestern Michigan county road crews assisted by several National Guard units continued the tedious process of plowing out area roads this morning, hoping that winds would not drift them shut again. Continued blizzard conditions Saturday and Sunday kept most secondary roads in Berrien, Cass, Van Buren and Allegan counties impassable. Emergency conditions prevailed in all four counties yet today, as schools and many industries remained closed.

Hardest hit in the state, according to Associated Press reports, were Cass and Allegan counties, where National Guard units were called in to help clear snow and assure stranded residents received food, home heating oil or emergency care. Cass county road crews reported 20-foot high drifts on some north-south roads.

Col. H.A. Stull, commander of the National Guard unit at Dowagiac, said all 22 of his men have been out since Saturday morning, helping stranded motorists, delivering food and fuel to people, plus helping stuck snow plows.

"Some drifts are so deep that when county plows hit them, the trucks bounce off the road and get stuck," Col. Stull said. "So when that happens we help pull them out and send them on their way again."

Throughout southwestern Michigan road crews were continually hampered over the weekend by drifting snow as winds continued to gust up to 40 m.p.h. in some areas.

It's Two Editions In One!

Today's edition of The Herald-Palladium is two papers in one—today's and Saturday's. Charles Bowie, circulation manager, said distribution of the paper was judged to be impossible Saturday because of the severe winter storm. Accordingly, no papers were printed Saturday and the news was held for publication today.

Today's news is in Sections 1 and 3 of the paper, and Saturday's stories fill Sections 2 and 4. Bowie explained the sections for each day are not in consecutive order because of mechanical considerations in positioning the sections on the printing press.

The Family Weekly section, normally a part of Saturday's paper, will be included in Tuesday's paper.

manager of the Cass county road commission said "It's going to be a matter of days before we get cleared out."

Berrien and Van Buren county road crews are also fighting similar conditions and report most secondary roads closed or down to one-lane traffic.

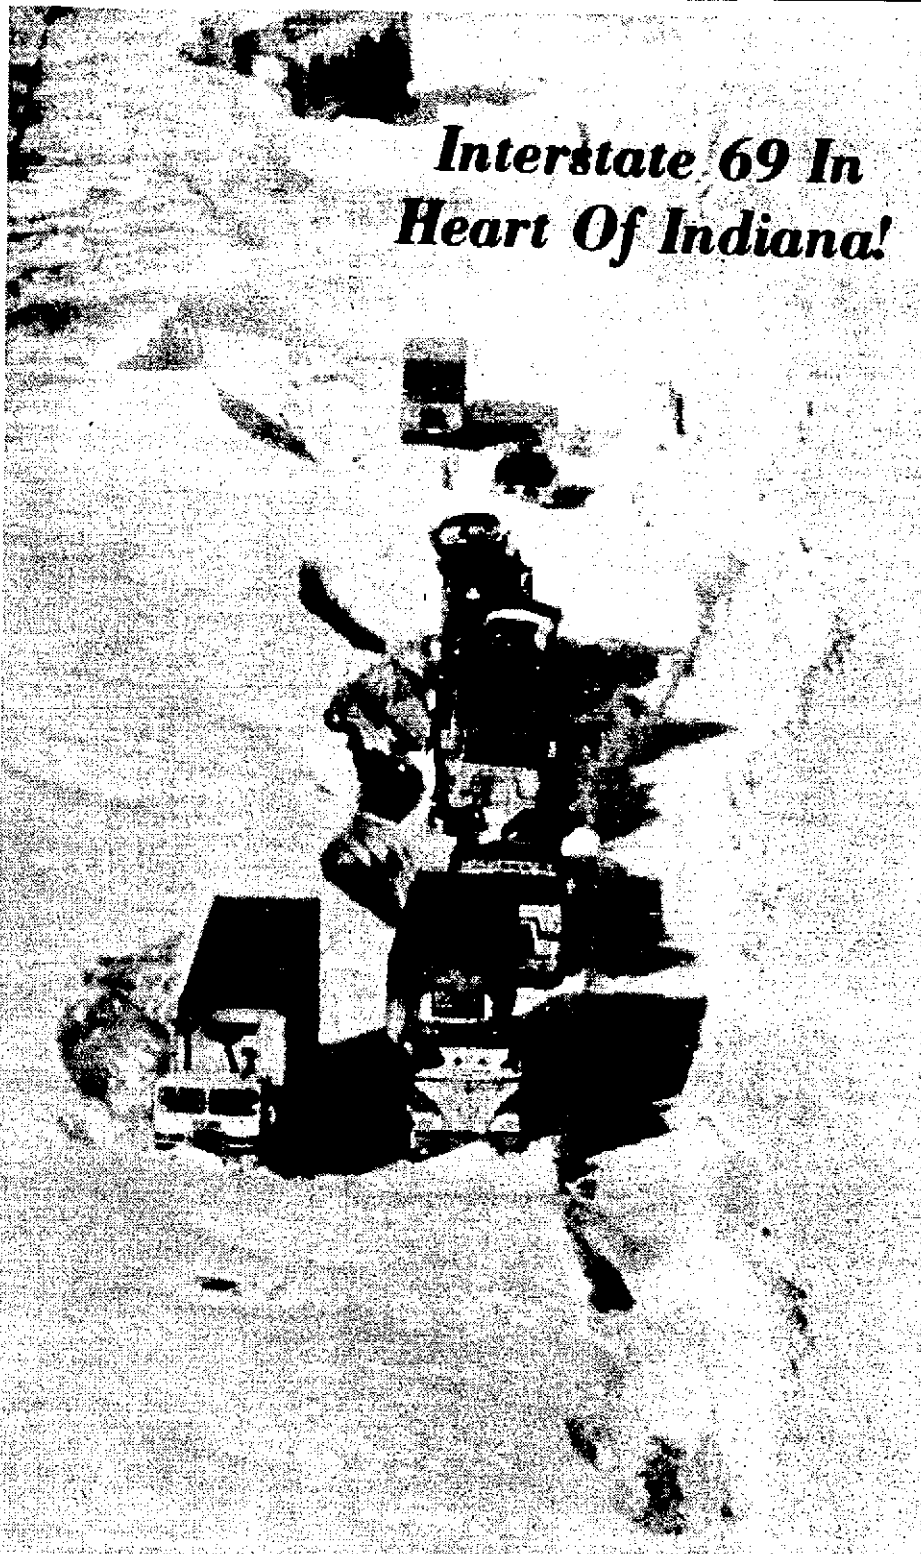

Interstate-94 was reported open by state police but I-196 was closed from Holland to Grand Rapids and snow covered and slippery from Benton Harbor to Holland.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with a chance of snow showers tonight. Tuesday's forecast calls for occasional snow flurries with the high near 20. Winds are expected to remain out of the west-northwest at 15 to 20 m.p.h.

Lost School Days Needn't Be Made Up

By JERRY KRIEGER

Berrien Intermediate School Supt. Ray Sreboth said today that school closings caused by the weather are not required to be made up later. He explained the weather is considered an "act of God," and state law specifies that school days lost for this reason need not be made up. The normal school year consists of 180 days. Sreboth did not have an exact count of the days various schools in Berrien county have lost because of storms this winter, but added that they probably ranged from five to about 10.

Interstate 69 In Heart Of Indiana!

SNOWBOUND FREEWAY: Trucks and a car are nearly covered by drifting snow on Interstate 69—50 miles northeast of Indianapolis—Saturday afternoon following a storm that paralyzed the area and closed all roads in northern Indiana. The vehicles are parked on the outside lane of the interstate, I-69, a major route for Michigan residents traveling south, was reported open both ways today, but hazardous.

Big Storm Easing?—Deep South Gets It

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
While the great winter storm was showing signs of easing some through the midwest and east today, a winter storm warning was posted today for large portions of Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi in the deep south. Two to four inches of snow, mingled with freezing rain and sleet, are predicted there.

Snow and sleet already blanketed much of the south, from Texas across Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama and into southwest Georgia and northwest Florida overnight. Meanwhile strict orders for cutbacks in fuel consumption kept millions of workers and students at home today in the frigid East and Midwest but also helped guarantee that their homes will stay warm.

The Federal Power Commission said that because at least 11 states made plans to close businesses and schools to save fuel, and four major natural gas pipeline systems reported slight increases in supplies Sunday, the threat of interrupted gas service to homes had receded.

But more than 1.5 million people were out of work — one million of these in Ohio — and thousands of schools were closed because of the strain on fuel supplies, especially natural gas, during this winter's wicked cold spells.

In Buffalo, N.Y., hardest-hit city in the nation, at least eight persons perished in the blizzard there, including seven found dead in their cars. Fifty-nine persons were arraigned Sunday on charges connected with looting stores during the paralyzing storm.

In most areas, the forecast called for at least two more days of cold weather, perhaps a few degrees warmer than during the weekend.

Both houses of Congress scheduled sessions today on an emergency natural gas bill proposed by the White House.

The bill would enable President Carter to order gas transferred from one pipeline company to another to get it to the most desperate areas.

Carter traveled Sunday to Pittsburgh, to tour a turbine plant, that was partially shut down by the cold and the fuel shortage.

"I don't think there's any doubt that there is a natural gas shortage in this area," the President said. "But nationwide, if we could distribute the gas to exactly where it was needed, we would probably have enough."

Pennsylvania was among the states in which distributors had said they might have to cut off gas delivery to residences because of dwindling supplies and falling pressure.

They already had stopped servicing hundreds of businesses, and about 90,000 workers have been laid off. All state schools have been closed since Thursday, keeping more than 2.6 million pupils at home.

But a Civil Defense spokesman said Sunday night in Harrisburg that the residential cutoff no longer was imminent.

"We're not out of the woods by any means, but the danger of loss of gas servicing to a community does not appear as if it's

Snowmobilers Go On 2 Mercy Runs

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — At least two people in need of medical attention had to be rescued by snowmobile in the South Haven area Saturday night, according to police.

They were a 13-year-old boy who was the victim of an accidental gunshot wound and an elderly man who was found unconscious in his home.

James Helms, son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Helms, 70th street, South Haven, was listed in fair condition this morning at Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo with a gunshot wound to his lower back.

State police from the South Haven post said Helms and his 11-year-old cousin, Travis Johnson, reported they were playing "cops and robbers" in the Helms home when a .22 caliber rifle accidentally discharged.

Police and ambulance attendants were unable to reach the home in their vehicles because of snow-clogged roads. The wounded boy was placed in a sled and pulled by snowmobile to a main road where he was transferred to an ambulance.

The incident remains under investigation, police said.

The elderly man, John

McDaniel, 67, was reported in fairly stable condition today at South Haven Community hospital, suffering from an apparent stroke.

McDaniel's son, William, found his father unconscious at his home on 67th street, Geneva township, called an ambulance and three friends with a snowmobile and tagalong sled.

The three, Tom Robinson, Andy Appelhaus and Bennie Karl, all of South Haven, put the man on the sled and took him about a mile and a half to Phoenix road where the rescue unit of the South Haven fire department was waiting to transport him to the hospital.

Snowbound Subdivision Has Happy Days

By NAN SCHANZE
Six foot high drifts packed solid by howling wind virtually isolated residents of Yellow Creek subdivision in Royalton township over the weekend.

Yellow Creek is located off Marquette Woods Road between Scottsdale and Hollywood roads.

Most urgent needs were medical supplies and food. Jack D. Lents, assistant advertising manager for the Herald-Palladium, owns an International Scout four-wheel drive. He lives on the corner of Woodland Drive and Marquette Woods. Word spread that Jack was standing by ready to take residents out for groceries.

The Roland Johnson family on Terra Lane was running desperately low on medication for their son. Gillespie's Drug Store of St. Joseph, relayed the medicine to Ron's Quality Meats on M-139 and Jack picked it up. He made two runs a day to pick up staples for neighbors.

Some residents, including William J. Bok and his son Steve, of Terra Lane, walked through fields behind the subdivision to pull groceries home on a sled. "It was tough," Mrs. Bok reported. "Sometimes they sank into drifts up to their waists and had to climb out. They were worn out." Steve Bok commented, "No more Little House on the Prairie for me!"

Robert L. Dearing, of Terra Lane, answers his phone, "Snowbound, Inc." He organized a snowblower brigade to open driveways, when the wind stopped blowing.

Edward Tiscornia of Terra Lane owns a Chevy Blazer with a plow and usually keeps the streets open, but wasn't able to get through at times.

Woodland Drive and Beechnut were solid walls of snow that swept in from open fields to the west.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dulske, who moved here from Dallas, Texas, couldn't believe this was really happening. Mrs. Dulske disliked her living room wall-skiing above the mailboxes down the middle of the roads. Many of the homes had frozen pipes and a common pastime was thawing them out.

Neighbors warded off boredom gathering together for popcorn, a fire, cards and hot cocoa. It was almost like "the good old days."

Berrien Clergy Slate Bishop As Headliner

The Rev. Dr. Edsel A. Ammons, Michigan bishop of the United Methodist church, will be the guest speaker at the 99th annual meeting of the Berrien County Council of Churches Feb. 10. The Rev. Arnold R. Bolin, executive director of the council, said the meeting will be held at the First United Methodist church, 3003 Leeco court, St. Joseph township. A punch bowl period will begin the event at 6 p.m., dinner will be served at 6:30 and the meeting will start about 7:30, he said.

BISHOP AMMONS
Guest Speaker

Bishop Ammons became Michigan's resident bishop last fall after serving as a faculty member at Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill.

Worship leader for the meeting will be the Rev. Dr. Duane M. Vore, executive director of the Michigan Council of Churches.

"Dr. Vore is known to many in this area because of his long service as Michigan Conference minister of the United Church of Christ, prior to assumption of his present duties last year," said the Rev. Bolin.

"We are privileged to have two outstanding churchmen coming to our annual meeting," he said. "This meeting is always a highlight in the religious activity of the area, and all interested persons are urged to attend."

New officers will be elected during the meeting, and they will be installed by the Rev. Donald Adkins. Completing a two-year presidency will be the Rev. Lovell J. Sorrell. Nominated to succeed him is Mrs. Ruth I. Lacker.

Reports on 1976 will be distributed, and displays will be set up by the American Bible Society and CROP, a food program operated by the Church World Service.

Dinner tickets are $3.50 each. Admission to the public meeting after dinner is free.

Tickets must be purchased, either in person or by mail, by Feb. 7. They are available at the Council of Churches office, 305 Lake boulevard, St. Joseph; First United Methodist church, host church for the meeting; and Wesley United Methodist church, 29 North 3rd street, Niles.

Four Die On State Highways

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Four persons died over the weekend in Michigan traffic accidents, state police said, including two 16-year-old Saginaw women who were killed the snowmobile they were riding collided with a car.

State police said Dawn McChesney and Roseann Konsdorf, both of Saginaw, died Saturday afternoon in the snowmobile mishap in Saginaw County's Thomas Township.

The other weekend traffic fatality victims were identified by state police as:

—Susan N. Cruikshank, 22, of Ewart, who died Saturday afternoon in a car-train collision in Osceola County.

—Vernon Dickey, 50, of E. Detroit, the driver of a car that collided broadside with another vehicle Saturday afternoon in Warren, in Macomb County.

Mercy Gets OK For Five More Kidney Machines

Benton Harbor Mercy hospital has received state permission to install five more hemodialysis (kidney treatment) units to add to the five units now in use, according to the Michigan Department of Health.

State approval of a certificate of need for the units was required before the units can be purchased by Mercy, according to Larry Payne, a public information officer for the Department of Health.

C.T. Loftus, Mercy administrator, said earlier that the hospital has budgeted $68,000 for the purchase. He said patient demand for the blood cleansing units has increased since the hospital began dialysis about a year and a half ago. The units at Mercy are the only ones in Berrien, Cass or Van Buren counties, he said. They are now used on two shifts a day.

Payne said the project will be completed by spring.

Mercy's application for the units went to the Division of Health Facility Planning and Construction of the Department of Health in November. Approval of the certificate was announced Jan. 27, Payne said.

Handicap Unit Slates SJ Session

The monthly meeting of the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor area chapter, National Association of the Physically Handicapped, Inc., will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 1, at the Easter Seal Society office, 2015 Lake View avenue, St. Joseph, according to Chapter President Doug Merrill of St. Joseph.

The business will include chapter operation, legislation concerning handicapped people and efforts to have ramps for the handicapped constructed at University plaza, Berrien Springs, said Merrill.

CRASHES BLAMED ON BAD WEATHER Three State Troopers Injured

Three state troopers of the Benton Harbor post were injured in two traffic crashes blamed on the weather over the weekend.

Trooper Gary Chappell, 32, was listed in "fair" condition this morning at Mercy hospital after a head-on collision Saturday afternoon, troopers reported. Trooper Ronald W. Olson, 26, also involved in the crash, was treated and released from Mercy.

Sgt. Gary Ernst, also working out of the Benton Harbor state police post, was listed in "fair" condition at Mercy hospital today after being involved in a multi-vehicle crash on I-94 Friday morning.

emergency vehicle in which they were patrolling collided with a car driven by Rene M. Secor, 21, of Dowagiac, troopers said. She was treated and released at Mercy hospital after the accident.

Olson, who was driving the emergency vehicle, was trying to skirt a large snow drift on M-140, north of Territorial road, Bainbridge township, when the accident occurred. No tickets were issued, troopers said.

Benton township police reported Margaret J. Sanders, 19, and Jesse Sanders, 21, both of 1946 East Britain avenue, were treated and released at Mercy hospital Sunday after they were injured in a collision on Crystal avenue.

Police said a car driven by Margaret Sanders collided with one driven by Rodney R. Struble, 28, of Box 103, while both drivers were attempting to avoid a snow drift. No tickets were issued.

No injuries were reported Sunday when a Berrien county snow plow, driven by Russell Painter, 51, of 846 Lewis, St. Joseph, collided with an auto driven by Ernest H. Williams, 48, of 509 Marquette, Lincoln township, while the plow was trying to clear a snow drift on Red Arrow highway, east of North Crystal avenue, said Benton township police. No tickets were issued.

Dog Clinic Is Rescheduled

James Lull, Bainbridge township treasurer, has announced that a dog clinic originally scheduled for last Saturday has been rescheduled to Wednesday, Feb. 2, at the Spinks Corners Fruit exchange. The clinic will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. Saturday's clinic was canceled due to bad weather.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Regulating Regulators Is Very Tough, Indeed

Reviewing his achievements as governor of Georgia, Jimmy Carter was especially proud of his reorganization of the state government. He said several times during his campaign for the presidency that he favored a similar shakeup of the federal government. The prospect is pleasing to millions of Americans who feel that bureaucrats in Washington, D.C., have become too remote from ordinary people's concerns.

Much of the resentment against Washington's "father knows best" attitude is directed toward the federal regulatory agencies that issue rules and regulations affecting almost every U.S. citizen and business enterprise. These government bureaus are widely perceived as blind leviathans whose activities stifle individual freedom and initiative. Thus, it is easy to lose sight of the fact that regulatory agencies came into being to protect individuals from harmful business practices.

Some agencies, such as the Food and Drug Administration and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, deal with public welfare. The regulations they issue complement the existing market system. Other agencies, including the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Communications Commission, are involved in economic regulation. In effect, they replace the market system in industries where, for a variety of reasons, it may be unsatisfactory. By controlling prices and competition, economic regulation aims to compensate for instances of market failure such as monopoly.

A common complaint about agencies concerned with economic regulation is that they eventually lose sight of their intended function. Economist Walter Adams of Michigan State University complained in 1972: "What starts as regulation ends up as protection — not of the public but of the industry that is supposedly regulated." In a similar vein, former Federal Trade Commission Chairman Lewis A. Engman charged that "Most regulated industries have become federal protectorates living in the cozy world of 'cost-plus,' safely protected from the ugly specters of competition, efficiency and innovation."

Another problem is overlap and duplication among agencies. Makers of some pesticides, for example, must meet requirements of three agencies — the Environmental Protection Agency, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, and the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Obviously, then, there is ample opportunity for reform of the federal regulatory apparatus. But Carter will find that meaningful reform is difficult to effect. Many regulated industries, fearful of a return to "destructive" competition, want to preserve the status quo. Congress, jealous of its authority over regulatory agencies, has blocked attempts at their reorganization in the past. Indeed, experience shows that it is far easier to create a new federal agency than to reorganize or eliminate an existing one.

Birth Rate Jingoism Definitely No Answer

As large segments of the underdeveloped world concern themselves with population densities and growth rates which have become burdens to improving the quality of life, parts of the developed world are concerned about the reverse — a dropping birth rate.

That the birth rate has been declining in most of the advanced nations is evident from the records. What the decline in population growth means is the subject of diverse interpretation.

In France, a debate over the declining birth rate has gone on much of this year. Last New Year's Eve, President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing began the debate by stating his belief that no country with a moderate population could aspire to greatness.

Historically, that may be close to the truth. But in ages past, sheer numbers made up for the lack of productive tools and mass weapons of destruction. How times have changed and how those changes have affected population quantity and quality is a subject not well understood and only partially explored.

As if the non-scientific mind did not feel left out of enough of the momentous events of the latter years of the 20th century, the U.S. Weather Service has to confuse the transition of metric measurements by substituting Celsius for Centigrade.

Perhaps the first awareness of Celsius by the average layman came with a time and temperature clock registering a -2 C reading. Since that was colder by 32 degrees — more or less, than the Fahrenheit temperature the layman was familiar with, a certain amount of confusion set in until the weatherman was heard using the term Celsius verbally. That really threw the layman for a loss. What happened to Centigrade, he might have asked, if presented the opportunity.

Nearly as anyone can explain it, Celsius seems to be something of a status symbol. The word itself is from Anders Celsius, 18th century Swedish astronomer and originator of the Centigrade temperature scale.

That doesn't explain why Celsius has replaced Centigrade. Time enough for that after the move to metric is mastered.

Milliken To Urge Higher Gas Tax, Car Tab Fees

By MALCOLM JOHNSON

Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken is scheduled to unveil his transportation program this week and it is likely to include proposed increases in the state gas tax and license plate fees.

The message to the Democratic legislature, expected late in the week, will get most of the attention as lawmakers spend another week organizing their committees and preparing for work on the first bills of the new session.

Milliken aides said the final touches have not been put on the transportation program, which is one of the governor's highest priorities for 1977. It will touch off a major battle in the legislature between supporters of the highway lobby, public transportation backers and various interest groups.

"The governor wants it this year, and as early as possible," said William Rusten, an aide to the governor.

Rusten said the package will include recommendations to hike the state gasoline tax by a cent or two, a major increase in car registration fees, and perhaps other small tax or fee increases.

Rusten said the governor apparently has rejected the idea of raising money from nontransportation sources, such as the property transfer tax. But reportedly the license plate registration fee may be changed from the present fee based on the car's weight to one based on the value of the car.

The tax and fee increases will produce about $130 million to be used to improve public transportation across the state. Rusten said that would include proposals for subways in cities other than Detroit, and more money for railroads, bus service and highways.

Once again, Milliken will propose that all highway and transportation money be lumped together into a "total transportation fund." Highway supporters have fought to keep road money, raised by gas and weight taxes, separate from money used for public transportation and thus guaranteed for road use only.

Milliken and transportation experts in the legislature tried to hustle through a tax package late last year. But it foundered on lawmakers' reluctance to increase revenues without deciding yet how to spend the money.

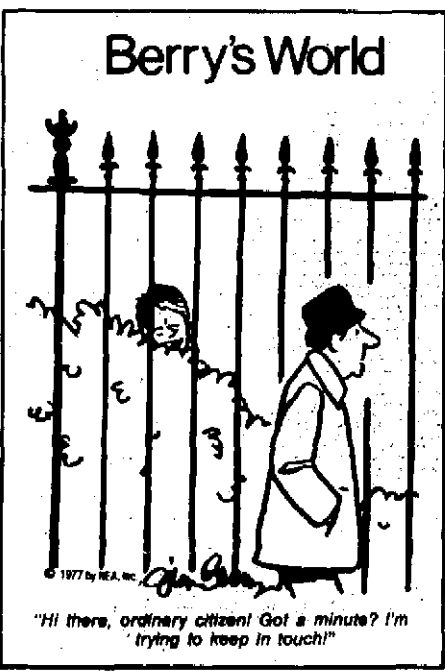

The transportation program will face tough going in the legislature because it affects a wide variety of interest groups, including truckers, road commissions, oil companies, the Teamsters Union, auto companies and mass transit organizations. In addition, lawmakers representing out-state areas have little public pressure to spend money on anything but roads.

The legislature, meanwhile, will spend most of its second full week organizing committees and scheduling the first bills for consideration. The committee assignments were handed down by Democratic leaders last week.

The Senate may take a final vote on its first major bill, a measure to protect low-income homeowners from reductions in property tax credits. The bill restricts the definition of household income to exclude insurance payments, thus making claimants eligible for larger tax credits.

MIAs Still Not Laid To Rest

WASHINGTON — One year after World War II the government was able to declare without problem that all 6,058 men missing in action were dead. Proper benefits were distributed to survivors and so the concerned relatives were officially set free to begin new lives. The same quick action was taken after Korea.

But four years after the nation stopped fighting in Vietnam, and two years after the last G.I. left Saigon, nearly 800 men continue to be listed as MIAs, and hundreds of anguished families continue to dangle on a gossamer thread of faith they may still be alive.

They are almost certainly not alive. The United States has conducted an MIA search unparalleled in history, and a thoroughly efficient Congressional probe has recently decided there are no living MIAs. Yet the casualties are not laid to rest; the families argue over small odds, and the wretchedly sensitive controversy seems endless.

There is a culprit in all this: The National League of Families of Prisoners of War and Missing in Action. It is the group formed to offer support and group therapy for the war families, and for many years it did just that. Now, according to increasing numbers of Washington observers, its original good purpose has turned sour.

"The League's usefulness has run out," says Rep. G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery (D. Miss.). He chaired a 15-month investigation of the MIA issue, concluding that the men "lost their lives in the service of their country." He says extending the debate now is "dragging it through the mud," and wishes the League of Families would disband "in dignity."

Montgomery does not rap the League with any relish. Nor does he do it lightly. When it was organized in the 1960s the League was a selfless effort by courageous wives to bring the plight of their husbands into the public arena. As such the group was sentimentally adopted by a concerned nation. Many still remember it in this light.

But the League has changed — for the worse. Many of its officers are now salaried instead of volunteers. Its director, formerly with VIVA magazine, is of no relation to a POW or MIA. A member of Montgomery's Congressional staff says the group "has become a bureaucracy, and you have to wonder if its main objective is to perpetuate itself."

Whatever the League's motives, its influence among MIA families remains strong. It is now particularly influential among MIA parents, who see it as their difference between hope and no hope. Many wives have dropped out of the League, while others stay only to avoid arguments with those parents who refuse to admit the death of their sons.

Montgomery says he is concerned most about the wives. "I talk with them and get letters from them — they say they want to get on with their lives, but can't until this thing is settled." And here is where the League's fault is blatant. It won't let the matter settle. It won't close the books. The League says Montgomery's investigation was shallow and insists some of the MIAs may still be alive.

The evidence is absolutely contrary to the League's position. Of the 6,058 MIAs in World War II, as example, not one has since turned up living. Of the 5,127 MIAs in Korea, none have returned. Montgomery says some Vietnam remains (perhaps 150 to 200) may be recoverable, and should be recovered, but any higher expectations are illusory.

Montgomery says the disappointments have been repeated enough. Some wives have tried to escape by taking secret new husbands. Some families have become so emotionally confused they refuse to identify returned remains. Suffering for many is well into its second decade. It's time to bring it to an end. The League of Families is perpetuating irrationality; the conclusion is harsh but accurate.

Due For Cleaning Civil Service

WASHINGTON — The new Carter administration is moving rapidly to take command of the sprawling Federal bureaucracy. A high priority has been given to rooting out the Nixon and Ford appointees who have been burrowing frantically the past two months into the merit system, where they hoped to hang on to high-paying jobs despite their Republican background.

The Civil Service Commission, which has been accused of making political job referrals during the Nixon years and undermining the career service, has suddenly snapped to attention and begun investigating political hanky-panky. It is probing phony reorganization schemes, under which political appointees were switched to career status, in practically every major department.

Goaded on by bad publicity, as well as the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and Rep. Morris Udall, the CSC has blocked five recent job conversions at ACTION, the agency most blatant about abusing the merit system. CSC declared the employees' status to be illegal.

Among the employees thwarted are Inspector General Edward Locke, who earned $36,000 a year, and personnel director Richard Tobin, who earned a similar salary.

The CSC is still studying other suspicious job conversions at ACTION. One indication of ACTION's over-partisanship is that a Federal grand jury recently indicted Alan May, its former hiring director, for allegedly conducting a partisan hiring program in violation of civil service rules.

Rep. Udall, dubious of CSC's dedication to the merit system, has written to several agencies and requested all planned reorganization schemes be halted. He has also prodded CSC officials.

New Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Pat Harris was smuggled a copy of a proposed GOP reorganization plan in her department a month ago, and is expected to rescind recent job changes as one of her first actions. Health Education and Welfare Secretary Joe Califano has similarly been alerted to the problem.

A lawsuit has been filed in district court here on behalf of 10 HUD employees transferred under a reorganization they claim was improper.

CSC chairman Robert Hampton, a Nixon appointee who has reportedly acknowledged using the agency to plant political hacks in supposedly merit jobs, is expected to resign soon.

The leading contender for his post is Julie Sugarman, a moving force in the development of Head Start, the educational program for pre-schoolers. He is also a former adviser to ex-New York Mayor John Lindsay. Sugarman met Carter while serving as budget officer for the City of Atlanta.

Carter has pledged to return efficiency and ability to the government apparatus; a good way to begin would be to strengthen the career service. Democratic congressmen and Carter advisers became alarmed after the election when complaints began to pour in about high-level Republicans trying to hang on by taking career jobs.

Fire Kills 22

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Twenty-two persons died in a fire that burned out two houses, a rice mill and two vehicles in Baloi, in the southern Philippines, the Times Journal reported today.

Military authorities in the town 500 miles south of Manila said the fire was started before dawn Sunday by the explosion of a gasoline tank in the rice mill.

Women Own More Securities

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — Men used to say to women, you're not equipped to deal with money. Leave the figures to us, dear.

As you must have noticed, that's changing.

"By 1980, almost half the population of American women will be working," says Myrna Liebowitz, "and they own more than 51 per cent of the securities. They want to control their money now, and learn about it."

Miss Liebowitz, president of the Women's Stockbrokers Association, is doing her best to help.

A stockbroker for 15 years, member of the firm Herzfeld & Stern, she began giving her seminar called "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Personal Finances and Were Afraid to Ask," in May, '75, in the New York area, at a cost of approximately $60 for three evening sessions.

She also addresses women's groups, appears on local television and says, yes, when corporations ask her to conduct a seminar in banking or credit, to "raise the level of those women they want to advance in management."

Well, you say. We should know why it's vital to leave a will (so you, and not the government, decide where your assets will go) and whether or not to hire an accountant to do your taxes (yes, if you have a lot of deductions).

But stocks and bonds? Surely you jest. Where's the money supposed to come from for that?

Do you know where it's going now, Miss Liebowitz will reply. If you're not on a budget, chances are you don't.

"A woman needs a budget so she can control what's coming

HOMEWORK: Myrna Liebowitz says women need to do some homework if they're going to invest in the stock market. Read newspapers every day because "current events are the most important thing."

in and going out. First of all, cash disbursements — what you spend on newspapers, transportation, lunches, etc. — should comprise only five or ten per cent. Pay for everything else by check: clothing, food, etc. At the end of a month, you'll have facts and figures at your disposal and you'll know where your money is going."

Then you can do something about your extravagances. If you're a clotheshorse, start waiting for sales. If you leave your money in the cash register at the A&P, "watch for specials at different supermarkets and buy house brands when possible. Also, shop after you've eaten so you won't give in to impulse buying, and always bring a list and stick to it."

You can "find" money by bringing your lunch to work or by spending less on pantyhose, and on and on.

And if you really don't know a stock from a bond, you've got to do some homework. "Take an adult education class at a local college or one that a brokerage firm gives."

Then, to decide where and how you're going to invest, read the newspaper every day because "current events are the most important thing. Through that everything else comes. And read the financial newspapers to get a sense of the economy and how the country is going. When Carter was elected, he said he wants to put his area of growth in our natural energy resources, so you can glean from that that maybe you should investigate natural resources."

Or, "if you're using a good hair preparation or cosmetic or disinfectant, look into that company. See what the growth rate is, if the product has good promotion and display. Check up on the company with a copy of the Standard & Poor's sheet which you can get from any brokerage firm."

Okay, you're now ready to take a shot — provided you acknowledge the risk. "There's a risk in everything," she says, "but if inflation is six and one-half per cent and you get, say five and one-fourth per cent dividend on a savings account, you're losing one and one-fourth per cent. The whole idea is to keep ahead of inflation so you have more purchasing power."

The time has come to select a stockbroker and you do that first by asking friends for recommendations. "Then," she says, "you should call a few brokers and set up a consultation but always ask if there's a fee involved." Then decide whether or not you want to consult with the broker who charges one.

"Never choose a broker you don't have a good rapport with or who won't give you direct answers, i.e., why he thinks such and such stock will go up. Or one who makes you feel your questions are too trivial." It's your money, after all.

And when you're all set and you've started to fill your portfolio with natural gas or frozen foods, it won't hurt to do one more thing: pray.

Open House Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stubelt, 5787 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, will be honored for their 40th wedding anniversary at an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6.

Friends and relatives are invited to the event being hosted by the couple's children, Dennis of Connecticut, Mrs. Mel (Sharon) Felker of St. Joseph, and Garrell and Stanley, both of Bainbridge.

Walter Stubelt and the former Miss Hattie Lester were married Feb. 7, 1937, by the late Rev. H.C. Haase at St. Matthew's Evangelical Lutheran church, Benton Harbor.

The couple has eight grandchildren.

Family Film Night

Three films, two on snow skiing, will be featured for Family Film Night Tuesday, Feb. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph.

"Winter Day" attempts to capture the mood and pace of a day in a ski resort, and "This Is Canada - Ski Time in Jasper" shows skiing in Jasper National park in the Canadian Rockies. The film "Automania," a lighthearted animated spoof on the world of the automobile, will also be shown.

A story hour for preschool through second grade children is held every Saturday at the library at 11 a.m. February story hours will feature "Rackety Raccoon and his Story Hour Friends," and celebrations of Lincoln's birthday, Valentine's Day and Washington's birthday.

Memorabilia dealing with the history of the library will be in the display case during February. The display has been prepared by Anne Stobbe, head librarian, and Barbara Troost, staff member.

New books at the library include "Season in Purgatory" by Thomas Kenneally; "The Winding Stair" by Sir Francis Bacon; "His Rise and Fall" by Daphne du Maurier, and "The Masaryks: The Making of Czechoslovakia" by Zbynek Zeman.

PERSUADED HUSBAND

Tips For Buying Rackets

NEW YORK, N.Y. — When Chris Evert started playing tennis in 1958, there were only five or six good rackets being made, and all were wood.

Since then, the tennis market has been overwhelmed with a confusing array of rackets made of steel, aluminum, boron, graphite and fiberglass. How do you choose the best racket for you? The February issue of Seventeen magazine gives a few buying tips.

too heavy. Weight and grip size: A light racket, weighing 13 to 13½ ounces before stringing, is best, with a grip size of four and one-fourth to four and one-half inches for most girls. As a guideline for choosing grip size, measure the distance from the tip of your middle finger to the farther of the two deep crossways lines on your palm, but be sure to consider the feel of the grip, also.

Once you've caught the tennis bug, the kind of racket you need depends on your style. If you slam the ball with all your might, or you have a "big" serve but erratic ground strokes, you need as stiff a racket as possible.

If your ground strokes are good but not your serve, you need a racket that has little wind resistance, so that you can snap its head through the air more easily. Most of the split-throat rackets, especially steel, aluminum and graphite, have that quality.

If you're not sure what your style is, don't worry. Borrow the rackets of other good players and take your time trying them. You'll know when you have found the right racket for you.

Give A Gift Of Jewelry

From Cleopatra right up to Liz Taylor, there hasn't been a woman who could resist a jeweled bauble from her beloved, and it doesn't necessarily have to be the Hope Diamond either, the Jewelry Industry Council reports.

So if you're looking for something to set her eyes sparkling on St. Valentine's Day, you might consider some of the newest jewelry fashions that will be popular this spring, experts advise.

A delicate gold chain strung with small tiger's eye stones and fluted gold beads in groups of three (Cupid's code for "I Love You") might be your choice in a necklace or bracelet, or you might choose a simple strand of small tiger's eye beads on a fine gold chain.

Of course, you'll find tiny gold hearts, rose buds and arrows straight from Cupid's bow in Valentine — oriented bracelets, pins and necklaces. There are a lot of gemstones — jade, sodalite, ivory, Rhodanite and Carnelian — cut in heart shapes for your love.

Traditionally, lockets are the gift of love for "teen sweethearts," as are charm bracelets with both your initials on them, or bracelets with x's and o's — love and kisses.

If you've really set your cap for a certain young miss, lasso her with a novel new "noose" necklace that has a tiny diamond at the knot.

One very personalized gift for St. Valentine's Day, and sure to be treasured is her birthstone ring. In case you don't know it, the Council lists them as follows: January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, aquamarine; April, diamond; May, emerald; June, pearl or moonstone; July, ruby; August, peridot; September, sapphire; October, opal; November, topaz, and December, turquoise.

Clay Objects Are 'Pottery'

Pottery includes all objects made of clay and hardened by fire.

Ceramics is the term for the study of the art of pottery. Porcelain refers to objects made from a high-fire, pure clay.

Snowbound Subdivision Has Happy Days

By NAN SCHANZE
Six foot high drifts packed solid by howling wind virtually isolated residents of Yellow Creek subdivision in Royalton township over the weekend.

Yellow Creek is located off Marquette Woods Road between Scituate and Hollywood roads.

Store of St. Joseph, relayed the medicine to Ron's Quality Meats on M-139 and Jack picked it up. He made two runs a day to pick up staples for neighbors.

Some residents, including William J. Bok and his son Steve, of Terra Lane, walked through fields behind the subdivision to pull groceries home on a sled. "It was tough," Mrs. Bok reported. "Sometimes they sank into drifts up to their waists and had to climb out. They were worn out." Steve Bok commented, "No more Little House on the Prairie for me!"

Neighbors warded off boredom gathering together for popcorn, a fire, cards and hot cocoa. It was almost like "the good old days".

Berrien Clergy Slate Bishop As Headliner

The Rev. Dr. Edsel A. Ammons, Michigan bishop of the United Methodist church, will be the guest speaker at the 59th annual meeting of the Berrien County Council of Churches Feb. 10. The Rev. Arnold R. Bolin, executive director of the council, said the meeting will be held at the First United Methodist church, 3003 Leeco court, St. Joseph township. A punch bowl period will begin the event at 6 p.m., dinner will be served at 6:30 and the meeting will start about 7:30, he said.

BISHOP AMMONS
Guest Speaker

Bishop Ammons became Michigan's resident bishop last fall after serving as a faculty member at Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill.

Worship leader for the meeting will be the Rev. Dr. Duane M. Vore, executive director of the Michigan Council of Churches.

"Dr. Vore is known to many in this area because of his long service as Michigan Conference minister of the United Church of Christ, prior to assumption of his present duties last year," said the Rev. Bolin.

"We are privileged to have two outstanding churchmen coming to our annual meeting," he said. "This meeting is always a highlight in the religious activity of the area, and all interested persons are urged to attend."

New officers will be elected during the meeting, and they will be installed by the Rev. Donald Adkins. Completing a two-year presidency will be the Rev. Lovell J. Sorrell. Nominated to succeed him is Mrs. Ruth I. Lacker.

Reports on 1976 will be distributed, and displays will be set up by the American Bible Society and CROP, a food program operated by the Church World Service.

Dinner tickets are $3.50 each. Admission to the public meeting after dinner is free.

Tickets must be purchased, either in person or by mail, by Feb. 7. They are available at the Council of Churches office, 305 Lake boulevard, St. Joseph; First United Methodist church, host church for the meeting; and Wesley United Methodist church, 29 North 3rd street, Niles.

Four Die On State Highways

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Four persons died over the weekend in Michigan traffic accidents, state police said, including two 16-year-old Saginaw women who were killed the snowmobile they were riding collided with a car.

State police said Dawn McChesney and Roseann Konsdorf, both of Saginaw, died Saturday afternoon in the snowmobile mishap in Saginaw County's Thomas Township.

The other weekend traffic fatality victims were identified by state police as:

—Susan N. Cruikshank, 22, of Ewart, who died Saturday afternoon in a car-train collision in Oscoda County.

—Vernon Dickey, 50, of E. Detroit, the driver of a car that collided broadside with another vehicle Saturday afternoon in Warren, in Macomb County.

Donations Sought For Fire Victims

PULLMAN — An appeal is being made for clothing and household articles for an elderly Pullman couple whose home and all personal belongings were destroyed in a fire early Saturday.

Lee township firemen who made the appeal said Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgan did not have any insurance.

Contributions may be left at the Lee township fire station or by calling fire chief Wayne Blanchard.

Mercy Gets OK For Five More Kidney Machines

Benton Harbor Mercy hospital has received state permission to install five more hemodialysis (kidney treatment) units to add to the five units now in use, according to the Michigan Department of Health.

State approval of a certificate of need for the units was required before the units can be purchased by Mercy, according to Larry Payne, a public information officer for the Department of Health.

C.T. Loftus, Mercy administrator, said earlier that the hospital has budgeted $68,000 for the purchase. He said patient demand for the blood cleansing units has increased since the hospital began dialysis about a year and a half ago. The units at Mercy are the only ones in Berrien, Cass or Van Buren counties, he said. They are now used on two shifts a day.

Payne said the project will be completed by spring.

Mercy's application for the units went to the Division of Health Facility Planning and Construction of the Department of Health in November. Approval of the certificate was announced Jan. 27, Payne said.

Handicap Unit Slates SJ Session

The monthly meeting of the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor area chapter, National Association of the Physically Handicapped, Inc., will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 1, at the Easter Seal Society office, 2015 Lake View avenue, St. Joseph, according to Chapter President Doug Merrill of St. Joseph.

The business will include chapter operation, legislation concerning handicapped people and efforts to have ramps for the handicapped constructed at University plaza, Berrien Springs, said Merrill.

CRASHES BLAMED ON BAD WEATHER Three State Troopers Injured

Three state troopers of the Benton Harbor post were injured in two traffic crashes blamed on the weather over the weekend.

Trooper Gary Chappell, 32, was listed in "fair" condition this morning at Mercy hospital after a head-on collision Saturday afternoon, troopers reported. Trooper Ronald W. Olson, 26, also involved in the crash, was treated and released from Mercy.

Sgt. Gary Ernst, also working out of the Benton Harbor state police post, was listed in "fair" condition at Mercy hospital today after being involved in a multi-vehicle crash on I-94 Friday morning.

Olson and Chappell were injured when the four-wheel drive emergency vehicle in which they were patrolling collided with a car driven by Rene M. Secor, 21, of Dowagiac, troopers said. She was treated and released at Mercy hospital after the accident.

Olson, who was driving the emergency vehicle, was trying to skirt a large snow drift on M-140, north of Territorial road, Bainbridge township, when the accident occurred. No tickets were issued, troopers said.

Benton township police reported Margaret J. Sanders, 18, and Jesse Sanders, 21, both of 1946 East Britain avenue, were treated and released at Mercy hospital Sunday after they were injured in a collision on Crystal avenue.

Police said a car driven by Margaret Sanders collided with one driven by Rodney R. Struble, 28, of Box 103, while both drivers were attempting to avoid a snow drift. No tickets were issued.

No injuries were reported Sunday when a Berrien county snow plow, driven by Russell Painter, 31, of 846 Lewis, St. Joseph, collided with an auto driven by Ernest H. Williams, 48, of 509 Marquette, Lincoln township, while the plow was trying to clear a snow drift on Red Arrow highway, east of North Crystal avenue, said Benton township police. No tickets were issued.

Dog Clinic Is Rescheduled

James Lull, Bainbridge township treasurer, has announced that a dog clinic originally scheduled for last Saturday has been rescheduled to Wednesday, Feb. 2, at the Spinks Corners Fruit exchange. The clinic will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. Saturday's clinic was canceled due to bad weather.

Paris Designers Show Feminine Fashions

By SUZY PATTERSON
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The comeback of a really feminine woman is the couture news for next summer. She's as female as Eve, as nymphet-sexy as Lolita, as pampered as Scarlett O'Hara.

After years of slick, hard-edge chic, and transitions of recent seasons, the Paris designers have gone all out for silhouettes that men would like to look at, and touch.

It's a step back for women's lib, maybe, but a boon for anybody who likes to, and has the means to, dress up.

Paris high fashion may be remote and inaccessible to ordinary mortals, but it's still alive and vital, as a great show to promote the couture's sidelines.

Folklore is ever present, but peasant and other more exotic outfits are more refined than ever.

Voluptuous and curvy, the clothes show new supple fullness, especially in gathered tops and ballooning full sleeves, full dirndls or knife-pleated skirts of every possible pleat width. And there's a ruffle explosion that looks like more than a passing fancy.

Soft fabrics floating by in clouds of fabulous colors go side by side with bubbly lightweight gazar taffeta, adorned with miles of maypole ribbons, eyelet, lace and fringe. Long double skirts with duster ruffles or aprons go back to our tinned ancestors. It's as fussy and complicated as it sounds, but the great designers manage to put it together coherently.

Couture lengths are debatable for daytime, and the consensus is mostly below the knee. The mini is not quite a comeback, though Cardin and a couple of others hewed very brief tunics in sportswear. The knee peeked out shyly at Dior and more boldly at Balmain. Bouncy knee-length evening dresses at Balmain and Givenchy look like a trend to come.

Designers nearly passed up women's trousers, but Saint Laurent gave them a new look with boxy jackets piped in braid paired with blouses inized by bowed pterot ruffled necks and cuffs.

Colors for daytime are as soft as the cotton voile, flannel, jersey, or crepe de chine fabrics. They start with white and beige, and range through navy and some pastel shades with big dashes of bright red or green for good measure.

But Paris couture was mainly a soiree story. Draped or biased Greek tunics at Cardin vied with floppily bloused tunics in a length from Renaissance inspiration at the house of Schiaparelli for a return to ancient history.

Other influences marked the shows — especially Spanish. Creole, gypsy and Victorian grandama, the latter at Saint Laurent.

His romantic ruffles applied in profusion to scoop or high necks, shepherdess sleeves, and all the way down skirts looked like beacons for next year's ready-to-wear.

Nudity is fine for next summer, as long as you show it under a very expensive, possibly ruffled transparent gown, as at Saint Laurent, Cardin, and Hanae Mori. Small bosoms at the couture shows bounced gently by, and little evidence of bras was seen — which is OK for a streamlined model.

The peasant girls who appeared a couple of seasons ago in Paris ready-to-wear got a new lift. At Lanvin they turned out in puffy silk skirts, long sleeveless boleros over big blouses. Guy Laroche produced exquisite naive dresses embroidered with cross-stitch and flowers. Givenchy made it all beautifully ladylike, and loaded it with finished details in a rather Spanish-gypsy vein — ball fringes, coins on chains and flounces.

The details not to forget for Paris spring-summer include full and puffy sleeves, and cinched wasp-waists, sometimes girthed by corselet belts. Or the waist is eased with bloused off shoulder or drawstring-tied scoop-necks over sashes, bowed belts or ribboned cummerbunds.

Sleeveless boleros or squared "paletot" toppers give the suit a new look, but don't forget to be ruffled for evening. Black is ever-present and chic after dark, but every color in the rainbow came out — in solid shades of taffeta, flower prints, stripes. From soft and subtle mauves, baby pinks, leafy greens, to the brassier looks of apple and lime green, fire-engine red, shocking pink and deep purple, everything was there in sumptuous solids and prints — a blaze of glory for the fabric industry.

Student In Play

KALAMAZOO — Barbara Weathers, a junior from Mat-tawan, is a member of the cast for the next major production of the Western Michigan University Theater's season, Slawomir Mrozek's "Vatzlav".

Performances will be Feb. 9-12 in the Laura V. Shaw Theater. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Miss Weathers portrays the self-proclaimed genius in the play.

"Vatzlav" is a satirical comedy on the modern world. The language is bawdy and outspoken. A comic striptease scene lampoons the upper class exploitation of the people and makes "Vatzlav" definitely a play for mature audiences only.

Cinema Arts Film Feb. 5-7

"A Brief Vacation" will be the third film of the season for Cinema Arts Society.

The film will be shown at 5 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 5, and at 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 7 and 8, at the Loma theater, Coloma.

Single admissions will be available at the door.

"A Brief Vacation" was the final collaboration between the late director Vittorio De Sica and scriptwriter Cesare Zavattini.

Florinda Bolkan portrays Clara, a beaten-down factory worker in Milan, who resents her lower class life.

More Appetizing For Travelers

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Eating en route includes dining or snacking on railroads, airplanes and ships. But let's discuss here the problems and awards of eating along the tracks, so to speak.

In this category things have not been very rosy in the past 10 years. But with a hopefully progressive new Secretary of Transportation, Brooks Adams of Washington, and a stated new determination to brighten Amtrak food service, things begin to look more appetizing for travelers.

Today Amtrak serves in its dining cars such staple American dishes as steak, short ribs, filet of sole and chicken, also hot and cold sandwiches. On shorter runs, there is snack bar service. Very decent food but less than elegant.

Even so that's a far cry from 1859 when railroad eating was far from good. According to the new book "Eating in America" by Waverley Root and Richard de Rochemont, which provides 488 pages of eating history (Morrow, $16.95), early traveling was rough on the stomach as well as other parts of the anatomy.

A quote from a report in 1839 reveals, "The cars stop, all the doors are thrown open and out rush all the passengers like boys out of school, and crowd around the tables to solace themselves with pies, patties, cakes, hard-boiled eggs, hams, custards and a variety of railroad luxuries too numerous to mention. The bell rings for departure, in they all hurry with their hands and mouths full, and off they go again until the next stopping place induces them to relieve the monotony of the journey by masticating without being hungry."

Even some years later, things had not improved much. Both Root, a distinguished food writer, and de Rochemont, a food expert, and also a well-known movie producer, express wonder that things had not improved much during those 40 years.

Along came George M. Pullman with his Pullman dining car. What he had achieved with his comfortable sleeping car, he now undertook to do with eating.

"Dining car menus in 1870 offered seventy-five cent meals of oysters on the half shell, porthouse steak, quail, antelope, plover, fresh trout and terrapin, with second helpings on the house. There was champagne at every meal, including breakfast, and passengers ate in the splendor of Turkish carpets, French mirrors, fringed portieres and rare inlaid woods. The Denver and Rio Grande made a specialty of mountain trout, the Union Pacific was famous for its antelope steaks, the Northern Pacific for its grouse and salmon."

The Northern Pacific advertised as the line of the Great Baked Potato, as it crossed the state of Idaho, home of the russet Burbank potato. The Chicago and Northwestern railroad offered 35 main courses and 25 desserts. But that was high living. The dinner cost $1.

But those days are gone. They disappeared by the end of World War II, along with the development of meals in the air when people exchanged sumptuous dining for fast flight.

From Carobs To Carats

Originally diamonds were weighed against the seeds of the carob tree, an Oriental plant.

These seeds were used as the unit of measure because they were closer than anything else in nature to uniformity of weight.

Nowadays the carat is a standardized unit; there are about 142 carats in an ounce, or 2,268 in a pound. Only one diamond found so far, the great Cullinan, has weighed as much as a pound. It was 3,106 carats!

Women Own More Securities

By ELLIE GROSSMAN

NEW YORK (NEA) — Men used to say to women, you're not equipped to deal with money. Leave the figures to us, dear.

As you must have noticed, that's changing.

By 1980, almost half the population of American women will be working," says Myrna Liebowitz, "and they own more than 31 per cent of the securities. They want to control their money now, and learn about it."

Miss Liebowitz, president of the Women's Stockbrokers Association, is doing her best to help.

A stockbroker for 15 years, member of the firm Herzfeld & Stern, she began giving her seminar called "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Personal Finances and Were Afraid to Ask," in May, '75, in the New York area, at a cost of approximately $80 for three evening sessions.

She also addresses women's groups, appears on local television and says, yes, when corporations ask her to conduct a seminar in banking or credit, to "raise the level of those women they want to advance in management."

Well, you say. We should know why it's vital to leave a will (so you, and not the government, decide where your assets will go) and whether or not to hire an accountant to do your taxes (yes, if you have a lot of deductions).

But stocks and bonds? Surely you just. Where's the money supposed to come from for that?

Do you know where it's going now, Miss Liebowitz will reply. If you're not on a budget, chances are you don't.

"A woman needs a budget so she can control what's coming

in and going out. First of all, cash disbursements — what you spend on newspapers, transportation, lunches, etc. — should comprise only five or ten per cent. Pay for everything else by check: clothing, food, etc. At the end of a month, you'll have facts and figures at your disposal and you'll know where your money is going.

Then you can do something about your extravagances. If you're a clotheshorse, start waiting for sales. If you leave your money in the cash register at the A&P, "watch for specials at different supermarkets and buy house brands when possible. Also, shop after you've eaten so you won't give in to impulse buying, and always bring a list and stick to it."

You can "find" money by bringing your lunch to work or by spending less on pantyhose, and on and on.

And if you really don't know a stock from a bond, you've got to do some homework. "Take an adult education class at a local college or one that a brokerage firm gives."

Then, to decide where and how you're going to invest, read the newspaper every day because "current events are the most important thing. Through that everything else comes. And read the financial newspapers to get a sense of the economy and how the country is going. When Carter was elected, he said he wants to put his area of growth in our natural energy resources, so you can glean from that that maybe you should investigate natural resources."

Or, "if you're using a good hair preparation or cosmetic or disinfectant, look into that company. See what the growth rate is, if the product has good promotion and display. Check up on the company with a copy of the Standard & Poor's sheet which you can get from any brokerage firm."

Okay, you're now ready to take a shot — provided you acknowledge the risk. "There's a risk in everything," she says, "but if inflation is six and one-half per cent and you get, say five and one-fourth per cent dividend on a savings account, you're losing one and one-fourth per cent. The whole idea is to keep ahead of inflation so you have more purchasing power."

The time has come to select a stockbroker and you do that first by asking friends for recommendations. "Then," she says, "you should call a few brokers and set up a consultation but always ask if there's a fee involved." Then decide whether or not you want to consult with the broker who charges one.

"Never choose a broker you don't have a good rapport with or who won't give you direct answers, i.e., why he thinks such and such stock will go up. Or one who makes you feel your questions are too trivial." It's your money, after all.

And when you're all set and you've started to fill your portfolio with natural gas or frozen foods, it won't hurt to do one more thing: pray.

Give A Gift Of Jewelry

From Cleopatra right up to Liz Taylor, there hasn't been a woman who could resist a jeweled bauble from her beloved, and it doesn't necessarily have to be the Hope Diamond either, the Jewelry Industry Council reports.

So if you're looking for something to set her eyes sparkling on St. Valentine's Day, you might consider some of the newest jewelry fashions that will be popular this spring, experts advise.

A delicate gold chain strung with small tiger's eye stones and fluted gold beads in groups of three (Cupid's code for "I Love You") might be your choice in a necklace or bracelet, or you might choose a simple strand of small tiger's eye leads on a fine gold chain. Of course, you'll find tiny gold hearts, rose buds and arrows straight from Cupid's bow in Valentine — oriented bracelets, pins and necklaces. There are a lot of gemstones — jade, sodalite, ivory, Rhodanite and Carnelian — cut in heart shapes for your love.

Traditionally, lockets are the gift of love for "teen sweethearts," as are charm bracelets with both your initials on them, or bracelets with x's and o's — love and kisses.

If you've really set your cap for a certain young miss, lassie her with a novel new "noose" necklace that has a tiny diamond at the knot.

One very personalized gift for St. Valentine's Day, and sure to be treasured is her birthstone ring. In case you don't know it, the Council lists them as follows: January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, aquamarine; April, diamond; May, emerald; June, pearl or moonstone; July, ruby; August, peridot; September, sapphire; October, opal; November, lapaz, and December, turquoise.

Clay Objects Are 'Pottery'

Pottery includes all objects made of clay and hardened by fire.

Ceramics is the term for the study of the art of pottery. Porcelain refers to objects made from a high-fire, pure clay.

Open House Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stubbelt, 5787 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, will be honored for their 40th wedding anniversary at an open house at their home from 7 to 8 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6.

Friends and relatives are invited to the event being hosted by the couple's children, Dennis of Connecticut, Mrs. Mel (Sharon) Felker of St. Joseph, and Garrell and Stanley, both of Bainbridge.

Walter Stubbelt and the former Miss Hattie Lester were married Feb. 7, 1937, by the late Rev. H.C. Haase at St. Matthew's Evangelical Lutheran church, Benton Harbor.

The couple has eight grandchildren.

Family Film Night

Three films, two on snow skiing, will be featured for Family Film Night Tuesday, Feb. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at Maud Preston Pulemke Memorial library, St. Joseph.

"Winter Day" attempts to capture the mood and pace of a day in a ski resort, and "This Is Canada - Ski Time in Jasper" shows skiing in Jasper National park in the Canadian Rockies. The film "Automania," a lighthearted animated spoof on the world of the automobile, will also be shown.

A story hour for preschool through second grade children is held every Saturday at the library at 11 a.m. February story hours will feature "Rackety Racoon and his Story Hour Friends," and celebrations of Lincoln's birthday, Valentine's Day and Washington's birthday.

Memorabilia dealing with the history of the library will be in the display case during February. The display has been prepared by Anne Stubbelt, head librarian, and Barbara Troost, staff member.

New books at the library include "Season in Purgatory" by Thomas Kenesly; "The Winding Stair" by Sir Francis Bacon; "His Rise and Fall" by Daphne du Maurier; and "The Masaryks: The Making of Czechoslovakia" by Zbynek Zeman.

PERSUADED HUSBAND — Lady Godiva, according to the legend, rode naked through the streets of Coventry, England, in the 11th century to persuade her husband to lower taxes.

Kuhns Wed 50 Years

LACOTA — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kuhn of Lacota will be honored for their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6, at their home.

Friends and relatives are invited.

Frank Kuhn and Katherine Wilhemi were married Feb. 5, 1927, in Chicago. They have resided in the Lacota area for 45 years.

The couple has four children, Mrs. Lawrence (Ann) Peterson of South Haven; Mrs. Alfred (Elizabeth) Schlipf of Watervliet; Mrs. Cazimer (Eva) Krzemen of Lacota and John of Lacota. The couple also has 15 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Kuhn is a retired painter and Mrs. Kuhn is a homemaker.

Tips For Buying Rackets

NEW YORK, N.Y. — When Chris Evert started playing tennis in 1958, there were only five or six good rackets being made, and all were wood.

Since then, the tennis market has been overwhelmed with a confusing array of rackets made of steel, aluminum, boron, graphite and fiberglass. How do you choose the best racket for you? The February issue of Seventeen magazine gives a few buying tips.

Beginners: A used racket or a discount store's cheapest ($10-$15) will suffice, as long as it isn't too heavy.

Weight and grip size: A light racket, weighing 13 to 13½ ounces before stringing, is best, with a grip size of four and one-fourth to four and one-half inches for most girls. As a guideline for choosing grip size, measure the distance from the tip of your middle finger to the farther of the two deep crossways lines on your palm, but be sure to consider the feel of the grip, also.

Once you've caught the tennis bug, the kind of racket you need depends on your style. If you slam the ball with all your might, or you have a "big" serve but erratic ground strokes, you need a stiff racket as possible.

If your ground strokes are good but not your serve, you need a racket that has little wind resistance, so that you can snap its head through the air more easily. Most of the split-throat rackets, especially steel, aluminum and graphite, have that quality.

If you're not sure what your style is, don't worry. Borrow the rackets of other good players and take your time trying them. You'll know when you have found the right racket for you.

Club Circuit

VETERANS OF WORLD WAR I, BARRACKS 582, AND LADIES AUXILIARY will meet at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 5, at Memorial hall, St. Joseph, for a potluck dinner. A business meeting will follow at 2 p.m. The dinner committee includes Mrs. Jeanette Farquhar, Mrs. Lula Finnegan and Mrs. Louella Garlanger.

Consider Eggs For Dinner

When you're pressed for time, consider eggs for dinner.

They're nature's own convenience food — quick and easy to prepare in a variety of ways: Scrambled, poached or folded into an omelet, eggs make a nutritious meal-in-a-minute.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Fidgety In Empty Nest

Dear Ann Landers: My youngest child is in school all day and I'm beginning to feel depressed. I thought I'd love all this spare time — in fact, I looked forward to it — but I confess I'm suffering from "The Empty Nest Syndrome."

I have a Master's degree in English and could teach, but I don't want a full-time job. I must be free to take trips with my husband. I want to do vol-

teer work — but what? I can't knit or sew or type. But I'm in excellent health and I'm good with people. Can you suggest something I might do that will make me feel good about myself? I need to feel useful. Hurry your answer. I'm — Getting Fidgety

Dear Fidge: Have I got a suggestion for you? Your timing couldn't have been better. Call The American Cancer Society (look in the phone book), and volunteer to help with the 1977 Crusade. The campaign has just been launched and they need people like you.

Cancer is the most feared word in the language. The life of every person who reads this column has been touched, in some way, by this dreaded disease. The American Cancer Society needs all the help it can get. Call today and volunteer your services. You must have ESP, lady.

Nervous Retiree

Dear Ann Landers: I will be retiring next year and am dead set against any kind of farewell affair. I'm a very nervous person and something of this nature would undo me completely.

My fellow employees insist that I deserve a party and they are determined to give me one. They say I will cherish the memory forever and I will get over the nervousness once the group has gathered. I know myself better than they do. I shall become physically sick and unable to attend.

We all read your column daily and I am praying you will consider this letter important enough to print. I need you to be on my side. — Can't Face It In Spgld., Mass.

Dear Face: Here's an open letter to your fellow employees: Dear Group: I know you mean well, but please make his (or her) last days in the office pleasant ones by respecting the request.

When you see this letter, tell the nervous retiree you've decided to leave the gift on the desk — no formal presentation — just an extra handshake, a hug or a kiss at the end of the day. Believe me, THAT will be the best gift of all.

Found Friends

Dear Ann Landers: I just want you to know you saved my life.

If I hadn't read about Recovery, Inc., in your column I never would have survived the Christmas holidays.

Whoever said Christmas is the season to be jolly must have been nuts. It's the most agonizing time of the year for many people. For me it was a horror. I was sad, irritable, cried a lot, felt alone and got a dreadful cold.

I went to Recovery, Inc., and met some terrific people. They gave me love, strength, self-assurance and showed me the way to mental health. Bless you — and them. — New Life

Dear Life: Let's hear it again for Recovery, Inc.! It's listed in the phone book — and it's free. Go if you need emotional support — for any reason. They are waiting for you.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and

Needed: Courage

I want to boycott coffee. I really do, but basically I'm weak and cannot endure pain.

Last week, I paid more for three pounds of coffee than I paid for a winter coat the first year I was married, but I can't help myself.

You cannot imagine the pressure I get from the women in the neighborhood. The other morning I practically ran to the coffee klatch at Lois's house.

Just inside the door Lois said, "Want a cup?"

She put an empty cup in my hand.

"Where's the coffee?" I asked.

"I never promised you coffee."

"That's not funny, Lois. Do you have any idea what I would give for a cup of coffee? I'd sell my children."

"Wouldn't we all..."

"I'd sell my self-respect."

"Braggart."

"Lois! I'd sell my bowling trophy!"

"Will you get hold of yourself? We've got to stand firm together or there is no telling how high the price of coffee will go."

"Look," I said regaining my composure. "I never thought I'd admit this to anyone, but I am older than the rest of you and I lived through the Great Caffeine Drought of 1942 during the war."

"I never heard of it," said Carol.

"And I hope you never do," I said. "I saw my mother in the morning without a cup of coffee

once and it's the closest to death I ever want to come. She toasted and buttered her hand and put it on my sister's plate. She bumped into a footstool with her head. She felt a draft and it was her eyelashes blinking. When she thought no one was looking, she put her head in the coffee canister and inhaled. My father caught her trying to shave her tongue. It was awful."

"I know," I whimpered, "but a day without Joe DiMaggio is like a day without sunshine."

You can only be "lousy with courage" for so long. On the way back from school after lunch, I swung the car into a drive-in and yelled, "One cup of coffee please . . . and will you take a personal check?"

Diamond Jubilee Festival

KALAMAZOO — One of the opening highlights of Western Michigan University's Diamond Jubilee Festival will be an "all-star" alumni production of Eudora Welty's comedy, "The Ponder Heart," to be presented by the Department of Theatre in the College of Fine Arts.

"The Ponder Heart" will kick off a new scholarship fund honoring Laura V. Shaw for her contribution to the theater during her 32 years at the university.

The professional alumni returning for the production are accepting no performance fee. Proceeds will go to support the newly created Laura V. Shaw scholarship and the present David Wayne scholarship funds.

Featured in the production will be David Wayne, popular film star last seen in "Ellery Queen," and Mary Jackson, familiar to all fans of "The Waltons" as the spinster Sister Emily.

Performances will be May 25-28 in Laura V. Shaw Theater.

Also appearing will be John Zarembo, last seen in "The Death of Richie," frequent guest on "The Streets of San Francisco," and known to most TV fans as the Hills Brothers coffee broker; Sherman Lloyd, presenting touring with "The Royal Family" following successful performances in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" and "Hot L Baltimore" in New York; and Al Hinkle, now playing with "That Championship Season" on tour.

David Wayne gained national prominence when he appeared as Sakini in the original production of "Teahouse of the August Moon." The director of "Teahouse," Robert Douglas, will be guest director of "The Ponder Heart."

Eudora Welty, author of the story adapted for the stage and close friend of Wayne and Douglas, plan to be in Kalamazoo for the production.

Beer Makes Hair Lotion

Dr. Lester Coleman

Even when I eat moist food, every once in awhile I've got to force the food down with large quantities of water. The food seems to get stuck in my throat. Can a growth be the cause of this situation? — Mr. G.E.W., Miss.

Dear Mr. W.:

No medical column or magazine article can be a substitute for the valuable relationship between a patient and his doctor.

Any advice I would give you about this would further exaggerate the fears that seem to be keeping you from seeking professional advice.

When I point out the possibilities to be considered in your case I'm sure you will understand the point I am making.

Yes, a tumor, benign or cancerous, can cause an obstruction in the esophagus that would make it difficult to swallow food. Now that would be a terrifying thought. Yet there are other less important possibilities. A small pouch, or diverticulum, can produce the same symptoms.

Spasm of the muscular wall of the esophagus, birth abnormalities, enlargement of the heart, tumors of the lung, a foreign body or psychological disturbances may cause identical symptoms.

Hiatus hernia, and a condition known as "achalasia," could also be responsible.

You know, of course, that I am not suggesting that you have any of these problems, but I am deliberately using this method to show how wrong it is to attempt to guess at a diagnosis.

There may also be other relatively unimportant reasons for your complaint. Medical consultation, followed by X-ray studies and blood studies, can easily locate your problem. This is a much more sensible approach to a problem that needs to be clarified.

I have a painful spur on the heel. Does this mean that it is a forerunner of arthritis of the joints? — Mr. B.D., Mich.

Dear Mr. D.:

Spurs are not considered to be arthritic in nature. They are deposits of calcium in the tendons and muscles of the heel. They are frequently found among people who are subject to repeated injuries. Athletes and professional dancers are prone to these painful spurs.

Relief from pain can be obtained by protecting the heel with a foam rubber sponge. Cortisone can be effective in some cases. Surgery, in selected instances, is very helpful, too.

Jim: "When was the forcing two-bid invented and who was responsible?"

Oswald: "The year was 1929 and there was three of us — Ted Lightner, Waldemar von Zedwitz and myself. Our three basic concepts were: It should include so many high cards that there would be a danger a non-forcing bid would be passed. It should be within one trick of game. There should be distinct slam possibilities."

Jim: "Those are still valid. How about the bust response of two notrump?"

Oswald: "That was our idea also, but it wasn't as good as it might have been. Nevertheless it got into standard American bidding and is probably there to stay."

Jim: "If South opens today's hand with a forcing two bid, North responds two notrump. South raises to three, West opens the queen of hearts and if the defense doesn't block the suit they gather in five quick heart tricks."

Oswald: "That is why the correct opening bid with this South hand is three notrump. Nothing can hurt him and if a heart is opened he will have 10 top tricks."

Ask the Jacobys

A Minnesota reader sent us the hand in today's article. He asked if we would open it with a forcing two bid. This article answers his question. Avoid forcing two bids with notrump type hands if possible.

Audition Finalist

KALAMAZOO — Linda Starkweather, Kalamazoo senior, was selected by the judges at the preliminary auditions in East Lansing to present her design portfolio to the final audition panels of the University-Resident Theatre association (UTA) in Ann Arbor.

Miss Starkweather was selected by the Department of Theater faculty at Western Michigan University to attend UTA auditions.

Her portfolio includes the lighting design for "The Morning Is Upon Us," just presented in the Arena of Laura V. Shaw Theater, and the stage design for "Vatlav" being presented at WMU in February.

UTA is the association of nationwide university and professional resident theater programs. Auditions are held to aid qualified students in their graduate studies or career development.

Paris Designers Show Feminine Fashions

By SUZY PATTERSON
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The comeback of a really feminine woman is the couture news for next summer. She's as female as Eve, as nympho-sexy as Lolita, as pampered as Scarlett O'Hara.

After years of slick, hard-edge chic, and transitions of recent seasons, the Paris designers have gone all out for silhouettes that men would like to look at, and touch.

It's a step back for women's lib, maybe, but a boon for anybody who likes to, and has the means to, dress up.

Paris high fashion may be remote and inaccessible to ordinary mortals, but it's still alive and vital, as a great show to promote the couture's sidelines.

Folklore is ever present, but peasant and other more exotic outfits are more refined than ever.

Voluptuous and curvy, the clothes show new supple fullness, especially in gathered tops and ballooning full sleeves, full dirrds or knife-pleated skirts of every possible pleat width. And there's a ruffle explosion that looks like more than a passing fancy.

Soft fabrics floating by in clouds of fabulous colors go side by side with bubbly lightweight gazar taffeta, adorned with miles of maypole ribbons, eyelid lace and fringe. Long double skirts with duster ruffles or aprons go back to our tin-typed ancestors. It's as fussy and complicated as it sounds, but the great designers manage to put it together coherently.

Couture lengths are debatable for daytime, and the consensus is mostly below the knee. The mini is not quite a comeback, though Cardin and a couple of others bowed very brief tunics in sportswear. The knee peeked out shyly at Dior and more boldly at Balmain. Bouncy knee-length evening dresses at Balmain and Givenchy look like a trend to come.

Designers nearly passed up women's trousers, but Saint Laurent gave them a new look with bony jackets piped in braid paired with blouses inized by bowled pterot ruffled necks and cuffs.

Colors for daytime are as soft as the cotton voile, flannel, jersey, or crepe de chine fabrics. They start with white and beige, and range through navy and some pastel shades with big dashes of bright red or green for good measure.

But Paris couture was mainly a soiree story. Draped or bias-cut Greek tunics at Cardin vied with floppy bloused tunics in a length from Renaissance inspiration at the house of Schiaparelli for a return to ancient history.

Other influences marked the shows — especially Spanish, Creole, gypsy and Victorian grandma, the latter at Saint Laurent.

His romantic ruffles applied in profusion to scoop or high necks, shepherd sleeves, and all the way down skirts looked like beacons for next year's ready-to-wear.

Nudity is fine for next summer, as long as you show it under a very expensive, possibly ruffled transparent gown, as at Saint Laurent, Cardin, and Hanae Mori. Small bosoms at the couture shows bounced gently by, and little evidence of bras was seen — which is OK for a streamlined model.

The peasant girls who appeared a couple of seasons ago in Paris ready-to-wear got a new lift. At Lanvin they turned out in puffy silk skirts, long sleeveless boleros over big blouses. Guy Laroche produced exquisite naive dresses embroidered with cross-stitch and flowers. Givenchy made it all beautifully ladylike, and loaded it with finished details in a rather Spanish-gypsy vein — ball fringes, coins on chains and flourishes.

The details not to forget for Paris spring-summer include full and puffy sleeves, and cinched wasp-waists, sometimes girthed by corset belts. Or the waist is eased with bloused off shoulder or drawstring-tied scoop-necks over sashes, bowed belts or ribboned cummerbunds.

Sleeveless boleros or squared "paletot" toppers give the suit a new look, but don't forget to be ruffled for evening. Black is ever-present and chic after dark, but every color in the rainbow came out — in solid shades of taffeta, flower prints, stripes. From soft and subtle mauves, baby pinks, leafy greens, to the brassier looks of apple and lime green, fire-engine red, shocking pink and deep purple, everything was there in sumptuous solids and prints — a blaze of glory for the fabric industry.

Student In Play

KALAMAZOO — Barbara Weathers, a junior from Mat-tawan, is a member of the cast for the next major production of the Western Michigan University Theater's season, Sawtooth Mrozek's "Vatzlav".

Performances will be Feb. 9-12 in the Laura V. Shaw Theater. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Miss Weathers portrays the self-proclaimed genius in the play.

"Vatzlav" is a satirical comedy on the modern world. The language is bawdy and outspoken. A comic striptease scene lampoons the upper class exploitation of the people and makes "Vatzlav" definitely a play for mature audiences only.

Cinema Arts Film Feb. 5-7

"A Brief Vacation" will be the third film of the season for Cinema Arts Society.

The film will be shown at 5 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 5, and at 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 7 and 8, at the Loma Theater, Coloma.

Single admissions will be available at the door.

"A Brief Vacation" was the final collaboration between the late director Vittorio De Sica and scriptwriter Cesare Zavattini.

Florinda Bolkan portrays Clara, a beaten-down factory worker in Milan, who resents her lower class life.

More Appetizing For Travelers

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Eating en route includes dining or snacking on railroads, airplanes and ships. But let's discuss here the problems and awards of eating along the tracks, so to speak.

In this category things have not been very rosy in the past 10 years. But with a hopefully progressive new Secretary of Transportation, Brooks Adams of Washington, and a stated new determination to brighten Amtrak food service, things begin to look more appetizing for travelers.

Today Amtrak serves in its dining cars such staple American dishes as steak, short ribs, filet of sole and chicken, also hot and cold sandwiches. On shorter runs, there is snack bar service. Very decent food but less than elegant.

Even so that's a far cry from 1850 when railroad eating was far from good. According to the new book "Eating in America" by Waverley Root and Richard de Rochemont, which provides 488 pages of eating history (Morrow, $18.95), early traveling was rough on the stomach as well as other parts of the anatomy.

A quote from a report in 1839 reveals, "The cars stop, all the doors are thrown open and out rush all the passengers like boys out of school, and crowd around the tables to solace themselves with pies, patties, cakes, hard-boiled eggs, hams, custards and a variety of railroad luxuries too numerous to mention. The bell rings for departure, in they all hurry with their hands and mouths full, and off they go again until the next stopping place induces them to relieve the monotony of the journey by mastheading without being hungry."

Even some years later, things had not improved much. Both Root, a distinguished food writer, and de Rochemont, a food expert, and also a well-known movie producer, express wonder that things had not improved much during those 40 years.

Along came George M. Pullman with his Pullman dining car. What he had achieved with his comfortable sleeping car, he now undertook to do with eating.

"Dining car menus in 1870 offered seventy-five cent meals of oysters on the half shell, porthouse steak, quail, antelope, plover, fresh trout and terrapin, with second helpings on the house. There was champagne at every meal, including breakfast, and passengers ate in the splendor of Turkish carpets, French mirrors, fringed portieres and rare inlaid woods. The Denver and Rio Grande made a specialty of mountain trout, the Union Pacific was famous for its antelope steaks, the Northern Pacific for its grouse and salmon."

The Northern Pacific advertised us the line of the Great Baked Potato, as it crossed the state of Idaho, home of the russet Burbank potato. The Chicago and Northwestern railroad offered 35 main courses and 25 desserts. But that was high living. The dinner cost $1.

But those days are gone. They disappeared by the end of World War II, along with the development of meals in the air when people exchanged sumptuous dining for fast flight.

Band-O-Rama Set

ST. JOSEPH SCHOOLS: The music department of the St. Joseph public schools will present "Band-O-Rama," Saturday, Feb. 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gymnasium. Performing groups will include the massed sixth grade bands, the A and B bands of Upton junior high school and the varsity, concert and symphonic bands of the high school. Conducting will be Robert W. Brown, director of bands; Vito Tenerelli, director of junior high and elementary bands, and Dana Everson, assistant director of bands. Proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the band department. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children, with preschool age children admitted free. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from high school band members. Rehearsing for the event are Karla Vieregge, a ninth grader and member of the varsity band; Steve Schadler, seated, a sixth grader at Jefferson, and Cindi Alexander, right, a senior and member of the concert band. From Carobs To Carats

Originally diamonds were weighed against the seeds of the carob tree, an Oriental plant.

These seeds were used as the unit of measure because they were closer than anything else in nature to uniformity of weight.

Nowadays the carat is a standardized unit; there are about 142 carats in an ounce, or 2,268 in a pound. Only one diamond found so far, the great Cullinan, has weighed as much as a pound. It was 3,106 carats!

AIRPORT GREETING: President Jimmy Carter, right, bundles against the cold on his arrival at airport in Pittsburgh Sunday morning on his way to see firsthand the impact of bitter winter weather on a high concentration of employment. BUT TAMPERING COULD KILL PLAN Gas Bill May Get Swift Action

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders are predicting fast action this week on President Carter's emergency natural gas bill, but major efforts are under way to modify the President's proposals.

Any heavy tampering with the legislation "would almost certainly assure there could be no bill passed," Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., warned over the weekend.

The bill would enable Carter to order gas transferred from one pipeline company to another to get it to areas hardest hit by the current spell of abnormally cold weather.

Carter's proposal also would free some gas from federal price controls through July 31.

Congressional leaders say final action should come by the end of the week.

Carter flew by helicopter to Pittsburgh on Sunday, saying he wanted a first-hand look at the impact the weather is having on employment.

Arctic temperatures that swept across the eastern half of the nation on Friday put more than 1.5 million persons out of work, closed factories and other businesses and forced curtailment of the use of already scarce natural gas.

The Senate, which waived committee hearings on Carter's energy legislation, gets back to work on the bill today after opening debate Friday. Attempts to amend the legislation may produce a "free-for-all on the floor," one Senate aide said.

Although a vote in the Senate was possible by late today, leaders said a vote was more likely Tuesday.

In the House, a "markup" session on the legislation was scheduled for today by the House Commerce Committee to ready the bill for anticipated floor action Tuesday.

Congressional leaders have urged members to restrain from offering amendments. But a number were expected to be tried nonetheless.

One amendment, offered by Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., and backed by most senators from gas-producing states, would eliminate the bill's authorization for the President to order connections between interstate and intrastate pipelines.

There is now no physical link between these two types of pipelines. Interstate lines, which carry gas from producing states to the rest of the nation, are subject to Federal Power Commission price regulation, while intrastate lines, which handle gas produced and sold in the same state, are not.

Johnston claims allowing

linkage of the interstate and intrastate pipelines ultimately could lead to FPC control over the intrastate market and might generate shortages in gas-producing states as severe as those in other areas of the nation.

Another amendment, expected to be offered by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., would put a limit on the prices that could be charged during the period in which federal price controls are suspended.

Sen. John Durkin, D-N.H., is proposing an amendment that would require the President to gather information needed to determine whether there really is a natural gas shortage or if energy companies are deliberately withholding gas in an effort to get higher prices through deregulation.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, claims he will try to modify the bill to allow the President to allocate gas not just to protect top-priority users such as homes and hospitals but also to reopen plants where large numbers of workers have been laid off.

Truckers' Protest 'Snowed Out'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Bad weather apparently has squelched a deliberate slowdown planned by truckers in Michigan today. Roads across the state were so treacherous that the head of a state truckers' group said travel at maximum speeds was impossible, even without a slowdown.

The Independent Truckers Association had planned the nationwide slowdown as a protest against the lowered 55 mile per hour speed limit. But in Michigan, continued winter storms appear to have canceled the protest.

"We probably won't be able to get the slowdown moving now," Harland Wilcox, head of the Michigan chapter of the truckers group, said. "If we just drive natural-like, we'll have our slowdown because of the snow."

A meeting scheduled for Saturday to discuss strategy for the slowdown had to be canceled because of snow and high winds. Wilcox said the meeting will be rescheduled. In the meantime, drivers have been told not to slow down their rigs on Michigan highways.

"This slowdown wasn't supposed to have a great deal of bearing here," Wilcox said. "The State Police are good about cooperating with us on speed limits. They're not unreasonable. They allow you some 'over.' If they didn't, everybody in Michigan would be in jail."

But he said problems do exist in neighboring states and Michigan drivers had been told to take part in the slowdown areas.

Banished Mennonite Won't Fight

By CHRIS ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Robert Bear, a potato farmer accused of being possessed by the devil, has given up his fight against the church that ordered his family and friends to abandon him.

"I still love my family and I haven't turned against God," Bear said in a recent telephone interview. "But I can't be a father to my children. It's better if they grow up not knowing me."

Bear wants to move, but is not sure where. "I've lived here all my life," he said. "I'd like to go where there are some kind-hearted people."

Bear was banished by the Reformed Mennonite Church on a June day in 1972. His wife and six children eventually moved to the house of her brother, Glenn Gross, the bishop who helped banish her husband.

Bear was shunned because he questioned Gross' authority. In the Reformed Church, the authority of a bishop is believed to be equal to that of God. Bear had criticized Gross for giving communion to Gross' parents after one of them accused the other of being unfaithful.

"So they excommunicated and damned me to hell forever," Bear said.

Under the shunning order, no church member, including Bear's wife and children, is to speak or have any other contact with him. The order included his parents, who died shortly after Bear was shunned.

"To the moment they died they looked at me with disgust. I was already burning (in hell)," he said.

Bear's children, four girls and two boys, range in age from 7 to 15.

"They make jokes about my mind," said Bear. "They think I'm sick mentally. By now I'm questioning in my own mind whether I'm normal or not. Yes, I do question it."

He said he bought the three younger girls wristwatches for Christmas and the three older children an electric typewriter. He said he didn't receive any presents, or even cards, from them.

"That's part of the punishment," he said. "And it hurts because I still love them."

"Sure, the memories will follow me when I leave. But it makes it a little easier now that the court has considered me a father not fit to have visitation rights with his own children. It's sort of brought it to a head, and in way I'm glad that happened. I couldn't endure being a lame duck father any longer."

Bear lost his court fight against the church, but was allowed to see his children on weekends until a Cumberland County judge canceled visitation rights last month. Testimony at a hearing indicated Bear broke into the house where his wife was staying and made off with the children's clothing.

The Reformed Mennonite Church has some 600 members who believe it is the one true church of Christ. They believe shunning is designed to promote peace and harmony and reclaim those who have fallen.

"When I had to leave my house before ... my 3-year-old daughter (Sharon) wrapped her arms around one of my legs and would not let go," Bear recalled. Sharon is now 7. Bear says he hardly knows her now.

Not Single Assailant

DETROIT (AP) — A yearlong string of six disappearances and slayings of Oakland County youths probably was not the work of a single assailant, investigative sources have told a Detroit newspaper. Although some of the cases are similar, investigators doubt that all six killings are related, the Detroit News reported Sunday. The first child disappeared nearly 13 months ago. The body of the latest victim, 10-year-old Kristine Mihelich, was found Jan. 21 in a snowbank. A special police task force is investigating the Mihelich case. An investigator for one south Oakland police agency said two of the killings, those of Mark Stebbins, 12, of Ferndale, and Cynthia Cadioux, 16, of Roseville, may have been related. Sources close to the investigations told the News any relationship between the five victims and the death of Jane Louise Allan, 13, of Royal Oak, are "too remote for the killings to have been the work of one person, or a complicity of persons." The Allan girl's body was found last August in Miamisburg, Ohio — the only victim found outside Michigan. Police have also eliminated any connection between the killing of Sheila Srock, 14, of Birmingham and the other cases, the News said. The girl was raped and shot three times last January while babysitting her infant niece. Police regard the case as a "breaking and entering that went bad," the newspaper said. Jill Robinson, 12, of Royal Oak, was found shot to death along a suburban Detroit highway earlier this month. But Troy police chief Forrest Fisher has said he considers that an isolated case.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Fidgety In Empty Nest

Dear Ann Landers: My youngest child is in school all day and I'm beginning to feel depressed. I thought I'd love all this spare time — in fact, I looked forward to it — but I confess I'm suffering from "The Empty Nest Syndrome."

I have a Master's degree in English and could teach, but I don't want a full-time job. I must be free to take trips with my husband. I want to do volunteer work — but what? I can't knit or sew or type. But I'm in excellent health and I'm good with people. Can you suggest something I might do that will make me feel good about myself? I need to feel useful. Hurry your answer. I'm — Getting Fidgety.

Dear Fidge: Have I got a suggestion for you? Your timing couldn't have been better. Call The American Cancer Society (look in the phone book) and volunteer to help with the 1977 Crusade. The campaign has just been launched and they need people like you.

Cancer is the most feared word in the language. The life of every person who reads this column has been touched, in some way, by this dreaded disease. The American Cancer Society needs all the help it can get. Call today and volunteer your services. You must have ESP, lady.

Nervous Retiree

Dear Ann Landers: I will be retiring next year and am dead set against any kind of farewell affair. I'm a very nervous person and something of this nature would undo me completely.

My fellow employees insist that I deserve a party and they are determined to give me one. They say I will cherish the memory forever and I will get over the nervousness once the group has gathered. I know myself better than they do. I shall become physically sick and unable to attend.

We all read your column daily and I am praying you will consider this letter important enough to print. I need you to be on my side. — Can't Face It In Spgfld., Mass.

Dear Face: Here's an open letter to your fellow employees: Dear Group: I know you mean well, but please make his (or her) last days in the office pleasant ones by respecting the request.

When you see this letter, tell the nervous retiree you've decided to leave the gift on the desk — no formal presentation — just an extra handshake, a hug or a kiss at the end of the day. Believe me, THAT will be the best gift of all.

Found Friends

Dear Ann Landers: I just want you to know you saved my life.

Jim: "When was the forcing two-bid invented and who was responsible?"
Oswald: "The year was 1929 and there was three of us — Ted Lightner, Waldemar von Zedwitz and myself. Our three basic concepts were: It should include so many high cards that there would be a danger a non-forcing bid would be passed. It should be within one trick of game. There should be distinct slam possibilities."

Jim: "Those are still valid. How about the bust response of two notrump?"

Oswald: "That was our idea also, but it wasn't as good as it might have been. Nevertheless it got into standard American bidding and is probably there to stay."

Jim: "If South opens today's hand with a forcing two bid, North responds two notrump. South raises to three. West opens the queen of hearts and if the defense doesn't block the suit they gather in five quick trick tricks."

Oswald: "That is why the correct opening bid with this South hand is three notrump. Nothing can hurt him and if a heart is opened he will have 10 top tricks."

Ask the Jacobys

A Minnesota reader sent us the hand in today's article. He asked if we would open it with a forcing two bid. This article answers his question. Avoid forcing two bids with notrump type hands if possible.

Audition Finalist

KALAMAZOO — Linda Starkweather, Kalamazoo senior, was selected by the judges at the preliminary auditions in East Lansing to present her design portfolio to the final audition panels of the University-Resident Theatre association (UTA) in Ann Arbor.

Miss Starkweather was selected by the Department of Theater faculty at Western Michigan University to attend UTA auditions.

Her portfolio includes the lighting design for "The Morning Is Upon Us," just presented in the Arena of Laura V. Shaw Theater, and the stage design for "Valizay" being present at WMU in February.

UTA is the association of nationwide university and professional resident theater programs. Auditions are held to aid qualified students in their graduate studies or career development.

Schedule 'Verona' Comedy

HOLLAND — Hope college will present William Shakespeare's comedy, "Two Gentlemen of Verona," Feb. 24-25 and March 2-5 at the DeWitt Cultural Center on the college campus under the direction of Donald Finn.

Reservations and group rate information will be available beginning Thursday, Feb. 10, from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. daily except Sunday or by writing Hope college theatre, Holland, Mich., 49423.

Erma Bombeck

Needed: Courage

I want to boycott coffee. I really do, but basically I'm weak and cannot endure pain. Last week, I paid more for three pounds of coffee than I paid for a winter coat the first year I was married, but I can't help myself.

You cannot imagine the pressure I get from the women in the neighborhood. The other morning I practically ran to the coffee klatch at Lois's house.

Just inside the door Lois said, "Want a cup?"

She put an empty cup in my hand. "Where's the coffee?" I asked.

"I never promised you coffee."

"That's not funny, Lois. Do you have any idea what I would give for a cup of coffee? I'd sell my children."

"Wouldn't we all?" "I'd sell my self-respect."

"Druggart."

"Lois! I'd sell my bowling trophy!"

"Will you get hold of yourself? We've got to stand firm together or there is no telling how high the price of coffee will go."

"Look," I said regaining my composure, "I never thought I'd admit this to anyone, but I am older than the rest of you and I lived through the Great Caffeine Drought of 1942 during the war."

"I never heard of it," said Carol.

"And I hope you never do," I said. "I saw my mother in the morning without a cup of coffee once and it's the closest to death I ever want to come. She toasted and buttered her head and put it on my sister's plate. She lapsed into a foetal position with her head. She left a draft and it was her eyelashes blinking. When she thought no one was looking, she put her head in the coffee canister and inhaled. My father caught her trying to shave her tongue. It was awful."

"It must have been a terrible thing for a child to see," comforted Carol, "but have courage and it'll all be over soon."

"I know," I whispered, "but a day without sunshine."

You can only be "lousy with courage" for so long. On the way back from school after lunch, I swung the car into a drive-in and yelled, "One cup of coffee please. . . and will you take a personal check?"

Diamond Jubilee Festival

KALAMAZOO — One of the opening highlights of Western Michigan University's Diamond Jubilee Festival will be an "all-star" alumni production of Eudora Welty's comedy, "The Ponder Heart," to be presented by the Department of Theatre in the College of Fine Arts.

"The Ponder Heart" will kick off a new scholarship fund honoring Laura V. Shaw for her contribution to the theater during her 32 years at the university.

The professional alumni returning for the production are accepting no performance fee. Proceeds will go to support the newly created Laura V. Shaw scholarship and the present David Wayne scholarship funds.

Featured in the production will be David Wayne, popular film star last seen in "Ellery Queen," and Mary Jackson, familiar to all fans of "The Waltons" as the spinster Sister Emily.

Performances will be May 25-28 in Laura V. Shaw Theater. Also appearing will be John Zaremba, last seen in "The Death of Richie," frequent guest on "The Streets of San Francisco," and known to most TV fans as the Hills Brothers coffee broker; Sherman Lloyd, presenting touring with "The Royal Family" following successful performances in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" and "Hot L Baltimore" in New York; and Al Hinchley, now playing with "That Championship Season" on tour.

David Wayne gained national prominence when he appeared as Sakini in the original production of "Teahouse of the August Moon." The director of "Teahouse," Robert Douglas, will be guest director of "The Ponder Heart."

Eudora Welty, author of the story adapted for the stage and close friend of Wayne and Douglas, plan to be in Kalamazoo for the production.

Beer Makes Hair Lotion

Dr. Lester Coleman

Even when I eat metal food, every once in awhile I've got to force the food down with large quantities of water. The food seems to get stuck in my throat. Can a growth be the cause of this situation? — Mr. G.E.W., Miss.

Dear Mr. W.: No medical column or magazine article can be a substitute for the valuable relationship between a patient and his doctor.

Any advice I would give you about this would further exaggerate the fears that seem to be keeping you from seeking professional advice.

When I point out the possibilities to be considered in your case I'm sure you will understand the point I am making.

Yes, a tumor, benign or cancerous, can cause an obstruction in the esophagus that would make it difficult to swallow food. Now that would be a terrifying thought. Yet there are other less important possibilities. A small pouch, or diverticulum, can produce the same symptoms.

Spasm of the muscular wall of the esophagus, birth abnormalities, enlargement of the heart, tumors of the lung, a foreign body or psychological disturbances may cause identical symptoms.

Relief from pain can be obtained by protecting the heel with a foam rubber sponge. Cortisone can be effective in some cases. Surgery, in selected instances, is very helpful, too.

Hiatus hernia, a condition known as "achalasia," could also be responsible.

You know, of course, that I am not suggesting that you have any of these problems. But I am deliberately using this method to show how wrong it is to attempt to guess at a diagnosis.

There may also be other relatively unimportant reasons for your complaint. Medical consultation, followed by X-ray studies and blood studies, can easily locate your problem. This is a much more sensible approach to a problem that needs to be clarified.

I have a painful spur on the heel. Does this mean that it is a forerunner of arthritis of the joints? — Mr. R.D., Mich.

Dear Mr. D.: Spurs are not considered to be arthritic in nature. They are deposits of calcium in the tendons and muscles of the heel. They are frequently found among people who are subject to repeated injuries. Athletes and professional dancers are prone to these painful spurs.

Relief from pain can be obtained by protecting the heel with a foam rubber sponge. Cortisone can be effective in some cases. Surgery, in selected instances, is very helpful, too.

FREDDIE PRINZE DIES: Actor Freddie Prinze died early Saturday afternoon at UCLA Medical Center in Los Angeles after receiving a self-inflicted bullet wound to the head in a suicide attempt Friday. Prinze is shown here on the set of the NBC series "Chico and the Man." (AP Wirephoto)

Friends Mourn Freddie Prinze

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As star Jack Albertson and best friend Tony Orlando composed eulogies for Freddie Prinze's funeral service today, the coroner revealed that the 22-year-old comic had no chance for survival from the moment he shot himself in the head.

A small funeral service was scheduled for 12:30 p.m. PST today at the Old North Church at Forest Lawn in Hollywood Hills for the young star of NBC-TV's "Chico and the Man."

A spokesman for Forest Lawn said pallbearers would include songwriter Paul Williams and business agent Marvin Snyder. A Prinze spokesman said entertainer Bob Hope would be an honorary pallbearer.

Prinze, who left a note saying he couldn't "take it anymore," died Saturday afternoon, 33 hours after he pulled a .32 caliber automatic from his apartment sofa and fired a bullet through his temple as Snyder watched. He had just hung up the telephone from speaking to his estranged wife, Kathy, mother of his 10-month-old son Freddie Jr.

As doctors at UCLA Medical Center performed surgery and used life-sustaining equipment in a futile effort to save him, the hospital was flooded with telephone calls from fans. The family and a few close friends, including singer Orlando, held a vigil.

Doctors at first refused to comment on Prinze's chances for survival, but the Los Angeles County coroner's office said Sunday that his injuries were so serious that he could not have lived.

"All that charm, all that love, all that marvelous talent and all that niceness," said James Komack, producer and creator of the "Chico" series. "He couldn't do that offstage. Offstage the world was still uncomfortable for him."

Prinze was faced with the breakup of his marriage, the problems of trying to free himself from a contract with a former manager who signed him as a teen-ager and the concern over an impending trial on charges of driving under the influence of drugs.

Carter Seeking Accounting Of MIAs

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is asking members of Congress what the United States can do to get an accounting of the 800 Americans still missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Carter called a meeting today with Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., whose Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia urged the United States to press as hard as possible for an accounting.

A Montgomery aide said Carter, the congressman and other members of the committee were focusing on details of the panel's report last December. The report concluded that no Americans are still being held prisoner from the Indochina war.

"The congressman himself has said that the matter (of missing persons) is up to the State Department now," the aide said. "Under the law, they are the ones who can negotiate (an accounting)."

The meeting came one day after Carter witnessed the installation of Andrew Young as United Nations ambassador.

Young was to present credentials to Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim later today.

Young, a former Democratic congressman from Georgia, says he hopes the country will move toward admitting Hanoi into the United Nations. But he acknowledged the men missing in action (MIAs) remain an issue.

Carter said during the campaign that a presidential commission should be appointed to take the Vietnamese up on an offer to negotiate the release of MIA information.

But he said normal relations with Vietnam will depend on whether it cooperates in an accounting of the MIAs.

The Ford administration twice vetoed Vietnamese entry into the U.N., citing what it called a hostile Vietnamese attitude toward requests for the accounting.

State Department spokesman Frederick Brown has refused to say the Carter administration will refrain from another veto when membership comes up again. Brown said the administration hopes the MIA question "would be resolved before the U.N. question comes up."

Oath-taking ceremonies for Young, whom Carter called the best public servant he has ever known, followed the President's return Sunday from Pittsburgh, where he toured a chilly, partially closed factory to dramatize the nation's energy crisis.

Carter has declared emergencies in states, including Pennsylvania and New York, that have been hit hard by the fuel shortage in the coldest winter in a decade. The declaration makes the states eligible for federal aid.

consider it a glaring red light on signals the need for prompt and effective treatment."

Usually a pinched nerve—or neurothlipsia—manifests itself through nervousness and irritability. Frequently headaches are involved—frequently headaches. There is often dizziness or an inability to think clearly or to concentrate.

As for the pain, it can be, literally, in the neck, or in the shoulders, arms, back or legs. Sometimes there is a tightness in the chest or pain between the shoulders when you take a deep breath. A nervous stomach can be the warning signal.

"There are other signs and symptoms, but those mentioned are the most common," says Dr. Ackerman.

"Of course," he adds, "we're often guilty of spending too much talk on the cause of a problem, such as neurothlipsia. For that reason I'm not going to delve into the whys and wherefores of the pinched nerves. Let me suffice by saying that if you suffer from the symptoms seek immediate treatment; let the Doctor expend his energy on effective correction of the problem, not on talk."

"The average person would trade fifty conversations about his disease for just one that means 'you're well.'"

Claudine Plans To Appeal Any Prison Or Jail Term

By BILL PARDUE
Associated Press Writer

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, comforted by exhusband Andy Williams as she faced sentencing today for killing her lover, will definitely appeal if ordered to serve time in jail, her attorney says.

"Any jail time at all for her would be horrible," said Charles Weedman of Los Angeles, lawyer for the French-born entertainer.

"Quite frankly, she's wearied by all this," he said, "and I don't know if any appeal will be filed if there's no jail time. Of course, if a jail term is ordered, there is no question there will be an appeal."

Maximum penalty for Miss Longet's misdemeanor conviction is two years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

State District Court Judge George Lohr had a choice of sending her to state prison, the reformatory or the county jail, fining her or putting her on probation, Weedman said.

Skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich died March 21, 1976, of a single bullet wound in the stomach from a .22 caliber pistol. Miss Longet said the gun went off accidentally while she was learning to use it.

She was convicted Jan. 14 by a district court jury of criminally negligent homicide. Jurors rejected prosecution arguments that she was guilty of reckless manslaughter, a felony that can carry a 10-year prison term.

A presentence probation report said that if Miss Longet were sentenced to any consecutive days in jail, she planned to send her three children by Williams to live with him in California temporarily. The couple was divorced in 1975.

The children, Noelle, 13, Christian, 11, and Bobby, 7, lived with Miss Longet and Sabich at his $250,000 mountain-side chalet.

The probation report described Miss Longet as a "very good candidate for probation." But the probation officer also suggested that "some jail time to be served would not be inappropriate" because she caused the death.

Sabich, 31, was the first American to dominate the pro ski circuit and was a hero in this Rocky Mountain ski resort. The night Miss Longet was found guilty, she was mimicked and criticized by workers and customers at Aspen's bars and restaurants.

BUT TAMPERING COULD KILL PLAN Gas Bill May Get Swift Action

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders are predicting fast action this week on President Carter's emergency natural gas bill, but major efforts are under way to modify the President's proposals.

Any heavy tampering with the legislation "would almost certainly assure there could be no bill passed," Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., warned over the weekend.

The bill would enable Carter to order gas transferred from one pipeline company to another to get it to areas hardest hit by the current spell of abnormally cold weather.

Carter's proposal also would free some gas from federal price controls through July 31.

Congressional leaders say final action should come by the end of the week.

Carter flew by helicopter to Pittsburgh on Sunday, saying he wanted a first-hand look at the impact the weather is having on employment.

Arctic temperatures that swept across the eastern half of the nation on Friday put more than 1.5 million persons out of work, closed factories and other businesses and forced curtailment of the use of already scarce natural gas.

The Senate, which waived committee hearings on Carter's energy legislation, sets back to work on the bill today after opening debate Friday. Attempts to amend the legislation may produce a "free-for-all on the floor," one Senate aide said.

Although a vote in the Senate was possible by late today, leaders said a vote was more likely Tuesday.

In the House, a "markup" session on the legislation was scheduled for today by the House Commerce Committee to ready the bill for anticipated floor action Tuesday.

Congressional leaders have urged members to restrain from offering amendments. But a number were expected to be tried nonetheless.

One amendment, offered by Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., and backed by most senators from gas-producing states, would eliminate the bill's authorization for the President to order connections between interstate and intrastate pipelines.

There is now no physical link between these two types of pipelines. Interstate lines, which carry gas from producing states to the rest of the nation, are subject to Federal Power Commission price regulation, while intrastate lines, which handle gas produced and sold in the same state, are not.

Johnston claims allowing

linkage of the interstate and intrastate pipelines ultimately could lead to FPC control over the intrastate market and might generate shortages in gas-producing states as severe as those in other areas of the nation.

Another amendment, expected to be offered by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., would put a limit on the prices that could be charged during the period in which federal price controls are suspended.

Sen. John Durkin, D-N.H., is proposing an amendment that would require the President to gather information needed to determine whether there really is a natural gas shortage or if energy companies are deliberately withholding gas in an effort to get higher prices through deregulation.

Sen. John Vickers, D-Ohio, claims he will try to modify the bill to allow the President to allocate gas not just to protect top-priority users, such as homes and hospitals, but also to regions where large numbers of workers have been laid off.

Banished Mennonite Won't Fight

By CHRIS ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer
CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) —

Robert Bear, a potato farmer accused of being possessed by the devil, has given up his fight against the church that ordered his family and friends to abandon him.

"I still love my family and I haven't turned against God," Bear said in a recent telephone interview. "But I can't be a father to my children. It's better if they grow up not knowing me."

Bear was banished by the Reformed Mennonite Church on a June day in 1972. His wife and six children eventually moved to the house of her brother, Glenn Gross, the bishop who helped banish her husband.

Bear was shunned because he questioned Gross' authority. In the Reformed Church, the authority of a bishop is believed to be equal to that of God. Bear had criticized Gross for giving communion to Gross' parents after one of them accused the other of being unfaithful.

"So they excommunicated and damned me to hell forever," Bear said.

Under the shunning order, no church member, including Bear's wife and children, is to speak or have any other contact with him. The order included his parents, who died shortly after Bear was shunned.

"To the moment they died they looked at me with disgust. I was already burning (in hell)," he said.

Bear's children, four girls and two boys, range in age from 7 to 15.

"They make jokes about my mind," said Bear. "They think I'm sick mentally. By now I'm questioning to my own mind whether I'm normal or not. Yes, I do question it."

He said he bought the three younger girls wristwatches for Christmas and the three older children an electric typewriter. He said he didn't receive any presents, or even cards, from them.

"That's part of the punishment," he said. "And it hurts because I still love them."

"Sure, the memories will follow me when I leave. But it makes it a little easier now that the court has considered me a father not fit to have visitation rights with his own children. It's sort of brought it to a head, and in way I'm glad that happened. I couldn't endure being a lame duck father any longer."

Bear lost his court fight against the church, but was allowed to see his children on weekends until a Cumberland County judge canceled visitation rights last month. Testimony at a hearing indicated Bear broke into the house where his wife was staying and made off with the children's clothing.

The Reformed Mennonite Church has some 600 members who believe it is the one true church of Christ. They believe shunning is designed to promote peace and harmony and reclaim those who have fallen.

"When I had to leave my house before ... my 3-year-old daughter (Sharon) wrapped her arms around one of my legs and would not let go," Bear recalled. Sharon is now 7. Bear says he hardly knows her now.

Not Single Assailant

DETROIT (AP) — A yearlong string of six disappearances and slayings of Oakland County youths probably was not the work of a single assailant, investigative sources have told a Detroit newspaper. Although some of the cases are similar, investigators doubt that all six killings are related, the Detroit News reported Sunday. The first child disappeared nearly 13 months ago. The body of the latest victim, 10-year-old Kristine Mihelich, was found Jan. 21 in a snowbank. A special police task force is investigating the Mihelich case. An investigator for one south Oakland police agency said two of the killings, those of Mark Stebbins, 12, of Ferndale, and Cynthia Cadieux, 16, of Roseville, may have been related. Sources close to the investigations told the News any relationship between the five victims and the death of Jane Louise Allan, 13, of Royal Oak, are "too remote for the killings to have been the work of one person, or a complicity of persons." The Allan girl's body was found last August in Miamisburg, Ohio — the only victim found outside Michigan. Police have also eliminated any connection between the killing of Sheila Srock, 14, of Birmingham and the other cases, the News said. The girl was raped and shot three times last January while babysitting her infant niece. Police regard the case as a "breaking and entering that went bad," the newspaper said. Jill Robinson, 12, of Royal Oak, was found shot to death along a suburban Detroit highway earlier this month. But Troy police chief Forrest Fisher has said he considers that an isolated case.

Condemned Killers Ask For Death Row Wedding

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — Two killers sentenced to the electric chair want to be married in Florida's first Death Row wedding, not for themselves but for the sake of their child.

Jessie Tafero says he is prepared for the worst — the possibility that his and Sonia

Jacobs' appeals will fail and they will be executed. That would orphan their daughter, Christina, born out of wedlock 21 months ago.

"Sonia and I are applying now to be married. Here, just about anywhere we can, so our marital status will be completely legitimized for everybody's questions ... We have a child," Tafero said in a copyright story in today's St. Petersburg Times.

Florida recognizes an illegitimate child as one of the few reasons for marriage inside state prisons. But officials said this is their first request for a Death Row wedding.

"All the others, the spouse has been outside and free. So this really throws a monkey wrench in the thing," said an assistant chaplain.

The decision rests with the head prison chaplain in Tallahassee.

The newspaper interviewed the 28-year-old mother at Florida Correctional Institute for Women. Tafero, 30, was interviewed at Florida State Prison in Starke, 55 miles away.

They had been telling prison officials that they were married — ever since their arrests in February 1976 for the murders of Florida Highway Patrolman Phillip Black and his friend, visiting Canadian Constable Donald Irwin. The officers were shot to death near Delray Beach

at an Interstate 95 rest stop.

Tafero insisted they are innocent of murder, and he is optimistic they will be released on appeal.

Miss Jacobs and Tafero said they lived together for years, but they were unable to produce a marriage license.

They were tried separately and sent to different facilities. They haven't seen each other since her trial last July, although they write to each other every day.

Miss Jacobs, interviewed first, insisted she was married.

Tafero, interviewed later, suggested that Miss Jacobs was lying for the child's sake. He said she didn't know about his plans for a Death Row wedding.

He said he had just talked to the prison chaplain and "told him my intentions and Sonia's intentions."

"He says there shouldn't be any problem, and I'm doing the paperwork now," Tafero said.

Plenty Of Room For Skating

DIXON, W. Va. (AP) — While most West Virginians huddled near their heaters, Dudley Pettrey spent the day sweeping snow from nearby Twelvepole Creek. "I ordered these skates and they just arrived," he said Sunday, leaning on his broom in the middle of the frozen stream. "The ice here is eight inches thick and I'm making myself a place to skate." The temperature was 20 degrees. The sky was a vivid blue and Pettrey's nose was a bright red. "There's usually a bunch of kids skating down there," he said, pointing to a spot some 100 yards down the empty ice. "But I guess it's too cold for them today or perhaps they have just got their fill; they've been out there everyday for two weeks." Pettrey clutched his broom and skated off, twice negotiating a sprawling figure-eight that got wider with each trip. He had set a couple of lawn chairs on the ice but a neighbor's collie was his only companion.

LLOYD JOHNSON IS NEW NIXON FUND CHIEF

Michigan Man Now Heads Nixon Fund

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan nursing home owner is the new head of the President Nixon Justice Fund, replacing Rabbi Baruch Korff who is stepping down largely because of ill health.

Lloyd Johnson, 54, of Ann Arbor, said this weekend that he will follow the former president's wishes and serve as a custodian rather than a fundraiser.

Johnson said he met for 70 minutes in November with the ex-President and said Nixon expressed confidence he "would be able to take up and do for himself what others had been doing for him."

"He (Nixon) said he never believed that things should be done for a person that a person can do for himself," said Johnson.

Johnson, a longtime Republican who worked for unsuccessful Michigan GOP gubernatorial candidate Paul Bagwell in 1958 and 1960, said he first met Nixon nine years ago. During the aftermath of the Watergate episode, Johnson said he became angry at the American people.

"I could never quite convince myself that President Nixon had done so many bad things," said Johnson. "I felt the great things he did far exceeded those things he was accused of doing."

Contributions continue to arrive for the fund at the offices of the United States Citizens Congress, a conservative organization in Washington that grew out of the fund. More than $350,000 has been contributed for legal fees to the fund Korff started in 1973.

The money now pays lawyers to help Nixon regain from the government some of the 42 million personal papers he accumulated while President.

Dowagiac Facing Power Rate Hike

DOWAGIAC — City officials here are waiting for a revised wholesale electric power rate increase proposal from the city's wholesale electric power supplier, Michigan Power company.

City Manager Henry Graper said the new proposal is the result of a new agreement between Michigan Power and Indiana & Michigan Electric company, the company Michigan Power buys power from.

Graper and three other city officials were in Washington D.C. last Tuesday and Wednesday and learned of the new proposal.

Michigan Power buys electrical power wholesale from I & M and resells it to Dowagiac which in turn sells it to city customers.

The Federal Power Commission originally granted a temporary 126 per cent increase in rates charged by I & M for power sold to Michigan Power. Michigan Power then received approval from the FPC for a 108 per cent increase in rates it charges Dowagiac for power. That resulted in the city raising

City officials said that they have not yet seen the new rate proposal from Michigan Power, but expect it within a week. Should the new proposal be acceptable the city would at press for an FPC hearing on the rate increase, Graper reported.

In Washington last week along with Graper were Mayor Graham Woodhouse, City Atty. Herbert Phillips, Jr., and Larry Rohacs, director of public services for Dowagiac.

Friends Mourn Freddie Prinze

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As 4-star Jack Albertson and best friend Tony Orlando composed eulogies for Freddie Prinze's funeral service today, the coroner revealed that the 22-year-old comic had no chance for survival from the moment he shot himself in the head.

A small funeral service was scheduled for 12:30 p.m. PST today at the Old North Church at Forest Lawn in Hollywood Hills for the young star of NBC-TV's "Chico and the Man."

A spokesman for Forest Lawn said pallbearers would include songwriter Paul Williams and business agent Marvin Snyder. A Prinze spokesman said entertainer Bob Hope would be an honorary pallbearer.

Prinze, who left a note saying he couldn't "take it anymore," died Saturday afternoon, 33 hours after he pulled a .32 caliber automatic from his apartment sofa and fired a bullet through his temple as Snyder watched. He had just hung up the telephone from speaking to his estranged wife, Kathy, mother of his 10-month-old son Freddie Jr.

As doctors at UCLA Medical Center performed surgery and used life-sustaining equipment in a futile effort to save him, the hospital was flooded with telephone calls from fans. The family and a few close friends, including singer Orlando, held a vigil.

Doctors at first refused to comment on Prinze's chances for survival, but the Los Angeles County coroner's office said Sunday that his injuries were so serious that he could not have lived.

"All that charm, all that love, all that marvelous talent and all that niceness," said James Komack, producer and creator of the "Chico" series. "He couldn't do that offstage. Offstage the world was still uncomfortable for him."

Prinze was faced with the breakup of his marriage, the problems of trying to free himself from a contract with a former manager who signed him as a teen-ager and the concern over an impending trial on charges of driving under the influence of drugs.

Distrust Concerns Auto Men

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The people who make and sell automobiles are among the most distrusted groups in the nation, according to the top executive of General Motor Corp.

"We, all of us in this industry, have to do better," GM board chairman Thomas A. Murphy declared Sunday. "Our concern for the customer's satisfaction must extend all along the line, from the designer's drawing board to the mechanic's work bench."

Murphy's remarks came at a meeting in conjunction with the annual convention of the National Automobile Dealers Association.

Murphy said every dissatisfied car owner tends to multiply his own bad experiences into the entire car population.

"If his car has a defect, or he doesn't receive prompt and courteous service, he doesn't see himself as an exception," he said. "Instead, he is inclined to say 'they just don't build them like they used to.'"

Murphy said GM surveys indicate about one out of every four car owners is dissatisfied to some degree.

The auto industry may have been late in recognizing the extent of the public's discontent, he said.

Murphy warned that every reason for complaint and every impolite response is an invitation to more regulation of the industry.

Carter Seeking Accounting Of MIAs

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is asking members of Congress what the United States can do to get an accounting of the 800 Americans still missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Carter called a meeting today with Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., whose Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia urged the United States to press as hard as possible for an accounting.

A Montgomery aide said Carter, the congressman and other members of the committee were focusing on details of the panel's report last December. The report concluded that no Americans are still being held prisoner from the Indochina war.

"The congressman himself has said that the matter (of missing persons) is up to the State Department now," the aide said. "Under the law, they are the ones who can negotiate (an accounting)."

The meeting came one day after Carter witnessed the installation of Andrew Young as United Nations ambassador.

Young was to present credentials to Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim later today.

Young, a former Democratic congressman from Georgia, says he hopes the country will move toward admitting Hanh into the United Nations. But he acknowledged the men missing in action (MIAs) remain an issue.

Carter said during the campaign that a presidential commission should be appointed to take the Vietnamese up on an offer to negotiate the release of MIA information.

But he said normal relations with Vietnam will depend on whether it cooperates in an accounting of the MIAs.

The Ford administration twice vetoed Vietnamese entry into the U.N., citing what it called a hostile Vietnamese attitude toward requests for the accounting.

State Department spokesman Frederick Brown has refused to say the Carter administration will refrain from another veto when membership comes up again. Brown said the administration hopes the MIA question "would be resolved before the U.N. question comes up."

Oath-taking ceremonies for Young, whom Carter called the best public servant he has ever known, followed the President's return Sunday from Pittsburgh, where he toured a chilly, partially closed factory to dramatize the nation's energy crisis.

Carter has declared emergencies in states, including Pennsylvania and New York, that have been hit hard by the fuel shortage in the coldest winter in a decade. The declaration makes the states eligible for federal aid.

Health News... You May Have Neuro-Thlipsia; Most Do

Not long ago we reported on Neurothipsia, which is essentially a pinched nerve condition. Since the article a number of individuals have inquired as to the frequency of this problem and to the public's awareness of its existence.

"Tragically few," says Dr. Ackerman of the Ackerman Chiropractic Center "know of the Neurothipsia syndrome and are aware of the condition. The 'pinched nerve' gets bantered around in on-the-job or cocktail conversation," he says, "but very few people actually relate themselves to it."

This is truly a serious mistake, says the good doctor. "It's a typical paradox. Mention the problem by its proper name," says Dr. Ackerman, "and you have no takers. Mention the problem by its symptoms and you immediately hear a chorus of 'that's me'."

What are those symptoms? Dr. Ackerman says the list is almost too long to enumerate. "That's not to say an individual must have them all or at the same time. I don't think I've ever met anyone that sick. But if a person is affected by even one of the following signs he (or she)," says Dr. Ackerman "should consider it a glaring red light on signals the need for prompt and effective treatment."

Usually a pinched nerve—or neurothipsia—manifests itself through nervousness and irritability. Frequently headaches are involved—frequently headaches. There is often dizziness or an inability to think clearly or to concentrate.

As for the pain, it can be, literally, in the neck, or in the shoulders, arms, back or legs. Sometimes there is a tightness in the chest or pain between the shoulders when you take a deep breath. A nervous stomach can be the warning signal.

"There are other signs and symptoms, but those mentioned are the most common," says Dr. Ackerman. "Of course," he adds, "we're often guilty of spending too much talk on the cause of a problem, such as neurothipsia. For that reason I'm not going to delve into the whys and wherefores of the pinched nerves. Let me suffice by saying that if you suffer from the symptoms seek immediate treatment; let the Doctor expend his energy on effective correction of the problem, not on talk."

"The average person would trade fifty conversations about his disease for just one that means 'you're well.'"

Claudine Plans To Appeal Any Prison Or Jail Term

By BILL PARDEE
Associated Press Writer

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, comforted by husband Andy Williams as she faced sentencing today for killing her lover, will definitely appeal if ordered to serve time in jail, her attorney says.

"Any jail time at all for her would be horrible," said Charles Weedman of Los Angeles, lawyer for the French-born entertainer.

"Quite frankly, she's wearied by all this," he said, "and I don't know if any appeal will be filed if there's no jail time. Of course, if a jail term is ordered, there is no question there will be an appeal."

Maximum penalty for Miss Longet's misdemeanor conviction is two years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

State District Court Judge George Lohr had a choice of sending her to state prison, the reformatory or the county jail, fining her or putting her on probation, Weedman said.

Skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich died March 21, 1976, of a single bullet wound in the stomach from a .22 caliber pistol. Miss Longet said the gun went off accidentally while she was learning to use it.

She was convicted Jan. 14 by a district court jury of criminally negligent homicide. Jurors rejected prosecution arguments that she was guilty of reckless manslaughter, a felony that can carry a 10-year prison term.

A presentence probation report said that if Miss Longet were sentenced to any consecutive days in jail, she planned to send her three children by Williams to live with him in California temporarily. The couple was divorced in 1975.

The children, Noelle, 13, Christian, 11, and Bobby, 7, lived with Miss Longet and Sabich at his $250,000 mountain-side chalet.

The probation report described Miss Longet as a "very good candidate for probation." But the probation officer also suggested that "some jail time to be served would not be inappropriate" because she caused the death.

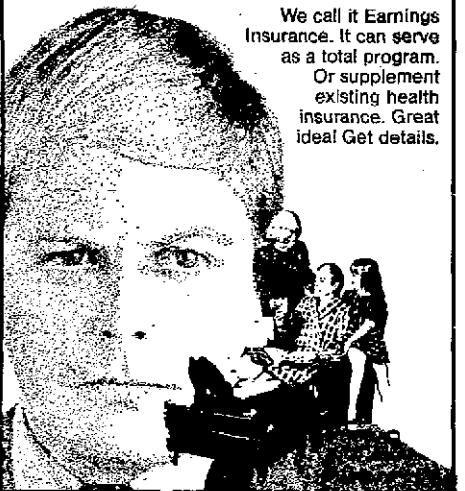

Sabich, 31, was the first American to dominate the pro-ski circuit and was a hero in this Rocky Mountain ski resort. The night Miss Longet was found guilty, she was mimicked and criticized by workers and customers at Aspen's bars and restaurants.

M-275 Cancellation Heartens State Freeway Foes

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — While highway officials are reluctant to read anything into a decision to scrap a major freeway project, the cancellation of Michigan 275 is certainly reason for opponents of other freeways to be buoyant.

Their hope is in ten words spoken by Peter Fletcher, chairman of the State Highway Commission, shortly before he voted with his colleagues last week to cancel the 20-year-old M-275 project in western Oakland County.

"You do not want it, you shall not have it," said Fletcher flatly.

Technically, the commission wields the final word on highway building in Michigan. But Fletcher's words clearly threw some of the power to the people.

And although state highway officials pooh-pooh the sugges-

"It's not just a freeway we're talking about but a whole way of life, a philosophy," the highway commission was told by Delma Bartleme, an opponent of the M-275 project.

"Is this a necessity or more a convenience? That is the question that always has to be asked about a major project," said David Merchant of the Federal Highway Administration office in Lansing.

"Sure it's been asked in the past. But I also believe it will be more rigorously applied in the future."

There were no such difficult questions in Michigan back in 1957 when building the interstate freeway system began. Since then, 1,663 miles of freeway have been poured in the state, with the peak pavement-laying period the decade of the '60s.

Building slowed in the past eight years, at the same time that citizens and environmentalists began testing their strength and flexing the muscles they found they had.

Now, only 30 miles of freeway are under construction in the state — a record low since 1957 — and only about 50 more miles of interstate are planned.

Though the cancellation of any highway project by opponents of concrete seems a victory, the costs of such decisions are high.

M-275, for example, was on the drawing boards since 1966. It was the last link of a Detroit bypass freeway and would have linked Interstate 96 at Novi to Interstate 75 south of Flint.

Thousands of hours of expensive engineering and research time went into analyzing where its path should be plotted and what the freeway itself would do to flora and fauna in the area.

Land was bought and sold in the freeway's planned corridor, including $1.6 million in plots the state bought.

Yet the first rumblings about the project came only months ago, last summer, when Stephen Rosman, a 27-year-old insurance agent, stumbled into a public hearing on the project.

He was stunned that he had not known earlier about the freeway which would run but a half-mile from the backyard of his Commerce Twp. home.

Rosman invited his 300 neighbors to come to his house and talk about the freeway. Fifty showed up and most left angry.

Later Rosman took the initial environmental impact report prepared by the state highway department to a professor at Wayne State University and asked that the dargon be explained to him.

From then on, Citizens in Opposition to M-275 and environmental groups and much of the press who joined the fight pointed up the department's acknowledgment that the highway would ruin a 200-acre wetlands, eat up recreational and agricultural land and speed up urbanization of the now semi-suburban region. Mainly, however, they challenged the need for the freeway, in light of evidence that fuel in the future may be too short to power as many automobiles as now fill the concrete.

In the end, the commission opted for the people and their concerns. Their decision flew in the face of highway department officials who all along touted M-275 as necessary to complete plans laid out a decade before.

Now Highway Planners Fret About I-94 Loop In BH-SJ

tion that scrapping M-275 will make other project cancellations easier, it is clear that this commission will make the job of the old-time highway champions a tougher one.

It is the first highway commission in Michigan to cancel a project after years of planning and spending. One of the straws that broke those plans was the well-organized protest of county residents.

Particularly worrisome now to state highway planners are two highway projects: a proposed extension of Northwestern Highway in southern Oakland County that was to connect with M-275; and a loop of Interstate 94 that would plunge through St. Joseph and Benton Harbor on the state's western shore.

Both have met with loud protests from residents.

Of the I-94 penetrator, one highway department spokesman says: "That could be another one to go down the drain." And highway officials admit that the cancellation of M-275 throws Northwestern Highway's proposed extension into doubt, since it would no longer end at a major freeway, but in tiny Commerce twp.

In both cases, residents protest that the freeways are unnecessary and will cost more socially and environmentally than they would be worth in convenience.

Condemned Killers Ask For Death Row Wedding

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — Two killers sentenced to the electric chair want to be married in Florida's first Death Row wedding, not for themselves but for the sake of their child.

Jessie Tafero says he is prepared for the worst — the possibility that his and Sonia

Jacobs' appeals will fail and they will be executed. That would orphan their daughter, Christina, born out of wedlock 21 months ago.

"Sonia and I are applying now to be married. Here, just about anywhere we can, so our marital status will be completely legitimized for everybody's questions ... We have a child," Tafero said in a copyright story in today's St. Petersburg Times.

Florida recognizes an illegitimate child as one of the few reasons for marriage inside state prisons. But officials said this is their first request for a Death Row wedding.

"All the others, the spouse has been outside and free. So this really throws a monkey wrench in the thing," said an assistant chaplain.

The decision rests with the head prison chaplain in Tallahassee.

The newspaper interviewed the 28-year-old mother at Florida Correctional Institute for Women. Tafero, 30, was interviewed at Florida State Prison in Starke, 55 miles away.

They had been telling prison officials that they were married — ever since their arrests in February 1976 for the murders of Florida Highway Patrolman Phillip Black and his friend, visiting Canadian Constable Donald Irwin. The officers were shot to death near Delray Beach at an Interstate 95 rest stop. Tafero insisted they are innocent of murder, and he is optimistic they will be released on appeal.

Miss Jacobs and Tafero said they lived together for years, but they were unable to produce a marriage license.

They were tried separately and sent to different facilities. They haven't seen each other since her trial last July, although they write to each other every day.

Miss Jacobs, interviewed first, insisted she was married. "It's a legal marriage," she said. "I've decided not to talk too much about it because I don't know what the question is, but we are so close a family, you know, that I just ignore that."

Tafero, interviewed later, suggested that Miss Jacobs was lying for the child's sake. He said she didn't know about his plans for a Death Row wedding.

He said he had just talked to the prison chaplain and "told him my intentions and Sonia's intentions."

"He says there shouldn't be any problem, and I'm doing the paperwork now," Tafero said.

Plenty Of Room For Skating

DIXON, W. Va. (AP) — While most West Virginians huddled near their heaters, Dudley Pettrey spent the day sweeping snow from nearby Twelvepole Creek. "I ordered these skates and they just arrived," he said Sunday, leaning on his broom in the middle of the frozen stream. "The ice here is eight inches thick and I'm making myself a place to skate." The temperature was 20 degrees. The sky was a vivid blue and Pettrey's nose was a bright red. "There's usually a bunch of kids skating down there," he said, pointing to a spot some 100 yards down the empty ice. "But I guess it's too cold for them today or perhaps they have just got their fill; they've been out there everyday for two weeks." Pettrey clutched his broom and skated off, twice negotiating a sprawling figure-eight that got wider with each trip. He had set a couple of lawn chairs on the ice but a neighbor's collie was his only companion.

LOYD JOHNSON IS NEW NIXON FUND CHIEF

Michigan Man Now Heads Nixon Fund

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan nursing home owner is the new head of the President Nixon Justice Fund, replacing Rabbi Baruch Korff who is stepping down largely because of ill health.

Lloyd Johnson, 54, of Ann Arbor, said this weekend that he will follow the former president's wishes and serve as a custodian rather than a fundraiser.

Johnson said he met for 70 minutes in November with the ex-President and said Nixon expressed confidence he "would be able to take up and do for himself what others had been doing for him."

"He (Nixon) said he never believed that things should be done for a person that a person can do for himself," said Johnson.

Johnson, a longtime Republican who worked for unsuccessful Michigan GOP gubernatorial candidate Paul Regan in 1958 and 1960, said he first met Nixon nine years ago. During the aftermath of the Watergate episode, Johnson said he became angry at the American people.

"I could never quite convince myself that President Nixon had done so many bad things," said Johnson. "I felt the great things he did far exceeded those things he was accused of doing."

Contributions continue to arrive for the fund at the offices of the United States Citizens Congress, a conservative organization in Washington that grew out of the fund. More than $350,000 has been contributed for legal fees to the fund Korff started in 1973.

The money now pays lawyers to help Nixon regain from the government some of the 42 million personal papers he accumulated while President.

Dowagiac Facing Power Rate Hike

DOWAGIAC — City officials here are waiting for a revised wholesale electric power rate increase proposal from the city's wholesale electric power supplier, Michigan Power company.

City Manager Henry Graper said the new proposal is the result of a new agreement between Michigan Power and Indiana & Michigan Electric company, the company Michigan Power buys power from.

Graper and three other city officials were in Washington D.C. last Tuesday and Wednesday and learned of the new proposal.

Michigan Power buys electrical power wholesale from I & M and resells it to Dowagiac which in turn sells it to city customers.

The Federal Power Commission originally granted a temporary 126 per cent increase in rates charged by I & M for power sold to Michigan Power. Michigan Power then received approval from the FPC for a 108 per cent increase in rates it charges Dowagiac for power. That resulted in the city raising

City officials said that they have not yet seen the new rate proposal from Michigan Power, but expect it within a week. Should the new proposal be acceptable the city would at press for an FPC hearing on the rate increase, Graper reported.

In Washington last week along with Graper were Mayor Graham Woodhouse, City Atty. Herbert Phillips, Jr., and Larry Rohacs, director of public services for Dowagiac.

Abortion 'Safer' Than Births

CHICAGO (AP) — Women who went through childbirth ran a risk of death nine times greater than those who had abortions performed by licensed physicians in the first three months of pregnancy, says a federal study of the years 1972-1974.

Dr. Willard Cates Jr. and three associates at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta conducted the study as part of the federal center's surveillance of abortion-related deaths.

"Legal abortion in the United States in 1972 through 1974 was a relatively safe surgical procedure" with a death rate below that for the removal of tonsils or appendix, concludes the study. The report appears in today's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"When compared with mortality from pregnancy and childbirth, legal abortion in the first trimester was nearly nine times safer than carrying the pregnancy to term," the study said.

The study compares statistics for abortion-related deaths between 1972 and 1974 with similar figures for full-term pregnancies.

It says there were 3.9 maternal deaths per 100,000 legally performed abortions, but the rate dropped to 1.7 when abortions were performed in the first three months of pregnancy.

The U.S. Supreme Court in 1973 declared that states could not interfere with abortions during the first three months of pregnancy, a ruling that upset abortion laws of many states.

The study cited figures of the National Center for Health Statistics which showed the rate of maternal deaths related to pregnancy during the same period was 14.8 per 100,000 live births.

Based on the statistical analysis, the study also said:

—The most significant factor related to deaths from abortion is the number of weeks the pregnancy has progressed.

—The risk of dying from abortion is four times greater for women over 40 than for teen-agers, who had the lowest rate. The abortion risk was higher for black mothers, but the study did not speculate on the reason.

—Women who underwent abortions in their own states had a slightly higher mortality rate than women who underwent the operation in another state. The study said out-of-state abortions were performed on women of higher economic status.

The analysis covered a three-year period because the number of U.S. abortion-related deaths in a single year was too small to be meaningful. Deaths related to legal abortions were 24 in 1972, 26 in 1973 and 26 in 1974, the study says.

Abortions were defined as legal if they were performed by licensed physicians under Supreme Court guidelines, even if its legality was questioned in the state where it took place.

Miner Lake Boat Ramp OK Sought

ALLEGAN — The Michigan Department of Natural Resources, waterways division, is seeking federal approval for construction of a boat ramp on Miner lake northeast of here.

Based on proposed construction plans, the state will build a boat-launching ramp of precast concrete but must dredge about 80 cubic yards of marl from the waterway before hauling in 20 cubic yards of stone.

The application for construction has been made to the Detroit office of the U.S. Army's corps of engineers where written objections must be filed prior to Feb. 15.

The proposed launching ramp is to be located just northeast of the 120th avenue, 26th street intersection, according to the engineers.

M-275 Cancellation Heartens State Freeway Foes

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — While highway officials are reluctant to read anything into a decision to scrap a major freeway project, the cancellation of Michigan 275 is certainly reason for opponents of other freeways to be buoyant.

Their hope is in ten words spoken by Peter Fletcher, chairman of the State Highway Commission, shortly before he voted with his colleagues last week to cancel the 20-year-old M-275 project in western Oakland County.

"You do not want it, you shall not have it," said Fletcher flatly.

Technically, the commission wields the final word on highway building in Michigan. But Fletcher's words clearly threw some of the power to the people.

And although state highway officials push-pull the sugges-

"It's not just a freeway we're talking about but a whole way of life, a philosophy," the highway commission was told by Delma Bartlett, an opponent of the M-275 project.

"Is this a necessity or more a convenience? That is the question that always has to be asked about a major project," said David Merchant of the Federal Highway Administration office in Lansing.

"Sure it's been asked in the past. But I also believe it will be more rigorously applied in the future."

There were no such difficult questions in Michigan back in 1957 when building the interstate freeway system began. Since then, 1,603 miles of freeway have been poured in the state, with the peak pavement-laying period the decade of the 60s.

Building slowed in the past eight years, at the same time that citizens and environmentalists began testing their strength and flexing the muscles they found they had.

Now, only 30 miles of freeway are under construction in the state — a record low since 1957 — and only about 50 more miles of interstate are planned.

Though the cancellation of any highway project by opponents of concrete seems a victory, the costs of such decisions are high.

M-275, for example, was on the drawing boards since 1966. It was the last link of a Detroit bypass freeway and would have linked Interstate 96 at Novi to Interstate 75 south of Flint.

Thousands of hours of expensive engineering and research time went into analyzing where its path should be plotted and what the freeway itself would do to flora and fauna in the area.

Land was bought and sold in the freeway's planned corridor, including $1.6 million in plots the state bought.

Yet the first rumblings about the project came only months ago, last summer, when Stephen Rosman, a 27-year-old insurance agent, stumbled into a public hearing on the project.

He was stunned that he had not known earlier about the freeway which would run but a half-mile from the backyard of his Commerce Twp. home.

Rosman invited his 300 neighbors to come to his house and talk about the freeway. Fifty showed up and must left angry.

Later Rosman took the initial environmental impact report prepared by the state highway department to a professor at Wayne State University and asked that the dargon be explained to him.

From then on, Citizens in Opposition to M-275 and environmental groups and much of the press who joined the fight pointed up the department's acknowledgment that the highway would ruin a 200-acre wetlands, eat up recreational and agricultural land and speed up urbanization of the now semi-suburban region. Mainly, however, they challenged the need for the freeway, in light of evidence that fuel in the future may be too short to power as many automobiles as now fill the concrete.

In the end, the commission opted for the people and their concerns. Their decision flew in the face of highway department officials who all along touted M-275 as necessary to complete plans laid out a decade before.

Now Highway
Planners Fret
About I-94
Loop In BH-SJ

tion that scrapping M-275 will make other project cancellations easier, it is clear that this commission will make the job of the old-time highway champions a tougher one.

It is the first highway commission in Michigan to cancel a project after years of planning and spending. One of the straws that broke those plans was the well-organized protest of county residents.

Particularly worrisome now to state highway planners are two highway projects: a proposed extension of Northwestern Highway in southern Oakland County that was to connect with M-275; and a loop of Interstate 94 that would plunge through St. Joseph and Benton Harbor on the state's western shore.

Both have met with loud protests from residents.

Of the I-94 penetrator, one highway department spokesman says: "That could be another one to go down the drain." And highway officials admit that the cancellation of M-275 throws Northwestern Highway's proposed extension into doubt, since it would no longer end at a major freeway, but in tiny Commerce Twp.

In both cases, residents protest that the freeways are unnecessary and will cost more socially and environmentally than they would be worth in convenience.

President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela is in the fourth year of his five-year term, elected by universal vote, his nation relatively prosperous. But in Latin America, where poverty and wealth dwell so close together, where the politically in and the politically out are nervous companions, peace is as unstable as the torrid weather.

The new constitution is only a year old. Already it is tested by bullets. In the first week of June, 1962, 500 Marines revolt at the naval base at Puerto Cabello. Snipers in the buildings put down a withering fire at government tanks and troops that advance against them.

Hector Rondón, a cameraman for the newspaper La Republica, ducks the bullets and follows the government force against the Marines. In two days, more than 200 are killed, the revolt put down, and Rondón has a prize-winning series of pictures — the most vivid, Father Manuel Padilla holding a wounded government rifleman.

CONSUMERS POWER SUED

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Milwaukee, Wis., widow whose husband was killed when a sailboat mast hit some power lines has filed a $2.5 million federal court suit against Consumers Power Co. Shirley A. Koller contended the utility was negligent for having its power lines near a public boat launching site at Spring Lake. The utility also failed to insulate the wires properly, the suit said. Mrs. Koller's husband, Fred, was injured fatally last July 4 and the boat owner was burned.

For a long time, the American people will be looking at both metric measures and customary measures on the same labels, the same signs. For instance, the distances to right and left field in Cincinnati's Riverfront stadium are given in both meters and feet.

But, as one engineer noted, the distance in feet was rounded off to the nearest foot, while the metric measure was carried out to the precision of decimal points.

"Now, is that going to make people think that metrics are easy?" he asked sarcastically.

Metrics for most people will not seem easy. But meters as well as yards don't have to be carried past the decimal to a fartheewell. Meters can be used as yards are within an approximation of being similar.

Understanding the metric system or applying it in the everyday world is not very difficult.

The supermarket, the gas station, department store, auto trips, wind velocity in winter

So let's look at what you need to know about metrics. Let's look at what you need to know to get by in everyday life.

The meter is the basic unit of length and there are four important multiples or subdivisions of it. —The meter. This is about 39 inches, a little longer than a yard, about the stride of an average adult without back trouble.

—Kilometer — 1,000 meters.

—Centimeter — 1-100th of a meter, about the thickness of the tip of a person's little finger, or the diameter of a button on a man's dress shirt.

—Millimeter — 1-10th of a centimeter, about the thickness of a dime.

The object of all of these comparisons is to show that metric measurements can be as precise as you want them to be, or as imprecise as you need them to be. Your own foot may be 12 inches or less, but for rough measurements it is still a foot. It is also a little less than a third of a meter, or, to be precise, 30.48 centimeters.

Why is it that people who have become accustomed to fractions of an inch, which are fractions

Rep. Gast Retains Committee Posts

LANSING — Representative Harry Gast Jr. (R-St. Joseph) has begun his fourth term in the Michigan House of Representatives by maintaining his appointment to the standing committees on which he served during the last two years.

Gast has been named Republican vice-chairman of the towns and counties committees and has been reassigned to the committees on taxation, elections and conservation-recreation-environment.

He explained the towns and counties committee deals with all legislation which affects local governments. He said the committee would tackle reorganization of all county laws early in the session.

Correction of the single business tax will be the first order of the taxation committee, Gast said, and the election committee has been feeling public pressure to alleviate overcrowded ballots, particularly during presidential elections.

There is a vast amount of pending legislation members of the committee on conservation-recreation-environment will consider this session, and a priority concern will be land use legislation, Gast said.

"I feel the committees I serve

Abortion 'Safer' Than Births

CHICAGO (AP) — Women who went through childbirth ran a risk of death nine times greater than those who had abortions performed by licensed physicians in the first three months of pregnancy, says a federal study of the years 1972-1974.

Dr. Willard Cates Jr. and three associates at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta conducted the study as part of the federal center's surveillance of abortion-related deaths.

"Legal abortion in the United States in 1972 through 1974 was a relatively safe surgical procedure" with a death rate below that for the removal of tonsils or appendix, concludes the study. The report appears in today's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"When compared with mortality from pregnancy and childbirth, legal abortion in the first trimester was nearly nine times safer than carrying the pregnancy to term," the study said.

The study compares statistics for abortion-related deaths between 1972 and 1974 with similar figures for full-term pregnancies.

It says there were 3.9 maternal deaths per 100,000 legally performed abortions, but the rate dropped to 1.7 when abortions were performed in the first three months of pregnancy.

The U.S. Supreme Court in 1973 declared that states could not interfere with abortions during the first three months of pregnancy, a ruling that upset abortion laws of many states.

The study cited figures of the National Center for Health Statistics which showed the rate of maternal deaths related to pregnancy during the same period was 14.8 per 100,000 live births.

Based on the statistical analysis, the study also said:

- The most significant factor related to deaths from abortion is the number of weeks the pregnancy has progressed.
- The risk of dying from abortion is four times greater for women over 40 than for teen-agers, who had the lowest rate. The abortion risk was higher for black mothers, but the study did not speculate on the reason.
- Women who underwent abortions in their own states had a slightly higher mortality rate than women who underwent the operation in another state. The study said out-of-state abortions were performed on women of higher economic status.

The analysis covered a three-year period because the number of U.S. abortion-related deaths in a single year was too small to be meaningful. Deaths related to legal abortions were 24 in 1972, 26 in 1973 and 26 in 1974, the study says.

Abortions were defined as legal if they were performed by licensed physicians under Supreme Court guidelines, even if its legality was questioned in the state where it took place.

ALLEGAN — The Michigan Department of Natural Resources, waterways division, is seeking federal approval for construction of a boat ramp on Miner Lake northeast of here.

Based on proposed construction plans, the state will build a boat-launching ramp of precast concrete but must dredge about 80 cubic yards of muck from the waterway before hauling in 20 cubic yards of stone.

The application for construction has been made to the Detroit office of the U.S. Army's corps of engineers where written objections must be filed prior to Feb. 15.

The proposed launching ramp is to be located just northeast of the 120th avenue, 26th street intersection, according to the engineers.

Today is Monday, Jan. 31, the 31st day of 1977. There are 334 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1958, the first American space satellite, Explorer One, was launched into orbit from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

On this date:

In 1606, Guy Fawkes, a conspirator against the government of England, was executed.

In 1801, John Marshall was appointed Chief Justice of the United States.

In 1865, General Robert E. Lee was named Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate armies.

In 1917, Germany announced that it was beginning a policy of unrestricted submarine warfare in World War I.

In 1943, in World War II, the Soviet Union announced victory over German troops at Stalingrad.

In 1968, South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu declared martial law in the face of mounting guerrilla attacks throughout the country.

Ten years ago: West Germany and Communist Romania renewed diplomatic relations over the objections of East Germany.

Five years ago: Guerrillas in Northern Ireland set off bombs, sprayed bullets and marched in defiant parades as a general strike spread through most of the country to protest the killing of 13 civilians by British troops.

One year ago: Pope Paul VI cautioned against feminist movements that he said ran the risk of depersonalizing women.

Today's birthdays: Writer Norman Mailer is 54. Actress Carol Channing is 56. Former Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall is 57.

Thought for today: A good storyteller is a person who has a good memory and hopes other people haven't. — Irvin Cobb, American humorist, 1876-1944.

Young Sworn In

WASHINGTON (AP) — Andrew Young, hailed by President Carter as the best public servant he has ever known, has been sworn in as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall administered the oath Sunday in the East Room of the White House.

At That Moment

CHURCH AND STATE

President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela is in the fourth year of his five-year term, elected by universal vote, his nation relatively prosperous. But in Latin America, where poverty and wealth dwell so close together, where the politically in and the politically out are nervous companions, peace is as unstable as the torrid weather.

The new constitution is only a year old. Already it is tested by bullets. In the first week of June, 1962, 500 Marines revolt at the naval base at Puerto Cabello. Snipers in the buildings put down a withering fire at government tanks and troops that advance against them.

Hector Ronden, a cameraman for the newspaper La Republica, ducks the bullets and follows the government force against the Marines. In two days, more than 200 are killed, the revolt put down, and Ronden has a prize-winning series of pictures — the most vivid, Father Manuel Padilla holding a wounded government rifleman.

Pulitzer Prize Winner, 1963.

Signs, Labels First Step To Metrics

By SCIENCE RESEARCH ASSOCIATES

For a long time, the American people will be looking at both metric measures and customary measures on the same labels, the same signs. For instance, the distances to right and left field in Cincinnati's Riverfront stadium are given in both meters and feet.

But, as one engineer noted, the distance in feet was rounded off to the nearest foot, while the metric measure was carried out to the precision of decimal points.

"Now, is that going to make people think that metrics are easy?" he asked sarcastically. Metrics for most people will not seem easy. But meters as well as yards don't have to be carried past the decimal to a fartheewell. Meters can be used as yards are within an approximation of being similar.

Understanding the metric system or applying it in the everyday world is not very difficult.

The supermarket, the gas station, department store, auto trips, wind velocity in winter

So let's look at what you need to know about metrics. Let's look at what you need to know to get by in everyday life.

The meter is the basic unit of length and there are four important multiples or subdivisions of it. of a foot, which is a fraction of a yard, are frightened by decimal points and things divided by tens and hundreds?

In the long run, of course, metrics are simpler.

Remember the old commercial about a cigarette a silly little millimeter longer? It was a lot more catchy than saying a silly width of a dime longer. But that's roughly the same degree of silliness.

An American high school or college athlete may run the hundred-yard dash, but in international events he'll run the hundred meters. In fact the Olympics have converted to metric distances, save for the mile which the Olympic officials decided had a history and tradition too rich to abandon. Remember breaking the four-minute mile.

Some subdivisions and multiples of the meter are already functions of American life. The man at the camera shop would probably fall into shock if someone asked for one-third inch movie film. But he'd happily reach for the eight millimeter. Skis are measured in centimeters, and many road signs already show distances in kilometers. Standard U.S. electrical plugs measure 12 millimeters between prongs. Thank goodness.

Sixth Of A Series

storms, even weight-reducing clubs can be handled with fewer than a dozen new terms.

Remarkably, in human communication, you read or hear a new word, and go immediately to the dictionary to understand what you were not sure of. But measurements are different. They refer not to abstractions, but to every element of daily life — how tall you are, how much you weigh, how much that chicken costs a kilogram, how many miles that car gets per whatever it is.

—The meter. This is about 39 inches, a little longer than a yard, about the stride of an average adult without back trouble.

—Kilometer — 1,000 meters.

—Centimeter — 1/100th of a meter, about the thickness of the tip of a person's little finger, or the diameter of a button on a man's dress shirt.

—Millimeter — 1/10th of a centimeter, about the thickness of a dime.

The object of all of these comparisons is to show that metric measurements can be as precise as you want them to be, or as imprecise as you need them to be. Your own foot may be 12 inches or less, but for rough measurements it is still a foot. It is also a little less than a third of a meter, or, to be precise, 30.48 centimeters.

Why is it that people who have become accustomed to fractions of an inch, which are fractions

Rep. Gast Retains Committee Posts

LANSING — Representative Harry Gast Jr. (R-St. Joseph) has begun his fourth term in the Michigan House of Representatives by maintaining his appointment to the standing committees on which he served during the last two years.

Gast has been named Republican vice-chairman of the towns and counties committees and has been reassigned to the committees on taxation, elections and conservation-recreation-environment.

He explained the towns and counties committee deals with all legislation which affects local governments. He said the committee would tackle reorganization of all county laws early in the session.

Correction of the single business tax will be the first order of the taxation committee, Gast said, and the election committee has been feeling public pressure to alleviate overcrowded ballots, particularly during presidential elections.

There is a vast amount of pending legislation members of the committee on conservation-recreation-environment will consider this session, and a priority concern will be land use legislation, Gast said.

"I feel the committees I serve on reflect my schooling and previous experience," Gast said.

New Buffalo Slates Fluoride Clinic

NEW BUFFALO — Registration for a summer fluoride dental treatment program is underway here and parents should sign up their children by Feb. 25.

Children eligible for the program include three- and four-year-olds, and those in the second, fifth and eighth grades, according to Mrs. Teddie Jelinek, chairman of the New Buffalo PTO. The clinic will be held in the summer and parents will be notified of the appointment schedule in May.

A $4 fee will be charged to help cover the costs of operating the clinic, Mrs. Jelinek said.

Parents may call Mrs. Jelinek for further information.

CONSUMERS POWER SUED

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Milwaukee, Wis., widow whose husband was killed when a sailboat mast hit some power lines has filed a $2.5 million federal court suit against Consumers Power Co. Shirley A. Koller contended the utility was negligent for having its power lines near a public boat launching site at Spring Lake. The utility also failed to insulate the wires properly, the suit said. Mrs. Koller's husband, Fred, was injured fatally last July 4, and the boat owner was burned.

Finally, Vantage Longs.

The first long cigarette to bring good taste to low-tar smoking.

Like a lot of smokers you may like the idea of a longer cigarette. You may also want low tar.

But longer cigarettes usually have more tar. Well, Vantage just wouldn't go along with that.

So we worked. Until we could perfect a longer cigarette with the famous Vantage combination of full flavor and low tar. Not the lowest long cigarette you can find. But very possibly the lowest that you will enjoy.

New Vantage Longs. A blend of flavor-rich tobaccos with tar levels held down to the point where good taste still comes through.

That's the Vantage point. And that's the point of Vantage Longs. Never before has there been a long cigarette quite like it.

Try a pack today and see if you go along with us.

Storm Easing?-- South Gets It

going to appear tonight or tomorrow morning," said spokesman John Corey.

In New York, which like Pennsylvania has been declared eligible for federal disaster relief, at least half a million schoolchildren will be off all this week. Gov. Hugh Carey closed every school heated by natural gas — 1,309 public schools and an unknown number of private schools.

A spokesman for the State Public Service Commission said that temperatures slightly above predictions had eased the supply shortage, but about 200,000 upstate New Yorkers were out of work because of an almost total ban imposed by the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. on the use of natural gas for industry.

The utility said the restrictions might last all week.

In the lower Hudson Valley, Orange & Rockland Utilities ordered grocery stores heated by gas to open today only from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. All gas-heated restaurants must close by 9 p.m.

Activity in Buffalo, N.Y., was still far from normal. National Guardsmen, city workers and private contractors worked all day to clear snow from streets and highways, but one official said Sunday night, "We're about to lose the battle."

All but emergency travel has been banned in the city of 1.4 million; hundreds of cars, abandoned in snowdrifts, hindered the movement of emergency and supply vehicles.

Officials feared that they might find more bodies in cars, in addition to the seven already found in the Buffalo area since a blizzard struck Friday.

Of looters and other vandals, one policeman said: "We can't keep up with them in this weather with all the other problems."

More blowing, drifting snow was predicted for Buffalo today. More than 157 inches of snow has fallen already this winter. In a normal winter 44 inches might be expected by now.

On a lighter note, three reindeer from the Buffalo Zoo took advantage of giant drifts Sunday to spring over their fence for an hour or so. All were sighted within a mile and brought in after being tranquilized.

In New Jersey, energy-saving procedures went into effect today under an emergency decree from Gov. Brendan Byrne. Stores, bars, restaurants, offices and recreation facilities were ordered onto a 40-hour week until further notice — regardless of what fuel is used.

Industrial use of natural gas was cut off last week in New Jersey, and Public Utility Commission president Joel Jacobsen said Sunday that business curtailments might raise the number of idled workers to 750,000.

Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll scheduled a meeting for today to outline the implementation of a four-day week for "nonessential" state employees. But in West Virginia, Gov. Jay Rockefeller said state employees would remain on the job to help solve energy problems.

Indiana officials decided to ask President Carter to make their state eligible for aid. Govs. James Rhodes of Ohio and James Thompson of Illinois asked Carter to call a governors' meeting aimed at redirecting the nation's energy priorities toward heavier use of coal.

Ohio has reported one million workers — 25 per cent of the work force — laid off because of the weather and its consequences.

Snowfalls of four inches were reported in Gainesville and Mineral Wells, Texas, and the snow extended eastward across Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama into parts of southwest Georgia and northwest Florida. Snow fell for three hours this morning in Atlanta.

Freezing rain and sleet were reported over southern Alabama and Mississippi and in northwest Florida. Rain and thundershowers continued along the Texas and Louisiana coasts.

Snowmobiles were about the only things moving in Canada's Niagara Region, police said. They reported snowsqualls and high winds through the night, and the provincial transport ministry advised against road travel anywhere in Ontario Province.

The entire region, which includes Niagara Falls, was in a state of emergency.

At least 47 weather-related deaths were reported since the most recent cold weather hit late last week. Some of the deaths, however, were attributed to malfunctioning home heaters which caused suffocations or house fires, a frequent occurrence during the winter.

The total did not include 16 persons missing and presumed dead in a hotel fire in Breckinridge, Minn. The temperature at the time was 23 below zero.

Four deaths in Georgia were attributed to drownings through thin ice. A man in Fort Wayne, Ind., plunged into a snow bank and suffocated as his wife tried to dig him out.

A deep low pressure center continued to bring bad weather to the Great Lakes region. Winds gusting to 45 miles per hour created heavy snow squalls and blowing snow, especially in upper Michigan and western New York.

At Watertown, N.Y., 12 inches of new snow fell within six hours, to bring the depth on the ground to 55 inches. A temperature of ten degrees was reported, with winds gusting to 40 miles per hour and visibility zero in snow and blowing snow.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., added three inches of new snow with gusty winds also creating considerable blowing snow.

Skies were mostly clear over the remainder of the north central and northeast sections of the nation, with sub-zero temperatures common.

A few areas of rain and drizzle were reported along the north Pacific coast, but otherwise dry weather persisted in the West.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 14 below at Williston, N.D., to 70 at Key West, Fla.

The National Weather Service reported Detroit recorded its first January in history without temperatures ever rising above freezing. Detroit's temperature last was above freezing on Dec. 25, 1976, when the mercury soared to 35 degrees.

Officials said that through Sunday, it was also the coldest January on record, with the mean temperature for January a chilly 12.9 degrees.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

A. Neubauer

Alexander Neubauer, 82, of 705 Pleasant street, St. Joseph, died at 4:30 a.m. Friday at Shoreham Terrace nursing home.

Survivors include his wife, June; a step-son, Adolph Trapp, Cassopolis; and three brothers, Lewis Neubauer, Westminster, Calif., Arnold, Benton Harbor, Rudi, Bridgman.

Funeral services were held today at 3 p.m. at Kerley and Starks funeral home. Burial was in Riverview cemetery.

He was a veteran of World War I.

Susan L. Ferrell

St. Joseph police were awaiting an autopsy report to determine the cause of death of Susan L. Ferrell, 18, of 1021 Pearl street, whose body was found in her bedroom Sunday afternoon by her landlady.

Patrolman James LoPresti said police were called to the address at 12:48 p.m. by Miss Ferrell's landlady, Ellen Wilcott, who reported finding the body. LoPresti reported Ellen Wilcott said she had last seen Miss Ferrell about 12 hours previously.

LoPresti said three empty pill bottles were found in the bedroom, but no connection had been established between them and the death.

An autopsy was performed Sunday at Memorial hospital, but police had not received a report as of 9 a.m. today, LoPresti said.

Miss Ferrell was a 1976 graduate of St. Joseph high school and was employed as a secretary at Heath Company, St. Joseph.

Surviving are her parents, William E. and Mildred L. Ferrell, 2380 Shoreham drive; a sister, Janet, at home and her grandmothers, Mrs. Joseph C. Ferrell and Mrs. Julia Dowsett, both of St. Joseph.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Lakeshore Chapel, Florin funeral home, where friends may call after 7 p.m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Crystal Springs cemetery.

Memorials may be made to the donor's choice.

Richardson Rites

Funeral services for Rev. Orville Richardson, 58, who died Friday morning at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, will be held Thursday at 1 p.m. at Hopewell Baptist church. Burial will be in Crystal Springs cemetery.

Friends may call beginning Wednesday at Robbins Brothers funeral home.

Sheffield Rites Set

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Sheffield, 70, who died Friday afternoon at Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, will be held Wednesday at 1 p.m. at Pilgrim Rest Baptist church. Burial will be in Crystal Springs cemetery.

Friends may call beginning Tuesday at Robbins Brothers funeral home.

Benjamin Bailey

SOUTH HAVEN — Benjamin Bailey, 97, of 59th Ave., South Haven, died Sunday at her home.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete this forenoon at the Calvin funeral home, South Haven.

Sharon Maris

PAW PAW — The Saturday morning death of 14-year-old Sharon Ilene Maris of rural Paw Paw was due to an accidental drug overdose, according to a preliminary ruling by a deputy Van Buren county medical examiner.

Van Buren sheriff's deputies said they were called by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kupiec Maris, 2300 South Nursery road, about 11:40 a.m. The family had discovered the girl's body in her bedroom, deputies said.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Lake View Community hospital where an autopsy was conducted to determine the suspected drug, deputies said.

Sheriff's Lt. Donald Hogmire said Dr. David Millard of Paw Paw, in a preliminary ruling, said the cause of death was an accidental overdose of drugs.

She was born March 11, 1962, in Detroit, and was a ninth grade student at Paw Paw school system.

Surviving besides her parents are two sisters, Deborah and Gail and two brothers, Richard and Kevin, all at home; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Majewski, Detroit.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Mary's Catholic church, Paw Paw. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited at 7:30 this evening in the Thompson funeral home, Paw Paw, where friends may call from 4 until 6 and 7 until 9 today.

Mrs. Willard Ott

SOUTH HAVEN — Mrs. Willard C. (Bud) (Mary Regina Jeanne) Ott, 58, Sunnybrook Farm, South Haven, died Sunday in Cape Coral, Fla., following a short illness. She was born Aug. 29, 1918, in Chicago, Ill.

Surviving besides her husband are two daughters, Mrs. Albert (Diane) Mince, Flint, Mich., Miss Mary C. Ott, Lansing; a son, Dennis, at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hermer, Chicago; a brother, Thomas Hermer, Chicago.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Wednesday in St. Basil's Catholic church, South Haven. Burial will be in Chambers cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Calvin funeral home, South Haven, where friends may call from 6 until 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Fred Quist

SOUTH HAVEN — Fred Quist, 88, 89 Clinton street, South Haven, died Sunday in South Haven Community hospital.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete this forenoon at the Calvin funeral home, South Haven.

William Lentz

BARODA — William T. Lentz, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lentz, 9252 Marlene drive, Baroda, was dead on arrival at Memorial hospital Friday morning.

He was born Sept. 17, 1973, in Charleston, S.C.

Surviving in addition to his parents are grandparents, William Lentz Jr., Menominee, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gotsch, Barrington, Ill., and great-grandfather, William Lentz Sr., Kingsford, Mich.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Boyd funeral home, Bridgman. Burial will be in Birch Creek cemetery, Menominee. Friends may call after 5 p.m. this evening at the funeral home.

Jerry Gear

DOWAGIAC — Jerry E. Gear, 48, of route 7, Dowagiac, died Sunday afternoon at Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac.

He was born March 4, 1928, in Eau Claire.

Survivors include his wife, the former Doris Howard; three daughters, Sharon, Ludington, Judith, Watervliet, Mrs. Carroll Bradford, Dowagiac; and a son, Terry, Dowagiac.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at McLaughlin-Clark funeral home. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery. The Dowagiac Elks lodge will conduct graveside services. Friends may call after 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Sheriff: Hanging Try Foiled

Berrien county sheriff's deputies Saturday afternoon prevented an inmate from hanging himself with strips of mattress cover, according to Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell.

Jewell said John M. Collard, 18, Buchanan, who was awaiting trial on charges of armed robbery, was pulled down from the bars of the jail's holding cell at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Collard was treated and released from St. Joseph Memorial hospital, St. Joseph with minor neck burns, said Jewell. Jewell said it was not known why Collard attempted to hang himself.

EMPTY SHELVES: As road crews began to open up major roads closed by storm which swept southwestern Michigan, empty shelves began to appear in many grocery stores, such as this one in South Haven. Bareness was combination of residents stocking up over weekend and inability of suppliers to make normal deliveries. Some grocery stores were sending out own trucks to pick up additional dairy supplies. (Tom Renner photo)

Area's Still Digging Out After Snowbound Week

this morning to 10 to 20 m.p.h. out of the southwest.

The Niles waste water treatment plant reported that 8.4 inches of snow had fallen there since Wednesday. Harry Bush, Paw Paw village street superintendent, said an additional inch of snow fell last night giving that area 151 inches for the season.

Herb Teichman, Eau Claire fruit grower and weather observer, said temperatures have remained below freezing at his farm for 37 consecutive days. The average temperature at his farm during January was 12.5 above, "to my knowledge the coldest average on record."

In Allegan county, Harry Johnson, county civil defense director, said blowing snow has drifted some north-south roads to between 20 and 25 feet in some places. "Drifts of 10 to 12 feet are routine," he added.

Johnson said a rotating group of about 12 National Guardsmen from the Wyoming, Mich., armory have been using two five-ton, six-wheel transport trucks to move heavy supplies into snowbound outlying regions in the county.

The Allegan county sheriff's office reported that snowmobile clubs in the county as well as private snowmobile operators have been assisting in getting food and fuel oil supplies to snowbound areas. Deputy Rick Cain said "we get supplies as far as we can by car or four-wheel drive vehicles, then snowmobiles take over to get them the rest of the way."

Cain reported that in some heavily blocked areas, snowmobilers have transported fuel oil in five-gallon cans to people running short of heating oil.

Many area grocery stores reported "a rush on basic food items" such as milk, bread, eggs and meat, with supplies getting low.

Throughout the extended blizzard, once again area residents have gone out of their way to help their fellow man. Numerous incidents of people opening their homes to stranded travelers, snowmobile and four-wheel drive vehicle clubs aiding residents were reported by police.

A Covert woman, Mrs. John (Sherry) Oliver, 19, gave birth to a baby girl at her rural Covert home Sunday morning. A Van Buren county road plow had to cut a trail to the home, so an ambulance could transport the mother and child to Memorial hospital, where both were reported doing fine today.

Fred Neils, engineer-manager of the Allegan county road commission said from Wednesday to today cost of snow removal, extra equipment, overtime pay, and other items, was approaching the $100,000 mark. The normal payroll cost figure for two weeks for the 78-man crew is $45,000.

In other areas throughout the state, the Associated Press reported that a section of U.S. 131 from Grand Rapids to Kalamazoo remained closed early this morning because of drifting snow.

Most other roads in the state were open, but police warned against driving in many areas because blowing snow was creating drifts and causing poor visibility.

The National Weather Service reported that Detroit recorded its first January in history without temperatures ever rising above freezing.

In other weather-related developments: General Motors announced five assembly plant shutdowns starting today. A GM spokesman said the Baltimore, Linden, N.J.; Norwood, Ohio; and Tarrytown, N.Y., assembly plants would be closed idling 17,400 workers. Another 13,000 workers will be idle at the Oshawa, Ont., plant.

—Tankers carrying emergency fuel oil to Escanaba remained ice bound in Little Bay de Noc, while two Canadian tankers bearing oil for Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. were expected to arrive there under escort by two icebreakers early today.

—The car-ferry, Viking, remained trapped in thick ice off Frankfort with four passengers and 32 crewmembers aboard. The Coast Guard buoy-tender Sundew, with a crew of 40, remained trapped in thick ice southwest of Pentwater.

—An annual emergency preparedness test for amateur radio operators was called off in Indiana, southern Michigan and western Ohio when the blizzard put the hams to work on real emergencies. Instead of testing their system, the 100 radio amateurs set up an emergency communications center and manned a dozen four-wheel drive vehicles to aid stranded rural residents who had run out of fuel oil or who had medical emergencies.

—A workshop entitled "Snow Sculpture" was among the classes cancelled Friday at the Flint Institute of Arts.

PEACENIK: Igor G. Mikhailusenko 44, sits at the desk in his Moscow home from which he writes peace letters to famous people and publications around the world. A Soviet peacenik, who lost both legs as a boy in World War II, Mikhailusenko is a bit of a problem to Soviet officials. (AP Wirephoto)

Winter Wraps Area In Blanket Of White

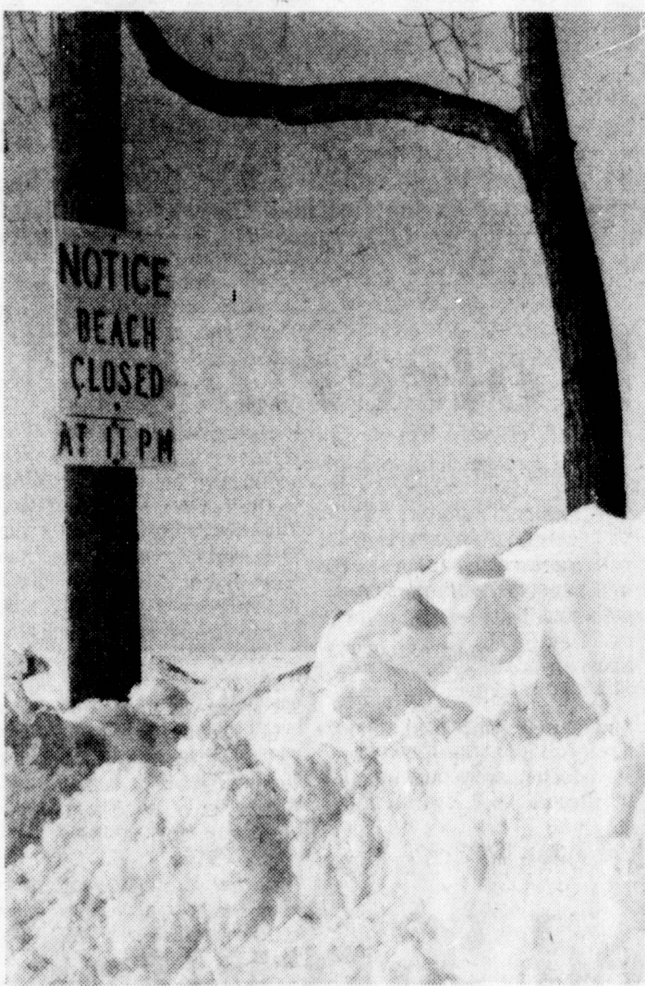

TYPICAL SUBURBAN SCENE: Applewood drive in Royalton township resembled many other suburban streets Sunday as snow plow crews battled to keep open main roads and let residential streets go for time being. Shortly after picture was taken two residents

NBC Adamant About Having TV Right To Olympics

MOSCOW (AP) — Despite assertions by the Soviet Union that no final decision has been reached on United States television rights to the 1980 Summer Olympics, NBC insisted today it would be by it would be televising the Games.

"Technically, of course, the rights cannot be ultimately awarded without approval of the IOC (International Olympic Committee), but tomorrow (Tuesday) we are signing the contracts with the Soviet Organizing Committee and state television," said NBC Vice President of Sports Carl Lindemann Jr.

"We are thrilled to have been chosen by the Moscow committee for telecasting the most exciting of all international sporting events," he said.

Earlier, Allan Staradub, press spokesman for the Soviet Olympic Organizing Committee, said, "No one has yet been awarded the rights." Although Soviet officials were not available to clarify this statement, NBC spokesmen said the Soviets must be referring to the "technicality" of IOC approval.

NBC was so confident of being chosen that it was planning a television satellite report to New York Tuesday during the formal signing ceremony with Soviet officials.

NBC-TV President Robert Howard, who arrived in Moscow

quietly with Lindemann and another executive last Friday, said both parties would be signing two contracts Tuesday, one for the television rights which must be approved by the IOC and one for technical facilities.

Howard refused to discuss the terms of the contract, which some have speculated could reach as high as $100 million, four times as much as ABC paid for the Montreal Games last summer.

Meanwhile, ABC officials were behind closed doors with the Soviets and could not be reached for comment.

Last December, the three United States networks walked out of negotiations with the Soviet Olympic Committee, saying the terms were too high. The Soviets reportedly wanted $50 million for basic technical facilities beyond the actual fee for the rights. The networks said they wanted to get permission from the U.S. Justice Department to pool coverage of the Games.

Last week, CBS dropped out of the competition with a statement that "the future of the venture is marked by so many imponderables ..."

Meanwhile, Satra Corp. still claimed it had a letter of intent from the Soviets, provisionally promising it the rights. Satra has said it represents a syndicate of parties who were capable of providing good coverage of the Games for the American audience.

Athletes In Action Shock No. 5 Rebels UCLA Guns Down Vols

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The UCLA Bruins felt right at home in the Atlanta Omni Sunday. In fact, they enjoyed playing there so much that they plan to return in March.

Eighth-ranked UCLA put on a devastating shooting display in snapping No. 7 Tennessee's 12-game winning streak 103-89 before a national television audience. The next important collegiate basketball games to be played in the Omni are the NCAA semifinals late in March, and the 16-2 Bruins appear to be a solid bet to be involved.

The Bruins were paced by sophomore guard Roy Hamilton's 30 points and forward Marques Johnson's 24, including several spectacular slam dunks.

Tennessee, 14-3, trailed throughout and rallied just once when Ernie Grunfeld's three-point play with just under 17 minutes left narrowed UCLA's lead to 56-52. Bernard King had 31 points for Tennessee and Grunfeld 23 before fouling out with 5:14 remaining.

While top-ranked San Francisco survived a scare by Santa Clara before subduing the Broncos 71-70 Saturday night for the second time last week, several other members of The Associated Press Top 20 were not so lucky. The other four members of the top five all lost, although No. 5 Nevada-Las Vegas' 104-77 defeat by Athletes in Action was only an exhibition game.

No. 2 Michigan was upset by lowly (5-13) Northwestern 99-87. No. 3 Alabama lost a key Southeastern Conference battle at home to No. 6 Kentucky 87-85, and fourth-ranked North Carolina ended an 0-2 week with an Atlantic Coast Conference loss to No. 19 Clemson 93-73.

In other games involving the Top 20, No. 9 Marquette romped over DePaul 85-64; 10th-rated Wake Forest topped Appalachian State 83-73; No. 11 Louisville took Rhode Island 105-87; 12th-ranked Cincinnati beat Duquesne 83-65; Minnesota, No. 13, beat Big Ten Conference rival Ohio State 77-67; 15th-slotted Arkansas defeated Baylor 68-59; No. 16 Arizona stopped Colorado State 77-72; 18th-ranked Purdue edged Illinois 66-63, and No. 20 Memphis State outshot Dayton 81-67.

No. 14 Providence was idle and No. 17 Syracuse's game against La Salle was postponed because of heavy snow. Several other college games also were postponed throughout the storm-plagued East and Midwest.

San Francisco squeezed by Santa Clara on Chubby Cox' basket with two seconds left. The Dons recovered from a 16-point second-half deficit.

Northwestern Coach Tex Winter called the victory over Michigan "the sweetest win I've ever had in basketball."

Billy McKinney led the upset with 29 points.

Irish Run Past Fordham

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Fordham committed 19 turnovers in their opening 20 minutes against Notre Dame Sunday — and the Irish made the most of them, beating the Rams 93-71.

"You can't win a game with 19 turnovers in the first half," Fordham's Coach Dick Stewart after the basketball game that was delayed one day by snow. "I bet Notre Dame's conversion factor on those turnovers was about 100 per cent."

"We lacked poise against their press. It is to Notre Dame's credit, not our discredit, that their press worked. Notre Dame is a great team with great kids."

The Irish, now 10-3, surged to a halftime lead of 44-24 while their zone press was forcing the Fordham errors.

Toby Knight led the Irish scoring with 21 points, followed by freshman guard Rich Branning with 16. Branning added eight assists while Don Williams contributed 13 points and Bruce Flowers and Bill Paterno added 12 and 10 respectively.

Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps took the victory in stride, saying: "In looking across the country, you can see the balance in the college game this year. I believe with some consistency and good health we can play anyone."

John O'Neill, a junior forward, led the Rams in scoring with 21 points.

The Rams dropped to 4-14 for the season.

The game was the fourth time in six tries that Phelps has lead the Irish to victory over the team he formerly coached. Fordham beat Notre Dame the first two times the team met after Phelps took over here.

Needed Rest Not Peaceful For Upset Wolverines

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan's second-ranked Wolverines are going to get their much needed rest but it will not be as peaceful as they had hoped following their stunning 99-87 defeat at the hands of Northwestern for their first Big Ten loss of the season.

"What a brutal schedule," said Wolverine Coach Johnny Orr. "We played seven Big Ten games in 14 days and that was our third game in a row on the road."

"But that had no bearing on the game," said Orr. "Give Northwestern credit. They outplayed us and outshot us. We made a comeback but we couldn't contain them."

Michigan fell behind in the first half and never caught up. The Wolverines trailed 46-39 at the half and then fell behind by 13 points. They cut the margin to 74-72 but Northwestern, led by Billy McKinney who scored 29 points, spurred again and was never threatened in the closing minutes.

"I sensed it was coming and it was the sweetest win I've ever had in basketball in 30 years," said Tex Winter, who previously coached Kansas State to eight Big Eight championships.

"We weren't super high but we were ready to play," added Winter. "People say we're a lousy team. That should prove we are not a lousy team. We just came off of playing three games on the road and we lost by one point at Wisconsin, two at Iowa and three at Illinois. That's not bad going on the road and not being humiliated."

Northwestern's victory tightened the Big Ten race as Purdue and Minnesota both won and gained ground on Michigan which now is 8-1 in the conference followed by Purdue at 7-1 and Minnesota at 6-1.

Three free throws by Walter Jordan in the final minute enabled Purdue to edge Illinois 66-63 and Mike Thompson scored 31 points to lead Minnesota past Ohio State 77-67.

Indiana whipped Iowa 81-65 and Wisconsin defeated Michigan

State 87-83 in a triple overtime.

Everyone in the Big Ten gets a rest until Thursday night when Indiana plays at Michigan, Northwestern at Purdue and Wisconsin at Illinois. Saturday's schedule finds Indiana at Michigan State, Northwestern at Minnesota, Ohio State at Michigan, Purdue at Illinois and Wisconsin at Iowa.

Purdue and Illinois both shot less than 40 per cent from the field but Illini Coach Lou Henry American Kent Benson was limited to 12 because of a back injury.

"Woodson played extremely well on offense and I think Benson's back bothered him quite a bit," said Bobby Knight whose Hoosiers are still in the race with a 5-3 record.

"We were outplayed," said Iowa's Lute Olson. "They played a lot harder than we did. It killed us when (Bruce) King got into foul trouble. We can't play without him."

Ray Williams added 21 points to Thompson's 31 as 13th-ranked Minnesota sped to its 15th victory against one loss as Ohio State had to play without leading scorer Calvin Ransey who was ill and did not dress.

Three free throws by Bill Pearson and a steal and layup basket by Bob Falk in the third overtime enabled Wisconsin to post its second Big Ten victory of the season. Falk, held scoreless in the first half, finished with 20 points to lead both teams.

STOCKTON UPSET WINNER: Dick Stockton of Dallas, Tex., lets out a yell as he watches Jimmy Connor's shot go out, giving him the Pro Indoor Tennis Championship played Sunday in Philadelphia. Stockton won 3-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2 in the tournament's final match. See story on page 20. (AP Wirephoto)

Laver Is Called 'Greatest' Better Than Borg, Connors -- Newcombe

AP Special Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It may sound as if he is whistling "Waltzing Matilda," but big John Newcombe insists that tennis' present dynamic duo — Jimmy Connors and Bjorn Borg — couldn't tie the racquet strings of Rod Laver in his prime.

"I understand the risks of trying to compare eras, but in this case there is not that long a time span," the handsome, mustachioed Australian volunteered during a break in his broadcast of the U.S. Pro Indoor finals at the Spectrum here.

"At his peak Laver had such a variety of shots, such pace and speed, that he could destroy top-rank players. He had fantastic streaks. He could be down and apparently hopelessly beaten and still pull out the match."

"He had something else which I find in neither Connors nor Borg — the ability to fall back on an effective defense when he was in trouble. In my mind, he was the greatest."

unflappable Borg, 20.

Poetic tongues have labeled this the tennis age of "fire and ice."

In crisp, frigid Sweden, says journalist Laurie Pignon of the London Daily Mail, they say of Borg, "is i magen," meaning "he has ice in his stomach." Of Connors, they say "he's got fire in the belly."

The contrast is apt. Connors is a bantam fighting cock, a slashing, swarming incinerator who consumes his adversaries with the ferocity of his attack.

He plays every shot as if the Wimbledon title hangs in the balance. His feet leave the ground when he whales into the ball. He fumes. He frets. He fights with himself, officials and the crowd. He is tennis' angry man.

Borg, on the other hand, has all the fire of a computer. His Scandinavian features never change expression as he hammers his looping, topspin forehand and a two-flisted backhand with the accuracy and deadliness of a howitzer. He is a cold, methodical technician — stoical, patient, unshakable.

Reversing a 7-1 mastery by Connors in their personal rivalry, Borg drew first blood this year by winning the Grand Slam final in Boca Raton, Fla., eight days ago.

"We have a whole year to go," Connors, his eyes steely, snapped afterward.

"I think I know how to beat Jimmy now," Bjorn countered.

Newcombe, 31, winner of three Wimbledon and two U.S. crowns, has put his big serve-and-volley game in moth balls and retired to the role of a Texas millionaire at his tennis ranch near Dallas. He hasn't regretted the break but continues to follow the game's amazing spiral with more than passing interest.

Storm Easing?-- South Gets It

going to appear tonight or tomorrow morning," said spokesman John Conney.

In New York, which like Pennsylvania has been declared eligible for federal disaster relief, at least half a million schoolchildren will be off all this week. Gov. Hugh Carey closed every school heated by natural gas — 1,309 public schools and an unknown number of private schools.

A spokesman for the State Public Service Commission said that temperatures slightly above predictions had eased the supply shortage, but about 200,000 upstate New Yorkers were out of work because of an almost total ban imposed by the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. on the use of natural gas for industry.

The utility said the restrictions might last all week.

In the lower Hudson Valley, Orange & Rockland Utilities ordered grocery stores heated by gas to open today only from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. All gas-heated restaurants must close by 9 p.m.

Activity in Buffalo, N.Y., was still far from normal. National Guardsmen, city workers and private contractors worked all day to clear snow from streets and highways, but one official said Sunday night, "We're about to lose the battle."

All but emergency travel has been banned in the city of 1.4 million; hundreds of cars, abandoned in snowdrifts, hindered the movement of emergency and supply vehicles.

Officials feared that they might find more bodies in cars, in addition to the seven already found in the Buffalo area since a blizzard struck Friday.

Of looters and other vandals, one policeman said: "We can't keep up with them in this weather with all the other problems."

More blowing, drifting snow was predicted for Buffalo today. More than 157 inches of snow has fallen already this winter. In a normal winter 44 inches might be expected by now.

On a lighter note, three reindeer from the Buffalo Zoo took advantage of giant drifts Sunday to spring over their fence for an hour or so. All were sighted within a mile and brought in after being tranquilized.

In New Jersey, energy-saving procedures went into effect today under an emergency decree from Gov. Brendan Byrne. Stores, bars, restaurants, offices and recreation facilities were ordered onto a 40-hour week until further notice — regardless of what fuel is used.

Industrial use of natural gas was cut off last week in New Jersey, and Public Utility Commission president Joel Jacobsen said Sunday that business curtailments might raise the number of idled workers to 750,000.

Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll scheduled a meeting for today to outline the implementation of a four-day week for "nonessential" state employees. But in West Virginia, Gov. Jay Rockefeller said state employees would remain on the job to help solve energy problems.

Indiana officials decided to ask President Carter to make their state eligible for aid. Govs. James Rhodes of Ohio and James Thompson of Illinois asked Carter to call a governors' meeting aimed at redirecting the nation's energy priorities toward heavier use of coal.

Ohio has reported one million workers — 25 per cent of the work force — laid off because of the weather and its consequences.

Snowfalls of four inches were reported in Gainesville and Mineral Wells, Texas, and the snow extended eastward across Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama into parts of southwest Georgia and northwest Florida. Snow fell for three hours this morning in Atlanta.

Freezing rain and sleet were reported over southern Alabama and Mississippi and in northwest Florida. Rain and thundershowers continued along the Texas and Louisiana coasts.

Snowmobiles were about the only things moving in Canada's Niagara Region, police said. They reported snowsqualls and high winds through the night, and the provincial transport ministry advised against road travel anywhere in Ontario Province.

The entire region, which includes Niagara Falls, was in a state of emergency.

At least 47 weather-related deaths were reported since the most recent cold weather hit late last week. Some of the deaths, however, were attributed to malfunctioning home heaters which caused suffocations or house fires, a frequent occurrence during the winter.

The total did not include 16 persons missing and presumed dead in a hotel fire in Breckinridge, Minn. The temperature at the time was 23 below zero.

Four deaths in Georgia were attributed to drownings through thin ice. A man in Fort Wayne, Ind., plunged into a snow bank and suffocated as his wife tried to dig him out.

A deep low pressure center continued to bring bad weather to the Great Lakes region. Winds gusting to 45 miles per hour created heavy snow squalls and blowing snow, especially in upper Michigan and western New York.

At Watertown, N.Y., 12 inches of new snow fell within six hours, to bring the depth on the ground to 55 inches. A temperature of ten degrees was reported, with winds gusting to 40 miles per hour and visibility zero in snow and blowing snow.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., added three inches of new snow with gusty winds also creating considerable blowing snow.

Skies were mostly clear over the remainder of the north central and northeast sections of the nation, with sub-zero temperatures common.

A few areas of rain and drizzle were reported along the north Pacific coast, but otherwise dry weather persisted in the West.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 14 below at Williston, N.D., to 70 at Key West, Fla.

The National Weather Service reported Detroit recorded its first January in history without temperatures ever rising above freezing. Detroit's temperature last was above freezing on Dec. 25, 1976, when the mercury soared to 35 degrees.

Officials said that through Sunday, it was also the coldest January on record, with the mean temperature for January a chilly 12.9 degrees.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

A. Neubauer

Alexander Neubauer, 82, of 205 Pleasant street, St. Joseph, died at 4:30 a.m. Friday at Shoreham Terrace nursing home.

Survivors include his wife, June; a step-son, Adolph Traub, Cassopolis; and three brothers, Lewis Neubauer, Westminster, Calif., Arnold, Benton Harbor, Rudi, Bridgman.

Funeral services were held today at 3 p.m. at Kerley and Starks funeral home. Burial was in Riverview cemetery. He was a veteran of World War I.

Susan L. Ferrell

St. Joseph police were awaiting an autopsy report to determine the cause of death of Susan L. Ferrell, 18, of 1021 Pearl street, whose body was found in her bedroom Sunday afternoon by her landlady.

Patrolman James LoPresti said police were called to the address at 12:48 p.m. by Miss Ferrell's landlady, Ellen Wilcott, who reported finding the body. LoPresti reported Ellen Wilcott said she had last seen Miss Ferrell about 12 hours previously.

LoPresti said three empty pill bottles were found in the bedroom, but no connection had been established between them and the death.

An autopsy was performed Sunday at Memorial hospital, but police had not received a report as of 9 a.m. today, LoPresti said.

Miss Ferrell was a 1976 graduate of St. Joseph high school and was employed as a secretary at Heath Company, St. Joseph.

Surviving are her parents, William E. and Mildred L. Ferrell, 2380 Shoreham drive; a sister, Janet, at home and her grandmothers, Mrs. Joseph C. Ferrell and Mrs. Julia Dowsett, both of St. Joseph.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Lakeshore Chapel, Florin funeral home, where friends may call after 7 p.m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Crystal Springs cemetery.

Memorials may be made to the donor's choice.

Richardson Rites

Funeral services for Rev. Orville Richardson, 58, who died Friday morning at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, will be held Thursday at 1 p.m. at Hopewell Baptist church. Burial will be in Crystal Springs cemetery.

Friends may call beginning Wednesday at Robbins Brothers funeral home.

Sheffield Rites Set

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Sheffield, 70, who died Friday afternoon at Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, will be held Wednesday at 1 p.m. at Pilgrim Rest Baptist church. Burial will be in Crystal Springs cemetery.

Friends may call beginning Tuesday at Robbins Brothers funeral home.

Benjamin Bailey

SOUTH HAVEN — Benjamin Bailey, 97, of 59th Ave., South Haven, died Sunday at her home.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete this forenoon at the Calvin funeral home, South Haven.

Sharon Maris

PAW PAW — The Saturday morning death of 14-year-old Sharon Irene Maris of rural Paw Paw was due to an accidental drug overdose, according to a preliminary ruling by a deputy Van Buren county medical examiner.

Van Buren sheriff's deputies said they were called by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kupiec Maris, 2300 South Nursery road, about 11:40 a.m. The family had discovered the girl's body in her bedroom, deputies said.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Lake View Community hospital where an autopsy was conducted to determine the suspected drug, deputies said.

Sheriff's Lt. Donald Hognire said Dr. David Millard of Paw Paw, in a preliminary ruling, said the cause of death was an accidental overdose of drugs.

She was born March 11, 1962, in Detroit, and was a ninth grade student at Paw Paw school system.

Surviving besides her parents are two sisters, Deborah and Gail, and two brothers, Richard and Kevin, all at home; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Majewski, Detroit.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Mary's Catholic church, Paw Paw. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited at 7:30 this evening in the Thompson funeral home, Paw Paw, where friends may call from 4 until 6 and 7 until 9 today.

Mrs. Willard Ott

SOUTH HAVEN — Mrs. Willard C. (Bud) (Mary Regina Jeanne) Ott, 58, Sunnybrook Farm, South Haven, died Sunday in Cape Coral, Fla., following a short illness. She was born Aug. 29, 1918, in Chicago, Ill.

Surviving besides her husband are two daughters, Mrs. Albert (Diane) Minco, Flint, Mich., Miss Mary C. Ott, Lansing; a son, Dennis, at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hermer, Chicago; a brother, Thomas Hermer, Chicago.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Wednesday in St. Basil's Catholic church, South Haven. Burial will be in Chambers cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Calvin funeral home, South Haven, where friends may call from 6 until 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Surviving are his widow, the former Beatrice Billings; a son, Michael, Wilkes Barre, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. Joyce Marie McCabe, Watervliet, and a sister, Mrs. Ruth Dillon, Aurora, Ill.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Davidson funeral home, Coloma. Burial will be in North Shore Memorial Gardens.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 6 until 7 p.m. Tuesday and on Wednesday from 9 a.m. until hour of service.

Sheriff: Hanging Try Foiled

Berrien county sheriff's deputies Saturday afternoon prevented an inmate from hanging himself with strips of mattress cover, according to Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell.

Jewell said John M. Colford, 18, Buchanan, who was awaiting trial on charges of armed robbery, was pulled down from the bars of the jail's holding cell at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Colford was treated and released from St. Joseph Memorial hospital, St. Joseph with minor neck burns, said Jewell. Jewell said it was not known why Colford attempted to hang himself.

EMPTY SHELVES: As road crews began to open up major roads closed by storm which swept southwestern Michigan, empty shelves began to appear in many grocery stores, such as this one in South Haven. Barenness was combination of residents stocking up over weekend and inability of suppliers to make normal deliveries. Some grocery stores were sending out own trucks to pick up additional dairy supplies. (Tom Renner photo)

Area's Still Digging Out After Snowbound Week

this morning to 10 to 20 m.p.h. out of the southwest.

The Niles waste water treatment plant reported that 8.4 inches of snow had fallen there since Wednesday. Harry Bush, Paw Paw village street superintendent, said an additional inch of snow fell last night giving that area 151 inches for the season.

Herb Teichman, Eau Claire fruit grower and weather observer, said temperatures have remained below freezing at his farm for 37 consecutive days. The average temperature at his farm during January was 12.5 above. "to my knowledge the coldest average on record."

In Allegan county, Harry Johnson, county civil defense director, said blowing snow has drifted some north-south roads to between 20 and 25 feet in some places. "Drifts of 10 to 12 feet are routine," he added.

Johnson said a rotating group of about 12 National Guardsmen from the Wyoming, Mich., armory have been using two five-ton, six-wheel transport trucks to move heavy supplies into snowbound outlying regions in the county.

The Allegan county sheriff's office reported that snowmobile clubs in the county as well as private snowmobile operators have been assisting in getting food and fuel oil supplies to snowbound areas. Deputy Rick Cain said "we get supplies as far as we can by car or four-wheel drive vehicles, then snowmobiles take over to get them the rest of the way."

Cain reported that in some heavily blocked areas, snowmobiles have transported fuel oil in five-gallon cans to people running short of heating oil. Many area grocery stores reported "a rush on basic food items" such as milk, bread, eggs and meat, with supplies getting low.

Throughout the extended blizzard, once again area residents have gone out of their way to help their fellow man. Numerous incidents of people opening their homes to stranded travelers, snowmobile and four-wheel drive vehicle clubs aiding residents are reported by police.

A Covert woman, Mrs. John (Sherry) Oliver, 19, gave birth

to a baby girl at her rural Covert home Sunday morning. A Van Buren county road plow had to cut a trail to the home, so an ambulance could transport the mother and child to Memorial hospital, where both were reported doing fine today.

Fred Neils, engineer-manager of the Allegan county road commission said from Wednesday to today cost of snow removal, extra equipment, overtime pay, and other items, was approaching the $100,000 mark. The normal payroll cost figure for two-weeks for the 78-man crew is $45,000.

In other areas throughout the state, the Associated Press reported that a section of U.S. 131 from Grand Rapids to Kalamazoo remained closed early this morning because of drifting snow.

Most other roads in the state were open, but police warned against driving in many areas because blowing snow was creating drifts and causing poor visibility.

The National Weather Service reported that Detroit recorded its first January in history without temperatures ever rising above freezing.

In other weather-related developments:

General Motors announced five assembly plant shutdowns starting today. A GM spokesman said the shutdowns: Linden, N.J.; Norwood, Ohio; and Tarrytown, N.Y., assembly plants would be closed idling 17,400 workers. Another 13,000 workers will be idle at the Oshawa, Ont., plant.

Tankers carrying emergency fuel oil to Escanaba remained ice bound in Little Bay de Noc, while two Canadian tankers bearing oil for Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. were expected to arrive there under escort by two icebreakers early today.

The car-ferry, Viking, remained trapped in thick ice off Frankfort with four passengers and 32 crewmembers aboard. The Coast Guard buoy-tender Sundew, with a crew of 40, remained trapped in thick ice southwest of Pentwater.

An annual emergency preparedness test for amateur radio operators was called off in Indiana, southern Michigan and western Ohio when the blizzard put the hams to work on real emergencies. Instead of testing their system, the 100 radio amateurs set up an emergency communications center and manned a dozen four-wheel drive vehicles to aid stranded rural residents who had run out of fuel oil or who had medical emergencies.

A workshop entitled "Snow Sculpture" was among the classes cancelled Friday at the Flint Institute of Arts.

PEACENIK: Igor G. Mikhailusenko, 44, sits at the desk in his Moscow home from which he writes peace letters to famous people and publications around the world. A Soviet peacenik, who lost both legs as a boy in World War II, Mikhailusenko is a bit of a problem to Soviet officials. (AP Wirephoto)

New Star Watson Wins Again

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "Well," sighed veteran Tour official Dom Mirandi, "it looks like we've got another Nicklaus on our hands."

It may be a little early to start placing Tom Watson in that category, but there's no question that he's the outstanding player of the new pro golf season and almost certainly the brightest of the young stars who are replacing the more established names and claiming the rich tour for their own.

He's finished fourth-first-first in his last three starts, has played those three events 42 strokes below par and has set scoring records in both his victories — in the Bing Crosby a week ago and in Sunday's San Diego Open.

While his heroics have drawn the inevitable comparisons with Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller and others — Watson, intelligent, friendly, a growing favorite with the galleries and a golfing Tom Sawyer — redhaired and freckle-faced — isn't yet ready to rank himself with the game's greats.

"I have to win many more titles before I can be considered," he said after a solid three-under-par 69 had staked him to a five-stroke victory in the San Diego Open. He played the Torrey Pines Golf Club in 269 for the week, 19 under par.

He opened the bright, sunny day with a two-stroke lead, built it to four at the turn, engineered a two-stroke swing on the 10th hole and cruised in from there. Watson really didn't have a lot of pressure after moving into sole possession of the top spot in the third round. The last round was a front-running laughter that produced a $36,000 check, pushed him into the year's leading money-winning position with $86,700, made him only the third man to win his way into the World Series of Golf and enabled him to break the tournament scoring record for the second consecutive week.

John Schroeder, with a closing 67, and Larry Nelson, 69, tied for second five shots back at 274. Neither ever really threatened.

Australian rookie Bob Shearer, the only man who had a shot at Watson, slipped to a 73 and tied for fourth with Jerry McGee at 275. McGee had a last-round 68.

Tom Watson, $36,000
Lorry Nelson, $16,650
John Schroeder, $16,650
Jerry McGee, $8,400
Bob Shearer, $8,400
Jay Haas, $6,400
Lon Hinkle, $5,535
Andy Beon, $5,535
Lorry Ziegler, $3,990
Miller Barber, $3,990
George Archer, $3,990
George Burns, $3,990
Bob Murphy, $3,990
Rod Funnell, $3,990

Stockton Nonchalant About Connors Upset

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Stockton acted like he could not understand what all the excitement was about, why everyone was treating him as if he had just found a new supply of natural gas.

The 25-year-old Stockton shocked a crowd of 14,571 with a 3-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2 triumph Sunday over Jimmy Connors, the world's top-ranked tennis player.

But Stockton treated it nonchalantly, even though he had not beaten Connors since they were juniors in 1969. And then, according to Connors, Jimmy was just 5-foot-4 and 98 pounds.

"The upset should not have been that surprising. It completed the elimination of the top 10 seeded players, who fell like bowling pins all week.

Connors had not lost more than three games in any set in advancing to the final with victories over Buster Mottram, Wojtek Fibak, Tony Roche and Cliff Drysdale.

He had enveloped himself in an aura of invincibility.

"People seem to have the opinion that it's Connors and then everybody else," said Stockton after picking up his $40,000 check as winner of the $200,000 U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championships.

"Sure, he's No. 1 in the world," said Stockton. "But there are a lot of players capable of beating him. Americans like myself who grew up with him are not awed by him and can beat him. Foreigners think there is no way to beat him."

It was Connors' first defeat in five World Championship Tennis tournaments over two years. He tried to take it in stride but disappointment was etched on his face.

"I'll play him many more times," said Connors. "I can't take one defeat too hard. Maybe I have to do a little bit of relaxing, get a little more mentally tough."

Stockton, who was born in New York and now lives in Carrolltown, Tex., felt the key game in the match came with him leading 3-1 in the fourth set, and trailing 40-0 on his own service. He rallied to win the game.

"If he (Connors) had won that game he could have run over me," Stockton said. Connors agreed.

Stockton earned $138,766 last year and ranked 10th best in the United States. He attended Trinity University and was an NCAA champion after winning the National Junior title over Connors. He has suffered from a back ailment during his pro career, which he says was aided by acupuncture treatment.

Stockton, who was eliminated in a four-set semifinal by Connors in this tournament last year, reached the final this time with victories over John Alexander, Brian Gottfried, Ken Rosewall and Jeff Borowiak.

It was the second straight loss in a final for Connors, who fell to Bjorn Borg in the Grand Slam event at Las Vegas last weekend. He earned $50,000 in Las Vegas and $20,000 for his second-place finish to Stockton.

In doubles, the first-seeded Australian pair of Bob Hewitt and Frew McMillan won the $14,000 first prize, defeating the fourth-seeded team of Poland's Fibak and Tom Okker of The Netherlands 6-1, 1-6, 6-3. Okker and Fibak won $7,000.

K-Wings Topple Toledo

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Paul weather continued to play havoc with the International Hockey League schedule Sunday night, forcing cancellation of the Saginaw-Dayton match — the seventh IHL game called off since Friday night.

Led by two goals apiece from veteran center Al Genov and rookie right wing Kevin Schamehorn, Kalamazoo staged a 7-4 blitz over Toledo, giving the Wings a one-point hold on first place in the league's North Division.

And Fort Wayne's 6-4 victory over Columbus left the four

South division teams tied with 47 points apiece. In other IHL action, Flint came from behind to a 5-3 victory over Port Huron.

Television audiences in Kalamazoo and Toledo watched IHL scoring leader Dave Johnson of Toledo pick up his 41st and 42nd goals of the season, including the game opener at 3:52 of the first period.

The Wings surged ahead 4-1 by the beginning of the second period, when a pair of goals from Goaldiggers center Jim Johnston made it 4-3.

In the final period Kalamazoo erupted with a three-goal burst before Johnson finished Toledo's scoring effort. The Wings outshot Toledo 40-27.

Fort Wayne rightwing Ron Zanussi scored a breakaway goal with 7:10 left in the game to break a 4-4 tie, then added an empty net goal with less than a minute remaining to give the Komets their win over Columbus.

Ted Bulley scored two goals for Flint in the second period, but Port Huron surged back to take a 3-2 lead on goals by Murray Hanson, Doug Gillespie and Mike McDougall.

Skating Marks Fall

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The temperature finally rose above the zero mark and nine records fell at the National Speedskating Championships.

No records were set when subzero temperatures and bitterly harsh winds from the northwest sent the wind chill to nearly 40 degrees below zero Saturday, but the mercury actually reached seven above Sunday, apparently satisfying the skaters.

Mike Jansen, a 13-year-old from West Allis, Wis., swept all four races in the juvenile boys' division to win the overall title and he set a class record of 38.49 seconds in the 400 meters.

Two other entries from West Allis also won overall titles in their divisions.

Dorothea Boyce won three events, one in record time, in the juvenile girls and John Gulczynski posted victories in the 200 and 300 meter races in the midjet boys'.

Miss Boyce won the 300, 400 and 800 meter races and turned in a record time of one minute, 26.73 seconds in the 800 meters.

Three more overall champions also won four races in divisions where there were more events.

Jim Chapin of St. Louis captured the senior mens' overall title, Liz Crowe of Sunset Hills, Mo., the senior womens', and Craig Kessler of Midland, Mich., took the junior boys'.

Kressler also established a record of 28.39 seconds in the 300 meters.

Other overall champions included Karen Lunda of Madison, Wis., in the intermediate womens' division and Janice Schwartz of Rock Island, Ill., in the midjet girls' class. Both won three events.

Black Hawks Rout Barons Capitals Gain Respect

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was not long ago that the Washington Capitals were laughed at by the rest of the National Hockey League, following in the footsteps of their expansion predecessors.

Washington Coach Tommy McVie appears to have ended those days, molding his club into a determined group of athletes who still might lose more than they win, but not for lack of effort.

After beating the Pittsburgh Penguins 5-2 Saturday night, the Caps completed a successful weekend Sunday by gaining a 5-3 tie with the Philadelphia Flyers.

"We've made a lot of progress, and one day we hope to be as good as the Flyers," said McVie. "The fact that Philadelphia came from behind doesn't mean we're capable of knocking them off all the time."

That doesn't mean those days are far off. After the Flyers had come back four times for the tie, Coach Fred Shero expressed appreciation for the job McVie has done.

"He's put character into them," said Shero. "I didn't think it was possible, but Tommy's done it. Talent is no good unless you know how to work it."

Hard work had produced four victories in five games for the Caps before the Philadelphia game; a team that won a total of 19 games in its first two years in the NHL already has won 16 this season.

Rick MacLeish scored a power play goal with just 3:36

remaining, salvaging the tie for Philadelphia before a capacity crowd of 18,130 at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md.

In the other NHL games Sunday, the Montreal Canadiens edged the New York Islanders 2-1, the New York Rangers beat the St. Louis Blues 5-2, the Chicago Black Hawks routed the Cleveland Barons 9-3, the Penguins downed the Boston Bruins 5-2, and the Colorado Rockies bested the Minnesota North Stars 4-2.

The Los Angeles Kings' scheduled game against the Sabres was postponed due to blizzard conditions in the Buffalo area.

Yvan Cournoyer's goal midway through the second period lifted Montreal to its third straight victory over the Islanders this season and handed New York its third consecutive loss.

Center Phil Esposito scored a goal and set up two others for the Rangers, who extended their home domination of St. Louis. The Blues have not won at Madison Square Garden since Nov. 13, 1968.

Centers Stan Mikita, Ivan Boldirev and Jim Harrison scored two goals apiece, pacing Chicago's rout of Cleveland.

Rick Kehoe scored two goals and set up another, leading Pittsburgh past Boston.

Denis Dupere tipped in a Colin Campbell shot with 1:44 remaining for the winning goal in Colorado's triumph over Minnesota. The victory broke a three-way tie for third place in the Smythe Division, sending the Rockies two points ahead of the North Stars and Vancouver Canucks.

Wisconsin Icers Making Shambles Of WCHA Race

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

A lot of people may have thought University of Minnesota Coach Herb Brooks was crying wolf when he said three months ago that Wisconsin should run away with the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

The Badgers are making good on the prediction by Brooks, who is crying for help, if anything, these days.

While Wisconsin continues to terrorize the WCHA, Minnesota's defending national champions are scrambling to make the playoffs.

Michigan Tech completed its sweep of Minnesota with a 7-5 victory Sunday and moved past the erratic Gophers into sixth place. Dave Joelson, who also scored two goals in Tech's 6-3 victory Saturday night, added two more Sunday along with teammate Greg Hay.

Steve Alley scored three goals as Wisconsin crushed Michigan State 9-2 Saturday night. The Badgers hiked their record to 18-4 in the WCHA and 21-6 overall.

In other games Saturday, Notre Dame and North Dakota completed weekend sweeps to remain in second and third place respectively.

The Fighting Irish notched an 8-6 victory at Colorado College while North Dakota took an 8-2 verdict over Michigan.

Terry Fairholm and Paul Clarke each scored their second goal of the game in the final period as Notre Dame snapped a 6-6 tie.

Clinic Reset

The Michigan High School Football Coaches' Association clinic scheduled for last weekend was postponed to Feb. 18-19 at Ann Arbor Pioneer high school. University of Michigan coach Bo Schembechler will be the featured speaker.

Winter Wraps Area In Blanket Of White

TYPICAL SUBURBAN SCENE: Applewood drive in Royalton township resembled many other suburban streets Sunday as snow plow crews battled to keep

open main roads and let residential streets go for time being. Shortly after picture was taken two residents cleared a traffic lane with snow blowers. (Staff photo by Jerry Dykstra)

Detroit Super-Insulates Home

DETROIT (AP) — Fred Morris says he's found a way to beat the cold, the high price of heating fuel and the energy shortage.

Morris, a Detroit city building inspector, has covered the windows and doors of his home with fiberglass panels, foam plastic and fiberglass insulation to keep the heat inside and the cold out.

"The best way to keep your home warm is not to add more heat, but to keep the heat your furnace has already produced from escaping," he says.

After insulating his attic, walls and even the cinder block foundation in his basement, the windows and doors were still leaking cold air. He decided to insulate those "energy intensive" areas where the heat loss is the greatest.

"Most people don't even have weather-stripping around their doors or caulking around their windows, so you can imagine what kind of heat loss they have," Morris says.

"Weather-stripping and caulking help, but my idea goes even further. It keeps everything from escaping through the window itself."

For rarely used doors, Morris stacks fiberglass ceiling insulation between the storm door and the house door. The insulation is not attached to the door, which can easily be opened from the inside.

Morris says his insulation has trimmed his natural gas bill by $40 a month. He estimates it is costing him about $2.40 a day to heat his 1929 two-story brick and frame home, which measures about 2,500 square feet of floor space.

There are a few drawbacks to the thermal shades, Morris says.

The state building code requires one-tenth of the floor space in a house to be windows for proper ventilation and light. So any large window covering must be removable to avoid code violations.

The shades, which make the house look as if it has been closed up, don't allow enough light inside. But Morris contends most people keep their shades and curtains drawn nearly all the time anyway. And, he says, the thermal shades can be removed as easily as opening curtains or regular shades.

"At the rate we use energy, I think it's an awful shame to waste it by letting it just blow out the window," he says.

SHUTTING OUT THE COLD: Fred Morris fits sections of fiberglass ceiling insulation between storm door and a standard door in his home in northwest Detroit to cut heat loss. Panels are not permanent, and one may exit by opening doors and pushing out the light weight panels. Morris says this is an effective stopgap method to save on fuel bills. (AP Wirephoto)

BIG WINNER: Barbra Streisand hugs producer Jon Peters after she won three Golden Globes at 34th Annual Golden Globes Awards in Los Angeles Saturday night. (AP Wirephoto)

Barbra's Big Star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barbra Streisand, in a possible preview of the Academy Awards Oscar show, is the winner of three of the Hollywood Foreign Press Association's annual Golden Globe awards for "A Star is Born."

And tears were shed when the award for best actor in a dramatic role was presented posthumously Saturday night to Peter Finch for his portrayal of a mad newscaster in "Network." He died two weeks ago.

Miss Streisand's "Star" honors included one as co-producer, along with her boyfriend Jon Peters. The movie was named best comedy or musical film. Along with lyricist Paul Williams, Miss Streisand collected an award for the best song, and she was named best actress in a comedy or musical for her starring role. Her costar, Kris Kristofferson, was named best actor in the same category.

But the film lost the best dramatic picture prize to the low-budget "Rocky," made by newcomer Sylvester Stallone.

Faye Dunaway was named best actress in a drama for her role as a power-hungry rising executive in "Network." The movie also won awards for best screenplay by Paddy Chayefsky and best direction by Sidney Lumet.

NBC Adamant About Having TV Right To Olympics

MOSCOW (AP) — Despite assertions by the Soviet Union that no final decision has been reached on United States television rights to the 1980 Summer Olympics, NBC insisted today it would be by it would be televising the Games.

"Technically, of course, the rights cannot be ultimately awarded without approval of the IOC (International Olympic Committee), but tomorrow (Tuesday) we are signing the contracts with the Soviet Organizing Committee and state television," said NBC Vice President of Sports Carl Lindemann Jr.

"We are thrilled to have been chosen by the Moscow committee for telecasting the most exciting of all international sporting events," he said.

Earlier, Allan Staradub, press spokesman for the Soviet Olympic Organizing Committee, said, "No one has yet been awarded the rights." Although Soviet officials were not available to clarify this statement, NBC spokesmen said the Soviets must be referring to the "technicality" of IOC approval.

NBC was so confident of being chosen that it was planning a television satellite report to New York Tuesday during the formal signing ceremony with Soviet officials.

NBC-TV President Robert Howard, who arrived in Moscow

quietly with Lindemann and another executive last Friday, said both parties would be signing two contracts Tuesday, one for the television rights which must be approved by the IOC and one for technical facilities.

Howard refused to discuss the terms of the contract, which some have speculated could reach as high as $100 million, four times as much as ABC paid for the Montreal Games last summer.

Meanwhile, ABC officials were behind closed doors with the Soviets and could not be reached for comment.

Last December, the three United States networks walked out of negotiations with the Soviet Olympic Committee, saying the terms were too high. The Soviets reportedly wanted $50 million for basic technical facilities beyond the actual fee for the rights. The networks said they wanted to get permission from the U.S. Justice Department to pool coverage of the Games.

Last week, CBS dropped out of the competition with a statement that "the future of the venture is marked by so many uncertainties."

Meanwhile, Satra Corp. still claimed it had a letter of intent from the Soviets, provisionally promising it the rights. Satra has said it represents a syndicate of parties who were capable of providing good coverage of the Games for the American audience.

Athletes In Action Shock No. 5 Rebels

UCLA Guns Down Vols

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The UCLA Bruins felt right at home in the Atlanta Omni Sunday. In fact, they enjoyed playing there so much that they plan to return in March.

Eighth-ranked UCLA put on a devastating shooting display in snapping No. 7 Tennessee's 12-game winning streak 103-89 before a national television audience. The next important collegiate basketball games to be played in the Omni are the NCAA semifinals late in March, and the 16-2 Bruins appear to be a solid bet to be involved.

The Bruins were paced by sophomore guard Roy Hamilton's 30 points and forward Marques Johnson's 24, including several spectacular slam dunks.

Tennessee, 14-3, trailed throughout and rallied just once when Ernie Grunfeld's three-point play with just under 17 minutes left narrowed UCLA's lead to 56-52. Bernard King had 31 points for Tennessee and Grunfeld 23 before fouling out with 5:14 remaining.

While top-ranked San Francisco survived a scare by Santa Clara before subduing the Broncos 71-50 Saturday night for the second time last week, several other members of The Associated Press Top 20 were not so lucky. The other four members of the top five all lost, although No. 3 Nevada-Las Vegas 104-77 defeat by Athletes in Action was only an exhibition game.

No. 2 Michigan was upset by lowly (5-13) Northwestern 99-87. No. 3 Alabama lost a key Southeastern Conference battle at home to No. 6 Kentucky 87-85, and fourth-ranked North Carolina ended an 0-2 week with an Atlantic Coast Conference loss to No. 19 Clemson 93-73.

In other games involving the Top 20, No. 9 Marquette romped over DePaul 85-44; 10th-rated Wake Forest topped Appalachian State 83-73; No. 11 Louisville took Rhode Island 105-67; 12th-ranked Cincinnati beat Duquesne 83-65; Minnesota, No. 13, beat Big Ten Conference rival Ohio State 77-67; 15th-ranked Arkansas defeated Baylor 68-59; No. 16 Arizona stopped Colorado State 77-72; 18th-ranked Purdue edged Illinois 86-63, and No. 20 Memphis State outshot Dayton 81-67.

No. 14 Providence was idle and No. 17 Syracuse's game against La Salle was postponed because of heavy snow. Several other college games also were postponed throughout the storm-plagued East and Midwest.

San Francisco squeezed by Santa Clara on Chubby Cox' basket with two seconds left. The Dons recovered from a 16-point second-half deficit.

Northwestern Coach Tex Winter called the victory over Michigan "the sweetest win I've ever had in basketball."

Billy McKinney led the upset with 29 points.

Kentucky edged Alabama as Jack Givens hit two foul shots for an 87-83 lead and the Wildcats withstood Keith McCord's basket in the closing seconds for the Crimson Tide.

North Carolina was embarrassed by Clemson as Wayne "Tree" Rollins scored 15 points, grabbed 19 rebounds and blocked eight shots.

Athletes in Action's victory over Nevada-Las Vegas was AIA's second triumph over a highly ranked NCAA team this year. Earlier, AIA beat top-rated San Francisco.

Marquette scored 53 points in the second half in pulling away from DePaul, and Wake Forest scored 33 points in its triumph, while Minnesota kept pace in the Big Ten with its victory over Ohio State behind Mike Thompson's 31 points.

Arkansas remained unbeaten in the Southwest Conference and raised its over-all record to 16-1 as Marvin Delph and Sidney Moncrief scored 22 points apiece.

Phil Harris' 30 points and 13 rebounds paced Arizona over Colorado State. Purdue nipped Illinois primarily because of Walter Jordan's 17 points, and John Washington led Memphis State over Dayton with 29 points and 11 rebounds.

Other major games included George Washington's shocking 86-76 victory over Maryland, Notre Dame's 93-71 triumph over Fordham, and Holy Cross' 78-59 victory over Seton Hall that gave the Crusaders their second Madison Square Garden Classic title in three years.

Irish Run Past Fordham

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Fordham committed 18 turnovers in their opening 20 minutes against Notre Dame Sunday — and the Irish made the most of them, beating the Rams 93-71.

"You can't win a game with 19 turnovers in the first half," Fordham's Coach Dick Stewart after the basketball game that was delayed one day by snow. "I bet Notre Dame's conversion factor on those turnovers was about 100 per cent."

"We lacked poise against their press. It is to Notre Dame's credit, not our discredit, that their press worked. Notre Dame is a great team with great kids."

The Irish, now 10-5, surged to a halftime lead of 44-24 while their zone press was forcing the Fordham errors.

Tubby Knight led the Irish scoring with 21 points, followed by freshman guard Rich Branning with 16. Branning added eight assists while Don Williams contributed 13 points and Bruce Flowers and Bill Paterno added 12 and 10 respectively.

Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps took the victory in stride, saying, "In looking across the country, you can see the balance in the college game this year. I believe with some consistency and good health we can play anyone."

John O'Neill, a junior forward, led the Rams in scoring with 21 points.

The Rams dropped to 4-14 for the season.

The game was the fourth time in six tries that Phelps has led the Irish to victory over the team he formerly coached. Fordham beat Notre Dame the first two times the team met after Phelps took over here.

Needed Rest Not Peaceful For Upset Wolverines

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan's second-ranked Wolverines are going to get their much needed rest but it will not be as peaceful as they had hoped following their stunning 99-87 defeat at the hands of Northwestern for their first Big Ten loss of the season.

"What a brutal schedule," said Wolverine Coach John Orr. "We played seven Big Ten games in 14 days and that was our third game in a row on the road."

"But that had no bearing on the game," said Orr. "Give Northwestern credit. They outplayed us and outshot us. We made a comeback but we couldn't contain them."

Michigan fell behind in the first half and never caught up. The Wolverines trailed 46-39 at the half and then fell behind by 13 points. They cut the margin to 74-72 but Northwestern, led by Billy McKinney who scored 29 points, spurred again and was never threatened in the closing minutes.

"I sensed it was coming and it was the sweetest win I've ever had in basketball in 30 years," said Tex Winter, who previously coached Kansas State to eight Big Eight championships.

"We weren't super high but we were ready to play," added Winter. "People say we're a lousy team. That should prove we are not a lousy team. We just came off of playing three games on the road and we lost by one point at Wisconsin, two at Iowa and three at Illinois. That's not bad going on the road and not being humiliated."

Northwestern's victory tightened the Big Ten race as Purdue and Minnesota both won and gained ground on Michigan which now is 8-1 in the conference followed by Purdue at 7-1 and Minnesota at 6-1.

Three free throws by Walter Jordan in the final minute enabled Purdue to edge Illinois 66-63 and Mike Thompson scored 31 points to lead Minnesota past Ohio State 77-67.

Indiana whipped Iowa 81-65 and Wisconsin defeated Michigan

State 87-83 in a triple overtime.

Everyone in the Big Ten gets a rest until Thursday night when Indiana plays at Michigan, Northwestern at Purdue and Wisconsin at Illinois. Saturday's schedule finds Indiana at Michigan State, Northwestern at Minnesota, Ohio State at Michigan, Purdue at Illinois and Wisconsin at Iowa.

Purdue and Illinois both shot less than 40 per cent from the field but Illini Coach Lou Henson said "The shooting percentages don't mean it wasn't a good ball game. The defense had a lot to do with it and both teams played good, mechanical basketball."

Fred Schaus of Purdue blamed himself for the narrow victory and said "It was my mistake to slow the game down so early, and I told the players that after the game. We got too cautious and they were aggressive."

Mike Woodson scored 27 points for Indiana while Al-

American Kent Benson was limited to 12 because of a back injury.

"Woodson played extremely well on offense and I think Benson's back bothered him quite a bit," said Bobby Knight whose Hoosiers are still in the race with a 5-3 record.

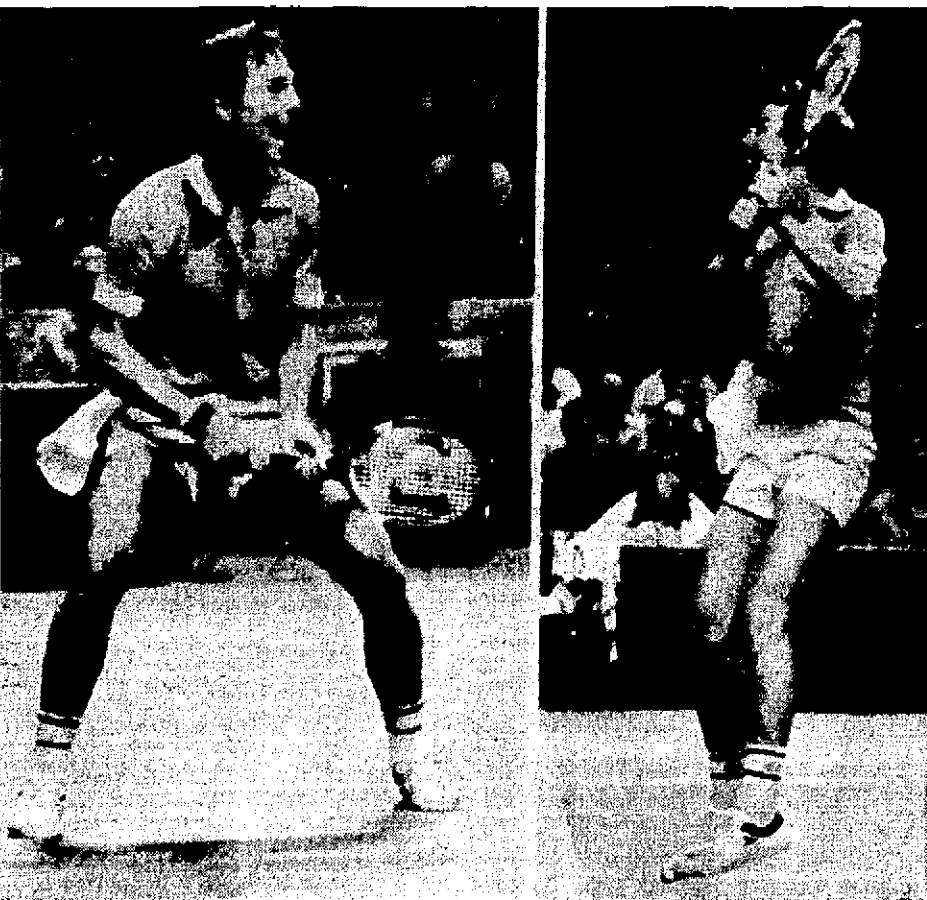

"We were outplayed," said Iowa's Lute Olson. "They played a lot harder than we did. It killed us when (Bruce) King got into foul trouble. We can't play without him."

Ray Williams added 21 points to Thompson's 31 as 13th-ranked Minnesota sped to its 15th victory against one loss as Ohio State had to play without leading scorer Calvin Ramsey who was ill and did not dress.

Three free throws by Bill Pearson and a steal and layup basket by Bob Falk in the third overtime enabled Wisconsin to post its second Big Ten victory of the season. Falk, held scoreless in the first half, finished with 20 points to lead both teams.

STOCKTON UPSET WINNER: Dick Stockton of Dallas, Tex., lets out a yell as he watches Jimmy Connor's shot go out, giving him the Pro Indoor

Tennis Championship played Sunday in Philadelphia. Stockton won 3-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2 in the tournament's final match. See story on page 20. (AP Wirephoto)

Laver Is Called 'Greatest' Better Than Borg, Connors -- Newcombe

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It may sound as if he is whistling "Waltzing Matilda," but big John Newcombe insists that tennis' present dynamic duo — Jimmy Connors and Bjorn Borg — couldn't tie the racquet strings of Rod Laver in his prime.

"I understand the risks of trying to compare eras, but in this case there is not that long a time span," the handsome, mustachioed Australian volunteered during a break in his broadcast of the U.S. Pro Indoor finals at the Spectrum here.

"At his peak Laver had such a variety of shots, such pace and speed, that he could destroy top-rank players. He had fantastic streaks. He could be down and apparently hopelessly beaten and still pull out the match. He had something else which I find in neither Connors nor Borg — the ability to fall back on an effective defense when he was in trouble. In my mind, he was the greatest."

unflappable Borg, 20. Poetic tongues have labeled this the tennis age of "fire and ice."

In crisp, frigid Sweden, says Journalist Laurie Pignon of the London Daily Mail, they say of Borg, "is i magen," meaning "he has ice in his stomach." Of Connors, they say "he's got fire in the belly."

The contrast is apt. Connors is a bantam fighting cock, a slashing, swarming incinerator who consumes his adversaries with the ferocity of his attack.

He plays every shot as if the Wimbledon title hangs in the balance. His feet leave the ground when he whales into the ball. He fumes. He frets. He fights with himself, officials and the crowd. He is tennis' angry man.

Borg, on the other hand, has all the fire of a computer. His Scandinavian features never change expression as he hammers his looping, topspin forehand and a two-fisted backhand with the accuracy and deadliness of a howitzer. He is a cold, methodical technician — stoical, patient, unshakable.

Reversing a 7-1 mastery by Connors in their personal rivalry, Borg drew first blood

this year by winning the Grand Slam final in Boca Raton, Fla., eight days ago.

"We have a whole year to go," Connors, his eyes steely, snapped afterward.

"I think I know how to beat Jimmy now," Bjorn countered.

Newcombe, 31, winner of three Wimbledon and two U.S. crowns, has put his big serve-and-volley game in moth balls and retired to the role of a Texas millionaire at his tennis ranch near Dallas. He hasn't regretted the break but continues to follow the game's amazing spiral with more than passing interest.

Snowmobile Racer Dies In Traverse City 250

TRaverse CITY, Mich. (AP) — Veteran racer Jack Flynn, 42, of Petoskey, was killed Sunday when his machine, stalled on a curve, was struck by another snowmobile on the 7th lap of the TC 250 snowmobile race.

Flynn was dead on arrival at a Traverse City hospital. A hospital spokesman said death was caused by massive internal injuries.

The race, called after the 183d lap because of blowing snow and poor visibility, was won by Buddy Weber of Sault Ste. Marie.

The 28-year-old Weber, visibly shaken by Flynn's death, at first said he would retire from racing after the victory.

"I have a family," an emotional Weber said in the winner's circle. "This is my last race."

However, Weber later changed his mind and said he would compete in the 1977 Feb. 12 in his hometown. He won that event, the final leg of endurance snowmobile racing's Triple Crown, in 1975.

"I'm going to make it my last year," Weber said later. "We'll let the younger guys take over."

Flynn, married and the father of two children, was the owner of Flynn's Trenching Service in Petoskey.

The driver of the snowmobile that piled into Flynn's machine on the third turn of the track, Tommy Ryan, was treated for a dislocated shoulder. Ryan told race officials his vision was impaired by snow seeping into his already-fogged goggles.

Seven other snowmobiles piled up behind the crash.

Area Tilts Wiped Out

This past weekend will be one high school athletic directors will surely want to forget.

The entire two-day, 24-game slate of southwestern Michigan basketball games was postponed due to the blowing and drifting snow in the area. Now the athletic directors will have to go about juggling schedules for the last month of the regular season to try and get all 20 games in before the state tournament starts on Feb. 28.

Among the regularly scheduled Saturday contests in the area that were postponed were South Bend Washington at Benton Harbor, South Bend Clay at Brandywine, White Pigeon at Cassopolis and Bridgman at Michigan Lutheran.

The Friday night games which were switched to Saturday and postponed again were Eau Claire at Watervliet, Coloma at Buchanan, Galien at Hartford, Lawton at Decatur, Portage Newton at Niles and Vicksburg at Paw Paw.

A pair of Sunday games — Edwardsburg at Cassopolis and Lakeshore at Dowagiac — were also postponed.

Some high schools may have to start cancelling non-league games to get their league contests played, some athletic directors and coaches indicated.

Dan Hayes, winner of the Thunder Bay 250 two weeks ago in Alpena, finished second Sunday.

The race had been rescheduled after blowing snow caused its postponement on Saturday.

Another pile-up occurred on the last lap of the race, but there

Here are the top 10 finishers in the TC 250 snowmobile race:
1. Buddy Weber, Sault Ste. Marie, Yamaha, 30:00.
2. Dan Hayes, Rose City, Arctic Cat, 31:00.
3. Rob Diamond, Lawer, Yamaha, 31:30.
4. Jerry Wagon, Petoskey, Yamaha, 32:00.

New Star Watson Wins Again

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "Well," sighed veteran Tour official Don Mirandi, "it looks like we've got another Nicklaus on our hands."

It may be a little early to start placing Tom Watson in that category, but there's no question that he's the outstanding player of the new pro golf season and almost certainly the brightest of the young stars who are replacing the more established names and claiming the rich tour for their own.

He's finished fourth-first-first in his last three starts, has played those three events 42 strokes below par and has set scoring records in both his victories — in the Bing Crosby a week ago and in Sunday's San Diego Open.

While his heroics have drawn the inevitable comparisons with Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller and others — Watson, intelligent, friendly, a growing favorite with the galleries and a golfing Tom Sawyer — rebuffed and freckle-faced — isn't yet ready to rank himself with the game's greats.

"I have to win many more titles before I can be considered," he said after a solid three-under-par 69 had staked him to a five-stroke victory in the San Diego Open. He played the Torrey Pines Golf Club in 203 for the week, 19 under par.

He opened the bright, sunny day with a two-stroke lead, built it to four at the turn, engineered a two-stroke swing on the 10th hole and cruised in from there.

Watson really didn't have a lot of pressure after moving into sole possession of the top spot in the third round. The last round was a front-running laughter that produced a $36,000 check, pushed him into the year's leading money-winning position with $86,700, made him only the third man to win his way into the World Series of Golf and enabled him to break the tournament scoring record for the second consecutive week.

John Schroeder, with a closing 67, and Larry Nelson, 69, tied for second five shots back at 274. Neither ever really threatened.

Australian rookie Bob Shearer, the only man who had a shot at Watson, slipped to a 73 and tied for fourth with Jerry McGee at 275. McGee had a last-round 68.

WATSON WINS: Tom Watson lifts his winner's check for $36,000 Sunday after winning the Andy Williams San Diego Open golf tournament. Watson set a course record with a total of 269, which was 19 under par. It's his second tournament win in a row. (AP Wirephoto)

Stockton Nonchalant About Connors Upset

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Stockton acted like he could not understand what all the excitement was about, why everyone was treating him as if he had just found a new supply of natural gas.

The 25-year-old Stockton shocked a crowd of 14,571 with a 3-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2 triumph Sunday over Jimmy Connors. The world's top-ranked tennis player.

But Stockton treated it nonchalantly, even though he had not beaten Connors since they were juniors in 1968. And then, according to Connors, Jimmy was just 3-feet-4 and 98 pounds.

"The upset should not have been that surprising. It completed the elimination of the top 10 seeded players, who fell like bowling pins all week.

Connors had not lost more than three games in any set in advancing to the final with victories over Buster Mittrant, Wojtek Fibak, Tony Roche and Cliff Drysdale.

He had enveloped himself in an aura of invincibility.

"People seem to have the opinion that it's Connors and then everybody else," said Stockton after picking up his $40,000 check as winner of the $200,000 U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championships.

"Sure, he's No. 1 in the world," said Stockton. "But there are a lot of players capable of beating him. Americans like myself who grew up with him are not awed by him and can beat him. Foreigners think there is no way to beat him."

It was Connors' first defeat in five World Championship Tennis tournaments over two years. He tried to take it in stride but disappointment was etched on his face.

"I'll play him many more times," said Connors. "I can't take one defeat too hard. Maybe I have to do a little bit of relaxing, get a little more mentally tough."

Stockton, who was born in New York and now lives in Carrolltown, Tex., felt the key game in the match came with him leading 3-1 in the fourth set, and trailing 40-0 on his own service. He rallied to win the game.

"If he (Connors) had won that game he could have run over me," Stockton said. Connors agreed.

Stockton earned $138,766 last year and ranked 10th best in the United States. He attended Trinity University and was an NCAA champion after winning the National Junior title over Connors. He has suffered from a back ailment during his pro career, which he says was aided by acupuncture treatment.

Stockton, who was eliminated in a four-set semifinal by Connors in this tourney last year, reached the final this time with victories over John Alexander, Brian Gottfried, Ken Rosewall and Jeff Borowiak.

It was the second straight loss in a final for Connors, who fell to Bjorn Borg in the Grand Slam event at Las Vegas last weekend. He earned $30,000 in Las Vegas and $20,000 for his second-place finish to Stockton.

In doubles, the first-seeded Australian pair of Bob Hewitt and Frew McMillan won the $14,000 first prize, defeating the fourth-seeded team of Poland's Fibak and Tom Okker of The Netherlands 6-1, 1-6, 6-3. Okker and Fibak won $7,000.

K-Wings Topple Toledo

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cold weather continued to play havoc with the International Hockey League schedule Sunday night, forcing cancellation of the Saginaw-Dayton match — the seventh IHL game called off since Friday night.

Led by two goals apiece from

And Fort Wayne's 6-4 victory over Columbus left the four

South division teams tied with 47 points apiece. In other IHL action, Flint came from behind to a 5-3 victory over Port Huron.

Television audiences in Kalamazoo and Toledo watched IHL scoring leader Dave Johnson of Toledo pick up his 41st and 42nd goals of the season, including the game opener at 3:52 of the first period.

The Wings surged ahead 4-1 by the beginning of the second period, when a pair of goals from Goaldiggers center Jim Johnston made it 4-3.

In the final period Kalamazoo erupted with a three-goal burst before Johnson finished Toledo's scoring effort. The Wings outshot Toledo 40-27.

Fort Wayne rightwing Ron Zabusi scored a breakaway goal with 7:10 left in the game to break a 4-4 tie, then added an empty net goal with less than a minute remaining to give the Komets their win over Columbus.

Ted Bulley scored two goals for Flint in the second period, but Port Huron surged back to take a 3-2 lead on goals by Murray Hanson, Doug Gillespie and Mike McDougall.

In the final period, Flint retaliated with goals by Jim Koteff, Terry Smith and Mike Clarke.

THE CHAMP: Muhammad Ali sits in the lockerroom, Saturday before taking on six opponents at Boston's Hynes Auditorium. Instead of ripples of muscles, there are ripples of flesh. Intensive training may take care of the flab, but no one can deny age — the self-proclaimed "greatest fighter of all time" is 35. (AP Wirephoto)

Skating Marks Fall

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The temperature finally rose above the zero mark and nine records fell at the National Speedskating Championships.

No records were set when subzero temperatures and bitterly harsh winds from the northwest sent the wind chill to nearly 40 degrees below zero Saturday, but the mercury actually reached seven above Sunday, apparently satisfying the skaters.

Mike Jensen, a 13-year-old from West Allis, Wis., swept all four races in the juvenile boys' division to win the overall title and he set a class record of 38.8 seconds in the 400 meters.

Two other entries from West Allis also won overall titles in their divisions.

Devonthea Boyce won three events, one in record time, in the juvenile girls and John Oleynski posted victories in the 300 and 500 meter races in the "midget boys". Miss Boyce won the 300, 400 and 500 meter races and turned in a record time of one minute, 28.73 seconds in the 500 meters.

Three more overall champions also won four races in divisions where there were more events.

John Chapin of St. Louis captured the senior men's overall title, Liz Crowe of Sunset Hills, Mo., the senior women's, and Craig Kessler of Midland, Mich., took the junior boys'. Kessler also established a record of 28.28 seconds in the 400 meters.

Other overall champions included Karen Lunce of Madison, Wis., in the intermediate women's division and Janice Schwartz of Rock Island, Ill., in the midget girls' class. Both won three events.

Videomatic Color TV

100% Solid-State. The most automatic one-button Color Television System...EVER!

SAVE $100

An electronic eye monitors the light in your room... and automatically adjusts the picture's balance of brightness, contrast and color to changing light for an eye-pleasing picture. It's never washed out; it never glares. Just touch the Videomatic button, and you'll have an easy-on-the-eyes picture — night or day. The Videomatic button also engages sophisticated electronic circuits which automatically lock in pre-set levels of:

- Brightness
- Contrast
- Color
- Tint

It also activates the automatic fine tuning circuitry for an accurately tuned picture on UHF and VHF channels. Even with the Videomatic button engaged, convenient up front controls permit you (not a service technician) to adjust the picture to suit your own personal viewing preference.

Illuminated UHF and VHF channel indicator windows. Even from across the room, you'll be able to readily see the channel to which you've tuned.

Automatic Color Leveling Circuit — helps maintain color intensity at a constant level by compensating for variations in color intensity, which can frequently occur from station to station and scene to scene.

Electronic Voltage Regulation — for critical circuits also improves the reliability of the picture tube by shielding it from harmful power line surges. It compensates for changes in line voltage (either up or down) to provide stable operating conditions — even in "brownout" situations.

300 Ohm Terminals — for normal outdoor antenna lead-in connection — as well as 75 Ohm VHF antenna terminal for easy, direct connection and improved reception on cable and master antenna systems.

Q: What does Hollywood think of the recent decision by the California Supreme Court that when unmarried couples stop living together their property may be apportioned between them just as if they were married? Q: I keep reading that David Janssen and his wife Dani are back together. Is this right? — M.M., Lafayette, La.

A: Despite what you've read, it's wrong. The clincher: Janssen just bought himself a $400,000 beach house in Malibu and Dani is living in an apartment in town. Wes Farrell, who just broke up with Tina Sinatra, is sharing the house with Janssen. Tina, meanwhile, to round all this out, is dating movie exec Dan Melnick.

A: Paul commissioned Warhol to do the cover for his new album "The Painter." Unfortunately, the LP isn't doing well and Anka may have serious regrets that he plunked down $40,000 to Warhol for the jacket.

A: At 64, Loretta is still remarkably youthful and beautiful. However, it is doubtful she'll ever resume her career, though hotshot young director Martin Scorsese wants to do a movie based on the life of the American saint, Mother Cabrini. It's a role the Catholic actress has always said she alone was meant to play. Still, Loretta has been hurt by personal misfortunes starting with the breakup of her second marriage years ago, then serious illness. Roughest of all are the rumors now surfacing about her love affairs with Spencer Tracy and Clark Gable, with two books suggesting that her adopted daughter is actually Gable's child.

Black Hawks Rout Barons Capitals Gain Respect

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was not long ago that the Washington Capitals were laughed at by the rest of the National Hockey League, following in the footsteps of their expansion predecessors.

Washington Coach, Tommy McVie appears to have ended those days, making his club into a determined group of athletes who still might lose more than they win, but not for lack of effort.

After beating the Pittsburgh Penguins 3-2 Saturday night, the Caps completed a successful weekend Sunday by gaining a 5-3 tie with the Philadelphia Flyers.

"We've made a lot of progress, and one day we hope to be as good as the Flyers," said McVie. "The fact that Philadelphia came from behind doesn't mean we're capable of knocking them off all the time."

That doesn't mean those days are far off. After the Flyers had come back four times for the tie, Coach Fred Shero expressed appreciation for the job McVie has done.

"He's put character into them," said Shero. "I didn't think it was possible, but Tommy's done it. Talent is no good unless you know how to work it."

Hard work had produced four victories in five games for the Caps before the Philadelphia game, a team that won a total of 18 games in its first two years in the NHL already has won 16 this season.

Rick MacLeish scored a power play goal with just 3:36

remaining, salvaging the tie for Philadelphia before a capacity crowd of 18,130 at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md.

In the other NHL games Sunday, the Montreal Canadiens edged the New York Islanders 2-1, the New York Rangers beat the St. Louis Blues 3-2, the Chicago Black Hawks routed the Cleveland Barons 9-3, the Penguins downed the Boston Bruins 5-2, and the Colorado Rockies bested the Minnesota North Stars 4-2.

The Los Angeles Kings' scheduled game against the Sabres was postponed due to blizzard conditions in the Buffalo area.

Yvan Cournoyer's goal midway through the second period lifted Montreal to its third straight victory over the Islanders this season and handed New York its third consecutive loss.

Center Phil Esposito scored a goal and set up two others for the Rangers, who extended their home domination of St. Louis. The Blues have not won at Madison Square Garden since Nov. 13, 1968.

Centers Stan Mikita, Ivan Boldirev and Jim Harrison scored two goals apiece, pacing Chicago's rout of Cleveland.

Rick Kehoe scored two goals and set up another, leading Pittsburgh past Boston.

Denis Duperre tipped in a Colin Campbell shot with 1:44 remaining for the winning goal in Colorado's triumph over Minnesota. The victory broke a three-way tie for third place in the Smythe Division, sending the Rockies two points ahead of the North Stars and Vancouver Canucks.

Wisconsin Icers Making Shambles Of WCHA Race

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

A lot of people may have thought University of Minnesota Coach Herb Brooks was crying wolf when he said three months ago that Wisconsin should runaway with the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

The Badgers are making good on the prediction by Brooks, who is crying for help, if anything, these days.

While Wisconsin continues to terrorize the WCHA, Minnesota's defending national champions are scrambling to make the playoffs.

Michigan Tech completed its sweep of Minnesota with a 7-5 victory Sunday and moved past the erratic Gophers into sixth place. Dave Joelson, who also scored two goals in Tech's 6-3 victory Saturday night, added two more Sunday along with teammate Greg Hay.

Steve Alley scored three goals as Wisconsin crushed Michigan State 9-2 Saturday night. The Badgers lifted their record to 18-4 in the WCHA and 21-6 overall.

In other games Saturday, Notre Dame and North Dakota completed weekend sweeps to remain in second and third place respectively.

The Fighting Irish notched an 8-6 victory at Colorado College while North Dakota took an 8-2 verdict over Michigan.

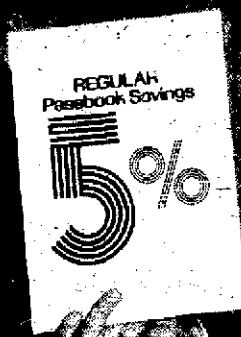

Terry Fairholm and Paul Clarke each scored their second goal of the game in the final period as Notre Dame snapped a 6-6 tie.

Clinic Reset

The Michigan High School Football Coaches' Association clinic scheduled for last weekend was postponed to Feb. 18-19 at Ann Arbor Pioneer high school. University of Michigan coach Bo Schembechler will be the featured speaker.

Casting Use Seen Rising

NEW YORK (AP) — By 1983, U.S. industry will use some 24 million tons of iron castings a year, approximately 20 per cent more than today, says Thomas R. Wiltze, president of the American Foundrymen's Society.

Chemical Control Agency Desired For State

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state lawmaker has drafted a bill establishing a chemical control agency in an attempt to avert dangers from toxic substances like PBB. Sen. John Hertel, D-Harper Woods, said his proposed commission "will have far-ranging and urgently needed powers to anticipate and prevent future chemical contamination." Gov. William Milliken also has called for a chemical unit to coordinate the activities of the departments of Public Health, Natural Resources and Agriculture to protect the state against such contaminations. Support for such a unit follows damage done by such chemicals as DDT, Mercury, PCBs and PBB. "It is time to do something to break this trend," Hertel said.

Detroit Super-Insulates Home

DETROIT (AP) — Fred Morris says he's found a way to beat the cold, the high price of heating fuel and the energy shortage.

Morris, a Detroit city building inspector, has covered the windows and doors of his home with fiberglass panels, foam plastic and fiberglass insulation to keep the heat inside and the cold out.

Barbra's Big Star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barbra Streisand, in a possible preview of the Academy Awards Oscar show, is the winner of three of the Hollywood Foreign Press Association's annual Golden Globe awards for "A Star Is Born."

And tears were shed when the award for best actor in a dramatic role was presented posthumously Saturday night to Peter Finch for his portrayal of a mad newscaster in "Network." He died two weeks ago.

Miss Streisand's "Star" honors included one as co-producer, along with her boyfriend Jon Peters. The movie was named best comedy or musical film. Along with lyricist Paul Williams, Miss Streisand collected an award for the best song, and she was named best actress in a comedy or musical for her starring role. Her costar, Kris Kristofferson, was named best actor in the same category.

But the film lost the best dramatic picture prize to the low-budget "Rocky," made by newcomer Sylvester Stallone.

Faye Dunaway was named best actress in a drama for her role as a power-hungry rising executive in "Network." The movie also won awards for best screenplay by Paddy Chayefsky and best direction by Sidney Lumet.

"The best way to keep your home warm is not to add more heat, but to keep the heat you have already produced from escaping," he says.

After insulating his attic, walls and even the cinder block foundation in his basement, the windows and doors were still leaking cold air. He decided to insulate those "energy intensive" areas where the heat loss is the greatest.

"Most people don't even have weather-stripping around their doors or caulking around their windows, so you can imagine what kind of heat loss they have," Morris says.

"Weather-stripping and caulking help, but my idea goes even further. It keeps everything from escaping through the window itself."

Morris uses one-inch thick ceiling tiles to insulate his windows. The tiles, used for suspended ceilings and readily available from building suppliers, cover the window from the inside.

These thermal shades can be removed easily to let in light or in case the window must be used for an emergency exit. A 2 foot by 4 foot, one-inch-thick ceiling tile sells for around $2.

For rarely used doors, Morris stacks fiberglass ceiling insulation between the storm door and the house door. The insulation is not attached to the door, which can easily be opened from the inside.

Morris says his insulation has trimmed his natural gas bill by $40 a month. He estimates it is costing him about $2.40 a day to heat his 1929 two-story brick and frame home, which measures about 2,500 square feet of floor space.

There are a few drawbacks to the thermal shades, Morris says.

The state building code requires one-tenth of the floor space in a house to be windows for proper ventilation and light. So any large window covering must be removable to avoid code violations.

The shades, which make the house look as if it has been closed up, don't allow enough light inside. But Morris contends most people keep their shades and curtains drawn nearly all the time anyway. And, he says, the thermal shades can be removed as easily as opening curtains or regular shades.

"At the rate we use energy, I think it's an awful shame to waste it by letting it just blow out the window," he says.

SHUTTING OUT THE COLD: Fred Morris fits sections of fiberglass ceiling insulation between storm door and a standard door in his home in northwest Detroit to cut heat loss. Panels are not permanent, and one may exit by opening doors and pushing out the light weight panels. Morris says this is an effective stopgap method to save on fuel bills. (AP Wirephoto)

Berrien Democrats Call Meeting Off

Bad weather Saturday forced cancellation of the Berrien county Democratic party winter meeting and changed the way delegates will be selected for the Democratic party state convention, Feb. 12-13, in Detroit.

Mrs. Margaret LaVanway of Eau Claire, county Democratic executive chairman, said County Chairman James Keller of New Buffalo will send the state central committee the list of all precinct delegates, elected at the August primary. Mrs. LaVanway said about 125 precinct delegates will be eligible to attend, but the county is entitled to 42 votes at the state meet. She said votes will be apportioned among the number who attend.

The delegate list was to be compiled at Saturday's meeting in the UAW hall, 1575 Territorial road, Benton township.

Van Buren Scrubs Democrat Conclave

COVERT — The Van Buren county Democratic party convention, scheduled to be held here Sunday, was postponed because of bad weather, according to party Chairman Leah Bennis.

Mrs. Bennis said no new date has been set because of the continued uncertainty of the weather. The convention will elect delegates to the state Democratic convention scheduled for Feb. 12 and 13.

South Haven Troopers 'Have Their Ears On'

SOUTH HAVEN — The South Haven state police post is now capable of monitoring and responding to CB traffic. The post has been equipped with a radio thanks to area CB enthusiasts and a contribution from Lewis Electronics of South Haven.

POLICE REPORT

$88 Is Reported Stolen From Bible

Benton Harbor police said 44 two-dollar bills that a Benton Harbor woman stored for safekeeping between the pages of a Bible were reported stolen Sunday night.

Bonoria Sewell, 43, of 1067 Colfax avenue, told police she heard noises while she was in bed upstairs. She said she went downstairs and discovered a cabinet lock had been broken and her Bible removed and emptied of money. She said the burglar was gone when she got downstairs.

Other thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were a metal mesh screen door from the Auction Store, 303 Pipestone, which was valued at $150; and a CB radio owned by Carol Douglas, 33, of Hochberger road, Pipestone township while her car was parked on Michigan street.

Benton township police said Steve Sobralski of 833 Paw Paw avenue, Benton township reported the theft of clothing and tools valued at $350 from his car as it was parked Sunday at the North Shore Inn, North Shore drive.

Vandal Hits Sheriff's Substation

GALLEN — Berrien sheriff's deputies were investigating a break-in at their substation here late this morning.

Deputies said a window had been broken to enter the building sometime last night. Vandalism to office equipment and supplies was extensive.

The deputies said they had not determined if anything was taken. The substation is located in a portion of the Galien township fire station on George street here.

Buchanan Home Is Burglarized

BUCHANAN — Mrs. Joy Hankins, 110 West Fourth street, Buchanan, told police here yesterday that $192 was taken from the bedroom of her unlocked home sometime prior to 1:30 p.m. in the day.

CONNOR'S DAD DIES — BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — James Connors Sr., father of tennis star Jimmy Connors, died Sunday night of cancer. He was 53.

Grant Application for the purpose of informing the citizens of Benton Township of proposals included in such application and also will receive the comments and views of interested persons.

Copies of said application will be available for review at the hearing and thereafter, at the Township Municipal Building, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Date: February 1, 1977

Place: Township Hall, 1725 Territorial Road, Benton Harbor, MI 49022

Time: After the Benton Township Board of Trustees meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Lee's Cast-Off Now A Heroine

Q: What does Hollywood think of the recent decision by the California Supreme Court that when unmarried couples stop living together their property may be apportioned between them just as if they were married? I'm thinking of Lee Marvin's ex-mistress who brought a suit against Marvin that resulted in the decision. — F.L., Salem, Mass.

A: The men are scared to death. There are a lot of current cast-off mistresses crouching in those Hollywood hills ready to Q: I keep reading that David Janssen and his wife Dani are back together. Is this right? — M.M., Lafayette, La.

A: Despite what you've read, it's wrong. The clincher: Janssen just bought himself a $400,000 beach house in Malibu and Dani is living in an apartment in town. Wes Farrell, who just broke up with Tina Sinatra, is sharing the house with Janssen. Tina, meanwhile, to round all this out, is dating movie exec Dan Melnick.

Q: We noticed that the cover of Paul Anka's new album was done by Andy Warhol. How did Anka get it? — E.R., Monterey, Calif.

A: Paul commissioned Warhol to do the cover for his new album "The Painter." Unfortunately, the LP isn't doing well and Anka may have serious regrets that he plunked down $40,000 to Warhol for the jacket.

Q: Is there any chance Loretta Young will ever come out of retirement and act again in movies or TV? — F.B., Springfield, Ill.

HENRY WINKLER

spring. To many of the women, Michelle Marvin, 36, is a heroine. She arrived at a star-studded party recently and was given a standing ovation by the female guests.

Q: I thought Henry Winkler was going to break into the movies in a big way. What happened? — T.J., Eugene, Ore.

A: It takes time for those high finance movie negotiations to jell but very soon Henry should be announcing he'll launch his film career by starring in the life story of the infamous wrestler Gorgeous George who made a fortune in the ring but died broke. Can you see your favorite ducttail with long, blond tresses?

PEOPLE

By Robin

Adams Sloan

A: At 64, Loretta is still remarkably youthful and beautiful. However, it is doubtful she'll ever resume her career, though hotshot young director Martin Scorsese wants to do a movie based on the life of the American saint, Mother Cabrini. It's a role the Catholic actress has always said she alone was meant to play. Still, Loretta has been hurt by personal misfortunes starting with the breakup of her second marriage years ago, then serious illness. Roughest of all are the rumors now surfacing about her love affairs with Spencer Tracy and Clark Gable, with two books suggesting that her adopted daughter is actually Gable's child.

We received this letter from George C. Cope,
Executive Vice President, Grocer's Dairy Company.

To reassure you and your customers of the healthfulness of Country Fresh Dairy Products your dairy has on a regular basis, had the WARF Laboratory of the University of Wisconsin conduct tests for the presence of PBB. These tests were and are run on finished products as well as our raw milk supply.

Over two and half years ago we eliminated from our milk supply, milk from farms showing even the slightest trace of PBB. To protect you we continue to monitor our raw milk supplies about every fourteen days.

On the same basis we do check all finished products for PBB.

Since June of 1974, Country Fresh Dairy Products have been free of any detectable PBB. Country Fresh Dairy Products are completely safe and nutritious. From an overall nutritional standpoint milk is still the best buy in your store.

Your dairy has been so concerned about PBB that we have spent over $13,000 in 1976, testing, testing and re-testing to make absolutely certain that Country Fresh milk and dairy products are PBB free.

We will continue this program through 1977.

Stock Prices 'Chilled'

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower today, chilled by continuing concern over the prospective impact of a bitter cold winter on the economy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down more than 2 points in the early going.

Losers took a 4-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the dominant concern among investors was the squeeze on energy supplies and economic activity prompted by severe cold temperatures for the last several weeks in many parts of the nation.

Today's early prices included Alcoa, down 1/4 at 52 1/2; Southern Co., unchanged at 16 1/2; and Gulf Oil, up 3/4 at 31.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average picked up 2.90 to 957.53, cutting its loss for the week to 4.90 points.

But losers outnumbered gainers by about an 8-7 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 22.70 million shares, against 24.36 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index added .05 to 55.49.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .07 at 111.74.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Take Care Of Your Living Needs First

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I am a woman of 63, with assets of about $100,000. After my death, I want my two adult children to have an income from this money all their lives — no matter how small. So I have established a trust fund at a bank because I feel my son would squander his half of the money in six months. What is your opinion of this fund?

A. I can't have any opinion because I don't know anything about this particular bank or its funds. Furthermore, I know nothing about the property and estate laws of your state. I'm far more interested in:

How are your lifetime living needs being met — now? How is the fund invested? (You're a young woman who must still face up to considerable inflation.) Is the emphasis being kept on meeting your present and future needs — or on guaranteeing a lifetime income — "no matter how small" — for your children? (There could be a big difference in the investment plans.)

About the only thing I can say definitely is that if you have in any way impaired your income from this money or your ability to use it, in its entirety, you've been unwise.

A woman, 83, who now worries about an income for children well into the 21st century is engaged in an exercise in futility. If you haven't imbued your son with any respect for money by now how can you be assured that even the income you hope to provide all his lifetime won't go for beads or for the support of some wacky movement — and not for warm clothing and nourishing food?

This problem of parental provision for children — after the parents are gone — has been coming up with increasing frequency in recent mail. I suppose it is a sign of some affluence that parents have enough funds to even consider providing for their children's lifetime. (Although in most cases I am inclined to believe it represents, far more often, not affluence but foolish self-denial on the parents' part.)

Other than "spend and enjoy" the money yourself, the only suggestion I can make is to see an attorney or expert in estate planning and learn what you can do to control funds after you've gone. But not at the cost of reducing your own living standards.

Q. Can you explain setting two ex-dividend dates for a stock split? It seems to me I lost about 70 shares by the change in "ex" dates.

A. I'm not sure I understand the question. "Ex" dates are generally not shifted. In any event, the reason I am printing your question is not to explain such a shift — I can't. I just want to assure you that one does not lose shares or money merely by failing to hold through a stock split "ex" date.

If a company announces, for example, a 2-for-1 split of a stock currently selling at $80 and there is some question of whether you held your stock long enough, or sold it too soon, you can always determine whether you "got in" on the split by the cash proceeds of your sale.

If you received $8,000 for your 100 shares (ignoring commissions) you sold the old, pre-split stock and are not entitled to 100 additional shares.

If your proceeds were only about $4,000 your broker evidently sold 100 shares of the new, post-split stock and you are entitled to receive another 100 shares of that new stock.

In short: you can't get the pre-split price on a sale and expect more shares. And if you get the post-split price you have the additional shares coming to you.

MR. SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

IBM Board Gives And Receives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The revolving door between the corporate board room and high offices in Washington spins a little faster during the transition between administrations.

International Business Machines Corp. has announced the addition of three former Ford administration officials to its board of directors. William Coleman, the former secretary of transportation; William Scranton, the former ambassador to the United Nations; and T. Vincent Learson, who was the president's special representative for the Law of the Sea Conference.

The vacancies on the IBM board were caused by the resignations of three directors: Cyrus Vance, Patricia Roberts Harris and Harold Brown. All three left to take Cabinet posts with the new Carter administration.

Scranton and Learson were members of the IBM board before they entered government service.

U-M Economists Say Tax Cut Will Only Buy Time

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The nation's economic outlook for 1977 is favorable but sluggish, and a $13 billion income tax cut is only expected to buy time, say two University of Michigan economists.

GE Agrees To Trim Its TV Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today made public a proposed consent order that prohibits General Electric from falsely advertising the reliability of its television sets.

The order followed allegations by the FTC that GE had no adequate proof to back up its 1973 claims that its sets required "less service" than any comparable American-made models. In fact, the FTC alleged, GE had some evidence to the contrary.

The company admitted nothing by signing the order, and it was not assessed a penalty.

It did agree not to advertise in the future that its products were superior to any others unless it had acceptable proof of its claims and was willing to supply the proof to interested consumers.

The FTC will not require GE to pay for independent tests to back up its advertising claims, allowing the company to continue to conduct its own evaluations.

We received this letter from George C. Cope,
Executive Vice President, Grocer's Dairy Company.

To reassure you and your customers of the healthfulness of Country Fresh Dairy Products your dairy has on a regular basis, had the WARF Laboratory of the University of Wisconsin conduct tests for the presence of PBB. These tests were and are run on finished products as well as our raw milk supply.

Over two and half years ago we eliminated from our milk supply, milk from farms showing even the slightest trace of PBB. To protect you we continue to monitor our raw milk supplies about every fourteen days.

On the same basis we do check all finished products for PBB. Since June of 1974, Country Fresh Dairy Products have been free of any detectable PBB. Country Fresh Dairy Products are completely safe and nutritious. From an overall nutritional standpoint milk is still the best buy in your store.

Your dairy has been so concerned about PBB that we have spent over $13,000 in 1976, testing, testing and re-testing to make absolutely certain that Country Fresh milk and dairy products are PBB free.

We will continue this program through 1977.
